An Act providing that any and all damages sustained by a person or corporation by the laying out opening altering narrowing vacating extending grading or widening of any street road, avenues, highway, thoroughfare, lane or alley within the limits of any borough within the Commonwealth shall be recoverable against the municipality or borough corporation wherein such streets, roads, etc., are laid out, opened, etc., and not against the county or counties wherein such borough is situated.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE AND REPORT TO THE NEXT SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE ALL MATTERS PERTAINING TO THE CONSTRUCTION OF A SHIP CANAL ACROSS THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY CONNECTING THE PORT OF PHILADELPHIA WITH THE ATLANTIC OCEAN AND MAKING AN APPROPRIATION TO MEET EXPENSES OF SAID COMMISSION.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chairs hears none.

Mr. McNICHOL offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Whereas, The suggestion has been made by members of the Board of Strategy of the Navy Department of the United States, that a ship canal across New Jersey connecting the port of Philadelphia with the Atlantic Ocean would make the Philadelphia Navy Yard the greatest naval station in the world, and

Whereas, Such a ship canal of the width and depth of the Panama Canal would increase greatly the commercial and manufacturing prospertiy of the State of Pennsylvania, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs), That a committee of six members of the General Assembly be appointed, three to be appointed by the president pro tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House of Representatives to investigate and to report at the next session of the General Assembly their findings upon the following questions:

1. The feasibility and advisability of a ship canal across New Jersey.
2. The route of such canal.
3. The total cost of its construction.
4. The share that should be borne by the State of Pennsylvania, Provided, That the actual expenses incurred by the committee in this investigation shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) which shall be provided for in the General Appropriation Bill.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, May 3, 1915.

The House met at 8:00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that we have our exalted citizenship in a great nation, protected by a powerful government. We thank Thee that we have our happy homes in a great State, surrounded with farms and industries and schools and colleges and churches, over which the dove of peace has spread its broad, white wings. It is not so on the other side of the waters; great nations are in dreadful conflict; millions of men are dead, millions more are wounded and dying.

Oh, God, tonight pity the mothers, pity the wives, pity the orphaned children, who are making the sacrifices and who are paying the awful price for such a cruel war. Oh, God, hasten the day when this war shall end, when all nations shall become one great brotherhood, over which shall rest the fatherhood of God, and Thy great name, Oh, God, shall have all the praise in that world without end. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 29th, 1915.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 29th, 1915, when, on motion of Mr. Scott, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be prepared for final passage.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 291.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 29, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 291, entitled "An Act to authorize any railroad company street railway company or any transportation company incorporated or unincorporated to issue or grant transportation at special reduced and lower rates to ministers of religion."

This bill contemplates granting reduced rates of travel on railroads to ministers of religion. These ministers merit at the hands of the people and of the Commonwealth the highest consideration. But they must, like all other citizens, conform to constitutional and statutory provisions. They have no legal status other than that of citizens, however high they should be esteemed by all persons for their unselfish and holy services.

Section 2, Article 17, of the Constitution clearly intends to prohibit absolutly any undue or unreasonable discrimination between individuals. No special concessions to anyone are permissible. The Act of May 31, 1907 (P. L. 354) indicates clearly that this permission is mandatory by making it a misdemeanor even to attempt its violation. Moreover the Supreme Court has specifically held (Mercur vs. Media Electric Co. 19 Supreme Court 519) the class of people does not fall within the catagory of items in which reasonable discrimination is permissible. The mandatory provision of section 7 of the same article of the Constitution directly opposes the purpose of this bill.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. GANS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 248.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 29, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 248, entitled "An Act authorizing courts to make awards to foreign executors and administrators in certain cases."

This bill empowers the proper court to the turning over of estate of a resident decedent to a non-resident personal representative. It permits personal property to be taken out of the State without bond. This is of doubtful propriety. The function of a State law should be to protect the people of the State.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. LAUER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 247.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 29, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 247, entitled "An Act amending an act entitled 'An Act amending an act entitled 'An Act respecting the estate of non-resident wards' approved the twenty-first day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply to trustees and cestui que trusts" approved the thirteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine further extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply where guardians and wards trustees and cestui que trusts are residents of foreign countries."

This bill amending the act of April 21, 1856, permits property of a non-resident to be taken out of the State at any time before the limitations for proving claims have expired. This may work to the prejudice of resident creditors since it would require such creditors to go to a court of domicile to prove claims. It would seem wise to protect creditors at home.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. LAUER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 89.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 29, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 89, entitled "An Act to amend an act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven entitled 'An Act to provide revenue and regulate the sale of malt brewed vinous and spirituous liquors or any admixture thereof by requiring and authorizing licenses to be taken out by brewers distillers wholesalers bottlers rectifiers compounders storekeepers and agents having a store office or place of business within this Commonwealth prescribing the amount of license fees to be paid in such cases and by imposing an additional license fee on retail dealers in intoxicating liquors' as amended."

This bill sets aside a per centum of the liquor licenses in cities of the first and second class for the police pension funds of said cities. The pension fund of policemen is a sacred and should be a secure and certain fund. It should not rest for its integrity, upon the uncertainty of a changing and uncertain sum such as these license fees are, and are more likely to be. Moreover, it is unfair to the police force of these cities to be embarrassed in the performance of their duties or in the giving of testimony before a court of record by the effect of such action upon a fund so vital to their own heirs and those of their colleagues who with them have done fearlessly a notable service.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 913.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 3, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 913, entitled: "An Act to amend section one thousand three hundred and eleven of an act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing the penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith.'"

This bill proposes to validate certain permanent certificates issued prior to one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and mandamuses the Department of Public Instruction to do this.

When the School Code became operative, every provision that was necessary and proper was made to care for the professional spirit of our teachers and to safeguard them in their rights.

A new method has been set forth in that Code, by which every worthy teacher may without trouble establish his rights and secure suitable certificate for services in the public schools of this Commonwealth. To admit to the professional corps at this time a body of teachers which professional judgment at that time did not admit would be reactionary and contrary to the best interests of the children taught and to be taught in the schools.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. DIEFENDERFER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto together with the bill be laid upon the table.

Mr. LOVE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1137.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 3, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 1137, entitled: "An Act making an appropriation for the refunding to the Ridge Avenue Farmers' Market Company certain moneys for the unexpired portion of a cold storage warehouse license."

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1025, as follows:

An Act providing for the creation and regulation of municipal liens for curbing and proceedings for the collection thereof in the several boroughs of this Commonwealth

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever heretofore the council of any incorporated borough of this Commonwealth has required by ordinance and caused to be curbed with stone or other suitable material any public street or thoroughfare or part thereof either cartway or footway or both or is now causing such curbing pursuant to such odinance but owing to some defect in the ordinance or other proceedings necessary under existing law and ordinance to give jurisdiction to such council or owing to the notice to the property owners to set or construct said curbing in pursuance of said ordinance not being served personally upon the property owner or his agent or person in possession of the property as required under existing laws or owing to said notice or the service thereof or other notices necessary under existing laws and ordinances to give proper jurisdiction to such council being defective for any other reason the cost charges and expenses of such improvement or portion thereof cannot be legally assessed upon the property fronting upon the street or part thereof improved as contemplated by the act or acts of the General Assembly under which the improvement was attempted to be made or whenever heretofore the council of any borough aforesaid has assessed the cost charges and expenses of said improvement upon the properties fronting upon the improvement as contemplated by the law under which the impovement was made but liens therefor were not filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county wherein the property lies within the time required by the act or acts of the General Assembly in such cases made and provided or where said assessments are invalid for any or all of the reasons set forth above now by this act such improvements and such assessments are made valid and binding and where the assessment has not heretofore been made the council of such incorporated borough may cause the property fronting upon the street or part thereof upon which the improvement has been made or is now being made to be assessed in the manner now provided by law with such a portion of the cost charges and expenses of such improvement as is contemplated by the law under which the improvement was made or is now being made such assessment heretofore made as aforesaid or now made in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be a lien upon the property assessed The lien shall date from the completion of the improvement for which the assessment is made and shall remain a lien until fully paid and satisfied Provided That a writ of scire facias is issued to revive the same during every period of five years after lien is filed as hereinafter provided The said borough may collect such claims or assessments or any of them by action in assumpsit in manner now provided by law

Section 2 The council of any incorporated borough of this Commonwealth entitled to a lien under this act shall file a lien therefor in the office of the prothonotary of the county within which the property lies within six months after the completion of the work where the improvement is now in progress or within six months after the approval of this act where an improvement is now completed and the same shall be entered upon record as other municipal claims Such liens shall state the name of the party claimant which shall be the corporate name of the borough making the improvement the name of the owner or reputed owner of the property assessed a reasonable description of the property assessed the amount or sum claimed to be due which shall include interest on the assessment from the completion of the improvement an attorney's commission of five per centum for collecting for what improvement the claim is made the date of its completion the date of the assessment for which the lien is filed Such lien when so filed shall be prima facie evidence of all matters therein set forth and the right of the borough to recover the amount therein claimed to be due together with interest from the date of the lien or completion of the improvement costs charges and an attorney's commission of five per centum for collecting

Section 3 The lien when so filed shall be proceeded upon for collection by writ of scire facias The said writ shall be made returnable to the monthly or other return day in the respective courts and shall be served upon the owner or reputed owner personally or by leaving a copy thereof duly attested with an adult member of his family or the family in which he resides at least ten days before the return day thereof If the owner of the property cannot be found or has no residence within the county in which the property lies the sheriff shall thereupon return the said writ nihil and thereupon an alias scire facias may issue which shall be served by notice posted upon the premises stating the substance of the writ at least ten days prior to the return day and also by advertisement in at least two newspapers published in the county in which the premises are located once a week for three successive weeks Such posting and publication shall be equivalent to a service

Section 4 If the writ shall have been served and no appearance entered on or before the return day thereof the plaintiff therein shall be entitled to judgment after the return day thereof for the debt interest costs and attorney's commission if an appearance be entered the plaintiff shall also be entitled to judgment unless a sufficient affidavit of defense be filed within fifteen days after the return day If such affidavit be filed the case shall be proceeded with in accordance with the rules of law and the practice of the courts

Section 5 When the final judgment shall have been entered upon such lien the plaintiff therein may have a writ of levari facias and upon the same the sheriff shall cause the said property to be advertised for sale in at least two newspapers of the proper county once a week for three weeks before the day of sale and shall also give notice by at least ten handbills posted in conspicuous places one of which shall be posted upon the property of the time and place of sale and thereupon shall proceed to sell the same The place of sale shall be the sheriff's office The proceeds of sale shall be distributed according to law

Section 6 The term "owner or reputed owner" as used in this act shall mean any person or persons in open peaceable and notorious possession of property Remaindermen or other persons interested in expectancy not having been heard and aggrieved by such final judgment upon petition presented in the proper court may have the judgment opened at any time before the sale of the property and be allowed to defend when in the judgment of the court such opening is necessary to secure justice to all parties Sale of the property shall preclude all persons from setting up anything contrary to the record

Section 7 Nothing in this act shall be taken to restrict the right of either plaintiff or defendant in proceeding under it to appeal as in other cases

NAYS—3.

Erdman,
Wettach,
Wilson, W. H.,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. HOLLINGSWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 432 (House Bill No. 949), File Folio 709, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act for the protection of the public health and the prevention of fraud and deception by regulating the storage and sale of cold storage foods fixing penalties for the violation of the provisions thereof and providing for the enforcement thereof" was defeated on April 27th be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the motion which is now before the House is to reconsider the vote by which the bill repealing the present cold storage law was defeated on third reading. I sincerely hope that this motion will not prevail. While I do not desire any remarks which I might make to appear in criticism of the gentlemen who have made this motion, because we all know that every motion to reconsider must be made by those who vote in the majority, yet I do desire to state that this very motion bears out in detail the argument which I made against this bill when it was before this House for its consideration last week. Ah that time I called the House's attention to the fact that there had been two bills dealing with the cold storage question introduced in the Senate. One bill was the so-called Uniform Cold Storage Law which was introduced on the ninth of March, or sometime in February rather, reported out of committee and had two hearings and then was recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation of the Senate on the same day on which this cold storage repealer was introduced in the Senate; that cold storage repealer, the present bill, being hurried through the Senate on three successive readings and then sent over to this House.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there is no doubt in my mind but that this attempt to reconsider this repealing bill, after it was once defeated, bears out conclusively the statement which I made last week, that this was nothing more than legislative jugglery. I showed to the House, and I thing conclusively,—certainly the result as shown by the vote bore me out in that respect—that the Senate was not acting fairly with this House on this proposition; that if this House would pass this repealer that nothing further would be heard of the amended bill known as the Uniform Cold Storage law. The desperate efforts made by those who are interested in this business is conclusive proof to my mind of the justification of my remarks of last week. If this vote is reconsidered and this repeal bill comes before this House and if passed tonight I repeat, as I stated last week, that nothing further would be heard of that Uniform Cold Storage Law. I have been advised tonight, although I have not had time to verify the report, that since the defeat of this measure last week the Uniform Cold Storage Law has again been sent from the Committee on Health and Sanitation in the Senate and is on the Senate calendar; and I say, Mr. Speaker, that to reconsider the vote by which this repealer was defeated last week is stultifying this House, especially in view of the fact that there has been no argument advanced by any one, either inside or outside of the cold storage business, in which they advocated a complete repeal of the present existing cold storage law; that all of their arguments have been based upon the assertions that the present existing law contains certain drastic features, most notably, those dealing with the time limits in which cold storage products may be kept in cold storage; and that they are satisfied with regulations under the Dairy and Food Commissioners; that they are satisfied that cold storage goods should be so marked; and their sole fight on this proposition is to so eliminate the drastic features, if they exist, of the present existing law so that that law may be put out as they term it, upon a working basis.

Now, for this House, with all the energy that has been placed in this proposition, with all the strings which have been pulled in dealing with this repealer, to say that we will fly in the face of the very argument advanced by those who are interested in the cold storage business; that we will fly in the face of the communities of this Commonwealth who consume these goods and say to you, Mr. Consumer, irrespective of the position which is taken by those who advocate a change in the cold storage law, that we, by the reconsideration of this vote, that we, by the passage of this repealer, intend to wipe away from our Statute Books all of the regulations which have been thrown about this business for the good of the community at large, I repeat, Mr. Speaker, is to put this House in a stultifying position. If the Senate is fair with this House, if those who are advocating a change in the cold storage law are fair with you men who are sent here to represent the best interests of your constituents, and when I say that, I say the interests of your constituents at large and not any particular man who may be engaged in any particular business,—then I say, Mr. Speaker, that we are unfaithful to our trust if we, with our eyes open, permit the Senate of Pennsylvania to resort to such tactics as are resorted to in the advocacy of this repealing law, to place ourselves upon record as reconsidering the vote by which that repealing law was defeated last week and then go on record by passing that repealer, it is not fair to ourselves; it is not fair to our constituents at home, and especially in view of the fact that no further argument can be advanced than as shown here last week in support of this general repealer; I say that the fair thing for this House to do, and the honest thing for this House to do, is not to put a bill of this kind up to the Governor of this Commonwealth where there can be no arguments advanced for his signing it and which, to my judgment, would result in the veto of the bill; and to put ourselves upon the record by saying, no, we will not reconsider this bill, we will not pass this repealed bill; but if you gentlemen of the Senate want to act fair with the people of the Commonwealth, send along your amending bill and if your amendments are proper and fair, under the circumstances we will join you in doing whatever is right and just. And, Mr. Speaker, I ask, in all sincerity, that the members of this house support us in voting down this motion.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not feel very able to take up this argument but if you will bear with me I will try to give you my views on this proposition. I am not going to speak to you from the standpoint of an attorney who has never had anything to do or never been brought in contact with this business. I am going to speak to you from the standpoint of a man who has been in contact with this business and knows exactly how this law is operating that is on the Statute Books.

First, I want to remove from your minds, this, perhaps, delusion: There is nothing whatever in this particular bill that we are about to submit to the House on the question of repealing it, that protects the public health of the citizenship of the State of Pennsylvania in any way whatever, that is not already provided by the Statutes of Pennsylvania; and, my friends, provided for in a manner which is so much more exhaustive and so much more thorough than anything that is contained in this bill, that this bill is simply a feeble repetition of the Statute of 1909. Now, to prove my statement conclusively to you I will read to you the Statute of 1909 on the subject of pure foods and unwholesome foods as they are provided for in the Statute of 1909 and then I will call your attention to exactly what this particular act says and does that will in any way protect the health of the citizenship of the State of Pennsylvania. If I can satisfy you that this bill is not needed in any way to protect the health of the people, to prevent their being defrauded by unwholesome foods being thrust upon them through deception, if I can show you that the Statute of 1909 more thoroughly and more carefully and more fully covers that than this Statute, the repealing of this Statute then will not involve the question of public health; it will not involve the question of deception or fraud upon the public but it will bring the question down to where it actually belongs.

I was extremely disappointed that I was unable to be here last week. I had been looking ahead to this proposition and examining it very thoroughly. So soon as the House adjourned last week I, by telephone, asked for the remarks that were made upon the bill. I read the remarks of the gentleman who advocated the repeal of this act. I read the remarks of those who opposed the repeal. I was under the impression myself that those who opposed the repeal made their greatest impression upon the membership of this House by leading them to believe that the public health was endangered by the repeal of this act.

I would like to hurry, but I hope you will have patience with me, because, my friends, I want to say this to you, this is a matter of very grave importance to the citizenship of Pennsylvania. This is not a bill of just passing interest, but it is a bill that after being placed upon the statute books was found to work the exact opposite from what, no doubt, the friends who passed it, believed that it would. Therefore, I am going to try to conserve my strength as much as possible, and explain the matter as thoroughly as I am capable of.

Of course, in passing a Pure Food law it is essential to define the word "Food." It is essential at the start. Now, the act we are about to repeal does define the word "Food" as it is to be taken and considered in that act. The Pure Food Law, as known in the State of Pennsylvania,—the Act of 1909, you all, no doubt, know better than I do, that it was really a revision of the first Pure Food law placed on the Statute Books, which was placed there in 1895. It was found that the Act of 1895 was deficient in many, many respects. It was to repeal that act that this particular act was placed upon the Statute Books. The term "Food," as construed, and shall be considered under the law of Pennnsylvania, and this particular act shall include not only every article used for food by man, but also every article used for, or entering into the composition of, or intended for use as an ingredient in the preparation of food, for man.

Now, that is the Act of 1909. It was on the statute books before the Act of 1913 was thought of. It gave the Dairy and Food Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania the power to protect the public not only from unwholesome food, but from any,—perhaps I had better read it to you, so it will be just as it appears in the Statute—"If any substance has been mixed or packed with it so as to reduce or lower, or injuriously affect its quality, strength or purity, if any valuable constituent of an article has been wholly or in part abstracted"—or in other words, if there has anything been added to it of a deleterious character, or anything abstracted from the product commonly known as a food,—and as an illustration we will take lard—you realize they abstract the oil from it. As an illustration this act allowed nothing to be put into it,—no dilution, but it did not allow anything to be taken from it. Now, you see the definition of the word "Food," under the Act of 1909, is so broad and so sweeping, that it is the last word on that subject. How is the word "Food" defined in the act we are now asking you to repeal? Why the word "Food" in the Act of 1913,—"The term 'Food' as used in this act shall mean fresh flesh of animals, fresh products therefrom, fresh flesh of fowls, fresh food, fish, eggs and butter, every one of which, insofar as it may be put upon the market, either diluted or in an unwholesome manner, is absolutely protected by the Act of 1909.

I think that ought to satisfy the members of this House, that insofar as the public health is endangered by the passage of this repealer, no man need hesitate a moment to vote "Aye" when the roll is called. If it be admitted that the public health is absolutely protected, even though this act be repealed, the question is, what is the intention of the act and what will it accomplish and what will be its benefits. If the public health will be better protected by that particular statute staying on the statue books, in your judgment you should vote no, provided the harm that is done, as compared with the good that might be done, means that the good to be accomplished is so infinitesimally small, that the great injury to the interests of our own State stand paramount to it, then you should vote "Aye."

I want to say to you that having been in contact with this business, and having had a knowledge of how the business is conducted for a period of over twenty years, that I say most emphatically to you,—and I propose to prove it and show it to you—that there is not one atom of public good has ever come out of that act and there will not one atom of public good to the citizenship of Pennsylvania, come out of that act if you keep it on the Statute books. That is, when you come to read it, one of the most peculiarly drawn bills I have ever had the fortune to examine,—this particular Act of 1913. I venture you have not read the act closely and studied it carefully. The most remarkable feature of this bill, if you will read it, is the fact that there are seventeen sections of the bill that have hamstrung and hogtied the citizenship of the State of Pennsylvania and have opened the markets of the cold storage people outside the State of Pennsylvania wide open, wide open. If that is true, is there a man in this House will vote to keep this bill on the statutes? I don't believe there is. I don't believe that my friends, the three attorneys, who, I noticed in the Legislative Journal of last week, opposed this repeal,—there was not a thought in their argument that indicated to me that they are intimately and personally acquainted with how this bill affected the interests of the people of Pennsylvania.

I am not going to allow you by reading the provisions surrounding those men who are citizens of our own State, because I believe, in a general way, you know well enough what it does. Section three of this act starts out and says, "The term "Cold Storage warehouse,"—you realize it must define what is a cold storage warehouse before the Food Commissioner would know that somebody was violating the cold storage law—they define the word "Food" as it is to be taken in this act, they define the word "Cold storage warehouse" as it is to be taken in this act, and to be enforced and administered by the Dairy and Food Commissioner,—the term "Cold storage warehouse" as used in this act shall mean an establishment employing refrigerating machinery or ice for the purpose of refrigeration"—now, watch, mark what I told you, not only refrigerating machinery, but ice for the purpose of refrigeration,—"or a place otherwise artificially cooled, in which articles of food are stored for a period of thirty days or longer."

What do you suppose was the idea of putting it in there, if you had a cold storage warehouse and did not store for more than thirty days, if you had a refrigerating plant and did not store anything in it for over thirty days, why should it not still be a refrigerating plant? Why is it that unless it is used as a refrigerating plant, to store products for more than thirty days, it is not to be known as a refrigerating plant. I would like somebody to tell me, and I will venture that there is not a man in the House that can answer, because we have not given enough thought to the subject. I will tell you what that is in there. It is that ebony-hued gentleman we talk so much about being in the wood-pile. That is why it is in there.

There is not a cold storage plant in the State of Pennsylvania,—there is none in Philadelphia at least—that is owned and operated by your so-called great packing houses outside of the State of Pennsylvania that has been declared to be a cold storage plant. They can take their products coming in on a refrigerating car, and put them in their cold storage plants,—no, no, it isn't a cold storage plant. It is cooled just the same, and operated just the same, but it is not a cold storage plant.

Why, Why? Because then they would be brought down into competition with the people,—the small dealers of the State of Pennsylvania. You have none of that class of institutions in the State of Pennsylvania. Just let me read something to you. Now, you heard what I said about the cold storage plant, as defined in this act, Section three, and then it went along and hamstrung and hogtied the Pennsylvania small dealer and the Pennsylvania warehouse man for the benefit of the warehouses from outside of the State of Pennsylvania and for the benefit of the great packing trust outside the State of Pennsylvania. But, hold, on, there might be a mistake. After the bill had been written,—the author wrote along section after section, tieing everything up tighter and tighter against the Pennsylvania citizen, and then when he got done he thought to himself,—he said "Hold on here, oh, my goodness, I have my friends tied up, these great packing trusts are tied up too. I will have to let them out somewhere. What can I put in this bill? I have got the idea. Down in section 20, there is where I will take care of them. "Nothing is this act shall be construed to prohibit the shipping, consigning or transporting of fresh food in properly refrigerating cars."—No, not refrigerating, they change it now; they call it a "cooling room" for the purpose of the accommodation to make it perfectly safe for those people to get into Pennsylvania to the disadvantage of those Pennsylvanians. That is the way it reads. Section three, so far as Pennsylvanians are concerned, any ordinary man that cannot afford to build a storage plant of his own, when he is in the Philadelphia market and he has something left over for the next week and desires to have goods from any cold storage plant, when it comes out he must put a tag on it and he must tell the people that it is "wholesome cold storage food. That is a peculiarity, isn't it? Did you ever see anything else on the statute books of Pennsylvania that required a man, before he could sell an article but that he has to say it was wholesome. That is the only act of this kind in any state of the Union. Is there a member of the Dairy and Food Commission there to watch these goods come out? No. Most likely there is nobody there when they went in, but the warehouse man has to tag a record of it upon the goods and the dairy and food commissioner don't know whether it was wholesome when it went in, but the act does provide that the dairy and food commissioner can go through this warehouse and examine these goods at any time and see whether they are properly stamped and labeled and also to see whether they are in a room that is in good sanitary condition. Mark you, that is a cold storage warehouse owned by the citizenship of the State of Pennsylvania, when eggs are put into it for the protection of the public health of the people of Pennsylvania. At least that is what it says in the bill; that is what it says here. That is what the title says in the bill and that is what it is here for and for no other purpose. Yet at the very same time, within the self same statute they allow the people outside of the State of Pennsylvania to bring their eggs in and put them into—well, we will give it the new name, not cold storage but the "cooling room." Well, if anybody ever took the trouble to go into this cooling room that they are talking about here in section 17, as they exist in the State of Pennsylvania and operated by these outside packing men, they would get so cold that it would freeze whatever you put into them and I don't know why it should not have taken the same name, that it does in Pennsylvania when products are put into it. I realize that my young friends, the attorneys from the City of Philadelphia, go astray in their argument on this bill. I fully realize why a man who does not have an intimate knowledge of a business may draw a wrong conclusion. I have not any doubt at all; in fact I know it that if I was to walk into one of the great courts in the City of Philadelphia or any other court room in the State of Pennsylvania and try, as an attorney, to defend some one in that court room that I would make a fool of myself because I don't know anything about the business or profession. I don't know anything about the rules of the court; I don't know anything about the conducting of law suits and the management of suits in the courts and I never will know by reading books. I will have to go into the business to learn. I want to say to my friends, the attorneys of the City of Philadelphia, that written all through your remarks of last week is that evidence. One of the gentlemen of Philadelphia stated something which was evidence that he did not intimately understand the proposition, by the fact that he was quoting something that had been told him. The result was that he said or read it and I don't know whether he held the paper before you gentlemen in this House, but it is in his remarks as published in the Journal of the proceedings, that there was a certain publication in Philadelphia that had made some statement in regard to how the cold storage law had reduced the prices. My friend here from Philadelphia told that with great emphasis that that is a publicatioin of their own. Why, my dear friends, the egg and butter produce organization of the City of Philadelphia has not and never did have a publication of its own since it has been organized. That is a little penny sheet that a certain publisher down there sells among the commission men because he pays particular attention or paid particular attention to the markets in regard to those particular products, butter and eggs. In other words, the produce men dealt with him and out of it I suppose he was making something of a compensation to live on. My friend, the attorney from Philadelphia, was utterly, utterly mistaken. Now, I recollect, well, that in his remarks he spoke about conditions two or three years ago and he said, "The conditions in the City of Philadelphia were horrible." Now, the word "horrible" is a horrible word it is calculated I believe when it is sent out by the vocal organs of an ordinary man, to give the public the impression—and I don't know of any modifying word or any defining word—but I just say it gives the impression that the conditions in Philadelphia were "horrible." Nobody else ever heard of it. I was down there in the City of Philadelphia in this particular business and was closely associated with them and I went down over the line and bought the very same products myself and I never saw what the gentleman refers to as being "horrible," and I don't believe any other person did see anything that was horrible. The trade was going along then just as it is going along now, namely: Every man that had anything to sell was getting the best price he could get for it and any man that wanted to buy anything could buy it as cheap as he could. In this definition of the word "horrible" then, whatever the conditions were, if they were horrible at that time as my friend says and talks about that the conditions were horrible, I say they were not and they are not today.

Now, my friends, I just want to picture to you why this law—and I cannot cover it all, it is such a big proposition—should be repealed. I do want to draw your minds to some vivid pictures. I want everyone of you to put yourselves in the position of a man who is doing an honest business and is trying to make an honest livelihood; a man who is honest and is doing business in the City of Philadelphia in the produce business. Now, just imagine that you are this man and just imagine that when you have a surplus in the flush when the conditions are above the normal in the production of eggs, which I will take as the illustration, and everybody knows that the production of eggs fluctuates a great deal. There are about three months in the year when the production of the eggs in the State of Pennsylvania fall to at least twenty per cent below the normal. In certain other seasons of the year, in April, May and June, they will probably reach two hundred per cent above the normal. That goes on all over the United States north of what is commonly known as the Mason and Dixon Line, where the variation with the temperature are very great. If you are in business in the City of Philadelphia and are handling this particular commodity, under that law in the State of Pennsylvania when you put your eggs into cold sctorage to carry them for one month, two months or three months or five months, they have to be branded "wholesome cold storage food." There is not one of you that don't know that the average public unfortunately believe that when these eggs are put into a cold storage plant they deteriorate and they become unwholesome and dangerous. Imagine yourself bringing your product out of this cold storage plant and putting them on sale in the market house and having to put a great big tag in front of that marked "cold storage eggs." Right over there beside you stands a man whom you know, having that knowledge of your trade and your own personal judgment of the facts, when you examine the eggs, that he is selling, in all probabilities, that they have been in cold storage longer than yours, but because they have come in from the State of Iowa or from the State of Ohio or from Indiana or Illinois or Michigan or Minnesota, and they are set up on the stand alongside of yours and on it there is a card which says "Fresh Eggs." Where will the people buy? O my God, to think that you have gone and put on the statute books of Pennsylvania a law that effects the price of a commodity that perhaps is fresher than that commodity that came from outside of the State. That affects the price of a commodity that the agriculturalists of this great State have, in part, to depend upon. That exists in the egg business, the business a man is engaged in in your great city and then to claim that there is no reason to repeal this law? Another thing, there is not a man in this room dare deny but that my statement is absolutely true; it it absolutely what is going on in this State of Pennsylvania. I was much amused at my friend from Philadelphia by his remarks when he stated that in the spring of the year, along in the months of February and March, down there from North Carolina and South Carolina and Virginia and Tennessee and Alabama and Georgia and Florida, fresh eggs and fresh butter commences to come in. Ha, ha, ha. Who ever heard of any butter coming out of North Carolina, South Carolina or Virginia, or Alabama, or Georgia? Nobody at all. You never saw a pound of it. Why, they buy only oleomargarine down there. They have no facilities for making butter and the butter down there is nothing more than hog fat. They don't have the facilities to make it. They don't have the pasture. The things however which they desire to put upon a market, these particular commodities they do not have.

But you must recollect, my friends, that there are only a few States in this great Union that make what the average man would call butter—a nice palatable grease to spread upon your bread. There are only a few States that do it.

Now let me draw you another picture, and see whether you won't vote to send this bill down where it will never be heard from, or else you are not true to your own people in your own State. A creamery in my county that has to put its butter in cold storage, the day it goes in under that statute, the box has to be marked as it goes in—the butter comes out in a month—it has to be marked "cold storage." There is no cold storage room for Pennsylvanians. That word was coined for the great packing combinations. There is no cold storage room. They keep it in 48 hours and as much longer as they please, because nobody takes a record of it, when it goes in and nobody knows when it comes out. But if the Pennsylvanian puts his butter in there, it has to be marked "cold storage butter." One month later, my neighbor and the produce man of the City of Philadelphia, that is handling his goods, when he takes his butter out, he puts it before the public, but there has to be a card upon it, "wholesome cold storage butter"; but when the State of Ohio, or the State of Indiana, or the State of Illinois or any other State in this Union sends their butter in here to the great packing houses it has been in cold storage in Chicago, probably six months, nobody knows, there is no attempt in this bill to get information; no affidavit required from anybody; not even a statement is required in that act so far as the product that comes from the outside of the State of Pennsylvania is concerned, but the Pennsylvanian must mark his thus. Here is what the Pennsylvania product, probably three months fresher than the Illinois or Ohio product, set on stalls side by side, must meet—on the Pennsylvania product are the words "cold storage;" on that that comes from other States is "fresh butter" Now that is right; that is true; that is a fact. No man can deny it. I know what I am talking about. I have seen it, and I know what I am telling you. And that is that law, they call protection to the people. Now what protection is there in that law? What protection is there in it? I am going to be perfectly frank. I will tell you all that there is in it, and I will tell you all sides of it. There are some people who think that when certain foodstuffs, and they are enumerated in this bill, which I will not read again, there are many people who really think that when those products go into cold storage houses they deteriorate and they will not pay the same price for them. There went abroad in the land a few years ago through the public press, more through misinformation than anything else, that cold storage people were putting away these particular products for long periods. I think my friend from Philadelphia, told you that 27,000 dozen eggs were held for two years. Yes, I suppose that was in the paper. There isn't much doubt about it. I have heard him say a great deal worse things about me. I have heard the papers say a great deal worse about my friend from Philadelphia, but I didn't believe it. I have heard the newspapers say a whole lot of things in which they were mistaken, because newspaper people are, after all, only human, and it is fortunate sometimes they do make mistakes, because a whole lot of us would be entirely lost sight of if they didn't say things like that about us sometimes, and then we get up and make a fuss about it, and then we get a whole page about the fuss we make, and thus we get before the public. They advertise us. They are the best friends we have, but they make mistakes, and there is not a particle of doubt in my mind that that newspaper which said somebody kept 27,000 dozen eggs for two years did not know anything about the business—in fact they didn't know the first law, the first principles, the first rules of business. The idea of a man putting his money in 27,000 dozen of eggs and then putting them in cold storage, and then waiting until they were worth only onehalf as much as they were when he put them in.

Most likely a business man would do that? You can trust the business man to take care of that himself. Well, this law goes on and says that so many months you can keep beef in; so many months you can keep pork in. I am not going to tire you by reading it, you know generally what its provisions are. Now, my friends, I am not prepared to say to you that it is not possible that some man somewhere, sometime, occasionally may have kept some of these food products longer than he should have kept them, but it is true that there are some people in the State of Pennsylvania who really do not know anything about this. I judge from the remarks of another of my friends—from his remarks of the other evening—that he wants the Dairy and Food Commissioner to come in and tell him whether an egg is good before he will eat it, and of course if the Dairy and Food Commissioner would say that it is good, and that he could eat it, why then he would eat the egg. Well, I have another way of saying whether an egg is good or not. I have half an idea that there are others, outside of my friends from Philadelphia, who seem to think that only the Dairy and Food Commissioner can tell them how long foodstuff has been in a cold storage plant. Well, I saw a lot of stuff that never saw a cold storage plant, that smelled very loud to me. In the country we often speak of butter that has been kept for a week or two as "strong enough to come out of the cellar itself," and there is no cold storage plant down there. The unfortunate part of it is simply this, that we do not think right, we do not keep close enough to the situation; the unfortunate part of it is, that my friends from Philadelphia, being attorneys, do not understand the practical side of this proposition—they have gone away on a fishing expedition. My friends from Philadelphia say that bait in the Senate is dead, that the bait in the bill was canned, but my friends, the bait is out of the can over in the Senate, and they have a good live bill but my friends, it does not make any difference in my judgment, insofar as what you will do with this bill as to whether the bait comes out of the can in the Senate or not.

There is no man that is acquainted with the business, I believe, that can be found in the State of Pennsylvania that will come forward and say that he believes that this particular act gives the public one particle of security or one particle of protection. For the reason that when that bill was drafted, whoever drew it, threw the bars open, left the gate wide open for every other State in the Union to send their goods in here for us. There is no thoughtful man, in my judgment, that for a moment believes that the cold storage law on the statute books in the State of Pennsylvania like that with no national regulation—there is not a practical man that will come to but one conclusion, he cannot come to but one conclusion, namely, that it will harass and handicap the business interests of our own State and it will not protect the public one iota. There is no person can say that this is not the absolute condition now. To me it is preposterous. I do not know, but I suppose I voted for that bill two years ago. My friends from Philadelphia, the other night, said there was a terribly hard fight here to get that bill passed. I do not recollect if that was so. I do not know whether I voted for it or against it. He did tell you and iterated and reiterated and reiterated, and he iterated and reiterated it to-night, how thoroughly and how carefully and how exhaustively the whole subject was gone into before that statute was put upon the books; the last word was said on cold storage in the act of 1913. Why of course it was. It was so carefully arranged, so thoroughly considered! Ha, Ha! That before the Legislature adjourned they had to amend it to fit into the conditions. Now let me tell you what they did. Why, I destroy every atom of his argument, when he tells you that this act was carefully considered, thoroughly considered; they have three of four bills they put in together, and all fixed up so they would be absolutely right for the pubuic, and yet if you will turn back to the page—I forget the page, but as a matter of fact it was such a carefully drawn bill on the statute books, that before the Legislature adjourned, they had to amend it.

Because when they sent it out the people that were engaged in the fish business, said, "Why you have paralyzed the fish business; you have ruined us." And they came back and showed the Legislature that they had. So far as the egg business was concerned, so far as the butter business was concerned, so far as the mutton business was concerned, so far as the pork business was concerned, and so far as the beef business was concerned, it took more time to develop the weakness, and the hardship that it was putting upon the people of the State. They have developed now, and I do not think the bill now, to be frank with my friends, is at all objectionable to the beef interests of our State, because of the fact that we do not in this business have abnormal periods of production in the year. They run along about just as the market demands, so naturally, as far as the mutton industry is concerned, makes little difference whether it is on or whether it is off the statute books; because those products are not especially abundant or superfluous but are about normal in all periods of the year, and four months is about all that is needed in the act. And as a mater of fact, scarcely that is taken advantage of. The same can be said of the beef and of the pork business; but, my friends, look at it when you come to put in the great butter and egg industry in this great State of ours. There is where it strikes so hard. And it matters not what my young attorney friends from the city of Philadelphia say to you, I hope you will believe me. I know what it is doing to the men who produce these particular products in this State.

Now, I took entirely too much time and I am beginning to feel the strain, but my friends, I hope you will put this bill on the calendar, and if you love and want to aid the man, the small man, that is trying to build up a big business in our great cities and protect him from those great packing organizations of the West, in God's name, put this bill on the calendar and pass it.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Delaware is through, the thought I had in mind is that if they kept the gentleman from Delaware in the hospital a little while longer he would develop into quite a speechmaker.

Unfortunately for me, but fortunately for you, I was detained last Tuesday evening when the main fireworks came off on this bill. I would have liked to have been present and to have answered some of the arguments which I read this morning, with some degree of interest in the Legislative Journal. In looking at the roll call it struck me the membership was light that evening, and a few moments ago when the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson, was sort of criticising the Senate for their inactivities and their juggling tactics they were showing their activity by calling the roll at the very time the gentleman was speaking on the Uniform Cold Storage bill; and while they were getting slammed over here they were passing that bill by a vote of forty-three to one and it is now or will be shortly, as I am informed by the Senate Clerk, relayed to the House for final action. Now, if that does not wash away the argument of legislative jugglery I desire to fall dead in my tracks. I do not believe it is necessary to say anything further on this bill. Perhaps I could not change a vote; but I do desire to say that it has been my experience up in my end of the State, that this cold storage law has worked irreparable damage to the farming public. If it were an act that the farming public of this State were in favor of, then I ask you why the Grange, which is so strong an organization in the State, was almost unanimously in favor of the repeal of this act.

The gentleman from Delaware has covered this question thoroughly and you gentlemen of this House who were here two years ago well remember the fight we had at the close of the session in fixing up the matter of the fish industry. The same thing has been true about the matter of butter and eggs, and it is a very peculiar thing to me why most of the criticism, or why most of this spirit against the repeal of this act comes from the City of Philadelphia. We people from the country feel that this act ought to be repealed, and inasmuch as that bill which I spoke of, the amending act known as the Uniform Cold

Storage Act, has just passed the Senate almost unanimously, I think that reason alone ought to prompt the membership of this House into reconsideration of the action taken last Tuesday evening and to place this bill on the calendar.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it was with considerable interest that I sat back here and listened to the remarks of my friend from Delaware County. It is peculiar to me, indeed, that at no time has there been a request coming from the people of Pennsylvania for the repeal of the present Cold Storage Act until it comes tonight so forcibly from my friend from Delaware and my friend from Erie saying that the people of their section of the State are unanimously in favor of the repeal of this act.

I stated before when this bill was under consideration that I was a member of the Commission appointed to investigate the cold storage business and report back to this session in which we are now engaged; and I want to say now that at no time, notwithstanding the fact that we went from one end of the State to another, was there a request for the repeal of this act. The testimony that was presented to the Commission showed that the probabilities were that some of the features of the present cold storage law were drastic; but at no time was there ever a call for the repeal; and in answer to my friend from Erie I would say that Mr. Hendricks, who represented the cold storage men in that section, emphatically said that they wanted a supervision; they did not want a repeal of the present law; they were glad to be placed under a supervision and that every honest cold storage man in the State of Pennsylvania would be satisfied to come under the provisions of legislative enactment.

My friend from Delaware claims that there is sufficient legislation on the Statute Books covering the conditions under which foodstuffs might be sold. If he dont know, I do know that there were foodstuffs exposed for sale that were not fit to be handled, let alone eaten by human beings, prior to the enactment of this legislation. I said before, when debating on this bill, that it was the unanimous agreement of the newspapers of Philadelphia that there should not be a repeal of the present law, but that there should be a regulation and that regulation, if necessary, we men can enact. Why totally repeal the law when the drastic features complained of, if they are found to be drastic, can be remedied? It seems to me, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House,—and a reference has been made to the steam roller—that there is not a man, I will venture to say, that has not been approached, since he left the legislative halls last week to go to his home, in reference to this bill; and who comes here to ask for the repeal of the present law. We have never seen before any commission an appeal made from the interests, the cold storage interests, asking for the repeal of this law. Unanimously almost do they say that they welcome a just and equitable supervision coming from legislative authority, and to say tonight that it is the unanimous consent of the people of the State of Pennsylvania that this bill should be repealed—the idea must have sprung up very suddenly because the Commission that I was a member of did not come in contact with it notwithstanding the fact that we traveled over the State of Pennsylvania from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh; and I ask the gentlemen of this House not to go back on the stand that they took last week, but to stand firmly and say you will not pass the repeal of the Cold Storage Law and leave the people in the hands of the unscrupulous men who would take advantage of them and retain the law on the statute books. We have an opportunity, if it requires an amendment, to amend it; but under no consideration repeal the act and leave the people of the State of Pennsylvania at the mercy of the unscrupulous cold storage men as they were prior to the enactment of the law of 1913.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FORSTER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware if I was correct in the understanding I got from his remarks that he believed the Pure Food Act of 1909 was sufficient protection to the public with respect to cold storage products?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I tried my best to give the House that impression and that is my belief, that it offers a protection vastly, vastly superior to this particular act, and nothing in this act gives the public any where near the protection afforded by the Act of 1909 and this act does not add one particle of protection to the Act of 1909.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Delaware further, is there any provision in the Act of 1909 which requires dealers to give notice to the public whether they are selling fresh or cold storage foods?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I tried to show and I know I gave the House truthful information, that so far as the Pennsylvania product is concerned they are required to do just as I illustrated. I made it so plain that I thought any child could understand what I said. I said so far as Pennsylvania products are concerned that this act makes it necessary the moment you place the products in a cold storage plant to place a card on your goods "cold storage." I said immediately afterwards that if they come from Iowa, Ohio or any other State in the Union there was no provision in this act that required anybody, anywhere in the State of Pennsylvania, to even say that it had been in cold storage; and the consequence was and is that in practice, the products of these other States ar now, and have been ever since this act was put on the statute books, set out on the stalls and counters and marked "fresh"; consequently, of course, the public get no protection. The truth of the matter is that the Pennsylvania article may have been in cold storage for thirty days and the Iowa article may have been in cold storage six months and yet, under the laws of Pennsylvania, I am compelled to advertise my eggs as an artcle which the trade takes in practice to be inferior to the article that is clearly, if cold storage is injurious, much worse. Now, that is what the statute does. That is the absolute condition.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, just one question more. I would like to ask the gentleman if he believes that there should be any cold storage regulations at all?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would be very glad to repeat what I said before. Now I tried—

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I am through; I withdraw my question.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am not the least surprised to see attorneys who cannot grasp this question. It is a technical question. It is no reflection that I say that at all because I would not grasp what a medical man is saying when he is explaining a medical question and using technical terms, and I would not understand what the electrical engineer says when he begins to deal with technical terms. It is no reflection against my education or ability at all. We all are in exactly the same position. I would not consider it in the least a reflection if some gentleman would say, we are going to talk about a matter, Dick, we are going into technical terms that you don't understand; and I will say, of course, I do not. If two medical men begin to talk about a matter, using Latin words, and say to me, Dick, I don't suppose you understand, why, of course, I would say I did not understand it. Now I can readily understand why my young attorney friends from Philadelphia conclude that this cold storage law—when they go and see the men in the beef business and they say we are satisfied with it and then they come back and say all the people are satisfied; but he never went to see the butter and egg men and he never went to see the poultrymen.

I have a friend in Philadelphia and he called me on the 'phone and wanted to know if I would not like to have one chicken or one loin of pork here to-night that had been taken out of the cooling room, mark you, frozen as stiff as it culd be frozen when the thermometer was at zero, and yet allowed to be sold to the public when it comes from another State as something that is cooled, but not a cold storage product. Now, I don't think I have to tell you again, I know I don't, that the pure food law,—and I read the statute to you,—of 1909 is the last word on fresh food products that is up before the people, but one of my best friends in this country just talked about there being no regulation if we took the statute off. These attorneys will consistently get it into their minds that with that statute off the books the public has no protection whatever from unwholesome foods, adulterated foods and unhealthy foods. Why, this bill only applied to five different subjects and the Act of 1909 covers absolutely everything that goes into human food. Now, you heard me read the statute, and if you take this off—now, don't be misled, gentlemen, don't think that the bars are being thrown down and that the food products offered to the public in the State of Pennsylvania will no longer have any supervision. Why, my friends, do you know how long we have had a Dairy and Food Commissioner in the State of Pennsylvania? Do you know why all this was created? Do you know it has been here for twenty years? Do you know it has dealt entirely with protecting the public against having thrust upon them unwholesome, deleterious and adulterated food products?

Why, not only in the Act of 1909, but in 1897 the Act of 1895 was reinforced, in 1899 it was amended and reinforced by other statutes, in 1901 it was again reinforced by other statutes, in 1905 it was again reinforced, and in 1907 again reinforced, and then to clean up this patchwork legislation that had arisen since the law of 1895, which created the Dairy and Food Commission, the Act of 1909 was made so broad and so sweeping, that the man that gets up in this House and tells you that the public is left to the mercy of unscrupulous dealers in produce, is simply misinformed, and so far as that goes I do not think I ought to excuse my friends from Philadelphia that are attorneys, for they ought to know what the statute is better than I do, and I do not believe that they are just exactly playing fair in the thing. I believe that they have got themselves so wrapped up in this thing, that they are disinclined to back down, like all of us, myself amongst them, that we do not like to surrender when we know we are half wrong.

I am very much inclined to think from the very remarks of my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, that he was weakening and weakening, and was pretty near ready to vote the way I advocate, because I know he has a pretty good opinion of my opinion on subjects of this character. I think it is the only time in the history of this House that we have ever differed, and I am thoroughly satisfied that if I had had a talk with him before he started wrong last week, that he would have been with me, as he knows that I am a practical man, knowing all about this business, and therefore understand it better.

Now, just for the benefit of my young attorney friends from the City of Philadelphia, I would like them to go and look over the statutes, and then I would like them to come in to-morrow morning or some other time and say, "Well, Dick, you were absolutely right when you quoted the law."

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, there has been considerable discussion on the merits of the motion before the House to-night, but I wish to say, in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, that the general pure food act of 1909 has absolutely no application to a cold storage bill. The cold storage act that was placed upon the statute books of this State last session, means that the people of Pennsylvania shall know whether an egg is six, seven or eight months old. Why shouldn't they know, Mr. Speaker? Why shouldn't the people of Pennsylvania know that when they buy a product in the open market it is either fresh or it has been in cold storage?

The Act of 1909 that my friend speaks about only provides that where a food is deleterious, or injurious to the public health, it cannot be sold. But the act that relates to cold storage says this: That if an egg, or a fish, or a loin of pork is placed in cold storage, when it comes out, it shall bear the mark "Wholesome Cold Storage Food." My friend says that the cold storage houses in Illinois, Ohio and Iowa do not mark their food. He never read the act. The act provides where a piece of foodstuff is in cold storage it shall be marked, so that who buys that particular product shall know whether in Illinois, Ohio, Iowa or any other State it was in a cold storage house.

Mr. Speaker, it is an outrage on public policy, it is an outrage against the consumer, it is an outrage against every man in Pennsylvania to repeal this cold storage act. I remember last session the influences that came to work to try to defeat the pasage of this act, and I know to-night the influences that stand beyond the bar of this House trying to ask you men to repeal this cold storage act. It is an outrage. It is an affront to public decency. It is an outrage against every consumer of foodstuffs. This bill should no more be repealed than any bill that has to do with the welfare of the people, and I trust, Mr. Speaker, that to-night this House, realizing its responsibility for the public weal, appreciating its obligation to all of the people of Pennsylvania, shall not listen to the whip that cracks from the cold storage houses, but shall know that all the people of Pennsylvania desire that their foodstuff shall be so protected that you and I, who eat at our table, shall know that we are eating that for which we pay and that the law of this State shall protect us in our meals. Mr. Speaker, I trust that this House will refuse to put this bill upon the calendar.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman wants the House to infer from his remarks that "they should pay no attention to the crack of the whip," that he felt that I was speaking in their interests or influenced by them?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware needs no apology from me.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise with some apologies and some regrets. It seems that the gentleman from Delaware thinks that attorneys are not fit to discuss this matter and I trust, even though I be an attorney, not a Philadelphia attorney, and not a young attorney, that I may be permitted to make a few observations along the line of argument,—the exhaustive argument of the gentleman from Delaware. To my mind he showed this,—and I want to say in passing, that it was about as clever a specimen of special pleading as I have ever heard in the court or out of it. It amounts to this: That the act of 1909 is a very good pure food act; that the act of 1913 ought to be repealed because it permits outsiders to deceive the public and prevents Pennsylvanians from deceiving the public. That is what his argument amounts to in that line. He says the Pennsylvania cold storage man has to label his goods for what they are and he says the Iowa, Indiana and Ohio cold storage man can label his fresh. Well, I say, Mr. Speaker, that if that be the state of the law the thing to do is not to repeal it, but to amend it; patch it up so it will serve the purpose intended.

It seems to me, sir, the day has come in Pennsylvania and elsewhere that things ought to be sold for what they are, and not for what they are not. We have some control over the storage business of Pennsylvania; we have no direct control over the storage business of other States, but if this act be as the gentleman from Delaware says it is, if it permits those from outside the State to sell as fresh that which is cold storage, amend the act, but let us, even if it is permitted to do wrong in other States, even if it is permitted to fool the public in other States and that of our own by outsiders, let us clean our own State; let us see that the citizens of Pennsylvania observe good faith toward the consuming public, and if the act of 1909 is an excellent pure food act, and I believe it is because the gentleman from Delaware says so, if it is such an excellent act, do not put any more burden upon the Dairy and Food Department of Pennsylvania, prevent the admission of deleterious food older than that put out from our cold storage houses. As I observed when this bill was up on final passage before, it seems to me that it is not a medical question, or a legal question, but a question of common sense. If anybody wants to buy an egg a year old, let him buy it, but for heaven's sake let him know what it is he is buying and that is what this act requires to be done. It it does not require the man who ships eggs from China, Iowa or elsewhere,—if it does not require him to tell whether they were stored, then for heaven's sake make him say so and make the person who sells them say so. That is all we ask.

Now, I have been informed within a very few minutes that the other bill so much talked about has passed the Senate finally tonight and when that comes over here, and I presume that it will, if it is a good bill let us pass it, but why should we wipe all regulations and restrictions off the Statute books and how is it that so many gentlemen of this House are anxious to do it.

Now, relative to the State Grange. It has been said that the State Grange is in favor of this bill. It may be, but I don't know whether they are or not. I had a letter from a well-known commission house in Philadelphia this evening, stating that the Grange did back this bill. My experience with the Grange in this House this session has convinced me that the Grange is often wrong, and if the farmers of this State, represented by the Grange, are for a law that will permit a man to sell something for what it is not, then the Grange is wrong and I sincerely hope this House will go on record as upholding the vote which was taken last week.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I regret very much being obliged to take up any more of the time of the House on this question, but the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware makes it necessary that I at least make some reply to them. The gentleman from Delaware has tried to convey to the minds of the members of this House that the act of 1913 was passed in derogation to the rights of the Pennsylvanians engaged in the cold storage business and in favor of those engaged in that business outside of the State.

I want to say to the gentleman from Delaware that he was never further from the truth. I, as one of the sub-committee who had to deal with this act of 1913 know whereof I speak when I say that the most active of our opponents of the 1913 law were the so-called packers of the west. They not only came to this Legislature and interviewed members of the committee including myself and endeavored to get us to let up upon this cold storage question but they followed me to Philadelphia and to my office with the same object in view. When this cold storage repealer was introduced in the Senate the same influences were put to work with the same object in view to get the support of the Philadelphia members including myself, in favor of this repealer. Now, my friend, the gentleman from Delaware, says that this present law militates against the Pennsylvania man. I called the attention of this House last week to Section 18 of this Act which my friend from Delaware, I know, has not read together with what he has read although he has read some other sections of the bill, and for the benefit of those members who were not here last week I will again go over it and quote and call it to their attention.

"No food shall be sold or offered or exposed for sale in this State which shall have been placed or stored in any cold storage warehouse outside of this State unless it first shall have been marked as provided in section fifteen (15) of this act. Provided however, That no such food shall be sold or offered or exposed for sale in this State if the total length of time that such food has remained in cold storage shall exceed that specified in section sixteen (16) of this act."

Any one having anything to do with legislation knows that one State cannot pass laws which shall be binding upon some other State and the only thing that that State can do is to pass such laws in the matter of products, as will regulate products which come in from an outside State and under the powers and duties given to the Dairy and Food Commissioner under this Act of 1913, it is entirely up to him to ascertain, and he is vested with full power to ascertain what length of time they have been in cold storage elsewhere and if it exceeds the time limit specified in this act, under this law they cannot be sold or exposed for sale. My friend quoted Section 20 of this Act. I will read that section:

"Nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the shipping consigning or transporting of fresh food in properly refrigerated cars within this State to points of destination nor when received to prohibit the same being held in a cooling room for a period of forty-eight (48) hours and provided further that nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the keeping of fresh food in ice-boxes or refrigerators in retail stores while the same is offered or exposed for sale."

The purpose of that provision is in order that the law shall not apply to a small storekeeper when he has up for sale or exposed products for sale when the time limit does not run against him. This section must be taken in connection with the other sections of the act and if the goods shall have been in there and have exceeded the time limit in cold storage, or are not wholesome or don't bear the tag which this law requires that they shall bear, then the Dairy and Food Commissioner shall say that these goods shall not be exposed for sale. That is the purpose of this act. It has nothing whatever to do with the Act of 1909 as has been said here by previous speakers upon this question. It is an act of itself. The Act of 1909 deals with deleterious foods. I am not here for the purpose of arguing that goods kept in cold storage are not fit to be consumed by the public, but I am here to argue, and sincerely argue that the purpose of this act is to give to the public of this State notice of the length of time that they have been kept in cold storage and to put out of existence the practices which have been engaged in by those in this particular line of business, and taking a cold storage product and selling it at fresh price rate and that is just exactly what this act prevents; that is why the shoe pinches; that is where it hurts the cold storage dealers. My friend says that the question of this repeal has nothing whatever to do with the passage of the uniform act. I say it has. The repeal of the existing law wipes out all regulation. I don't know what the provisions of the uniform law are but I will call your attention to an advertisement that was inserted in the Philadelphia Press, a Philadelphia newspaper, the Inquirer, on Thursday, last. You gentleman will recall that I called your attention to the fact that the Corn Exchange National Bank of Philadelphia, is the financial institution back of the cold storage business in Philadelphia and elsewhere who were advocating the existing law in the open, but under cover they were advocating its repeal and they inserted this advertisement in the Philadelphia Inquirer on Thursday, April 29th.

OUR POSITION—REGARDING COLD STORAGE

has not been altered by the refusal of the House to repeal the present drastic law.

From the first this Bank has recommended the adoption of the Uniform Cold Storage Law drafted by the National Commissioners of Uniform State Laws.

The decided vote by the Senate and the vote in the House of 86 to 81 in favor of the unconditional repeal of the present Cold Storage Law, while not sufficient to repeal, proves that the majority of our State Legislators are not in favor of laws that unnecessarily hamper business.

As business men to business men we again appeal to our Senators and Representatives for the adoption of the Uniform Law. We know the present law hurts everyone in Pennsylvania, including the Consumers, and benefits none except merchants in Chicago and outside cities.

CORN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK,
Chestnut at Second Street, Philadelphia.

That is their answer and, Mr. Speaker, again I reiterate that if the gentleman from Delaware questions the article which I read from the Produce Bulletin which is the mouthpiece of the men engaged in this business in Philadelphia and I quoted as saying besides the stringent cold storage law of this State not working against the interests of the people I propose to add to that and go further and if the existing law is not for the benefit of the consumer then I don't know what is. There is one thing that the gentleman from Delaware has stated and if he ever said anything in his discussion on any bill which should go for the purpose of carrying the position of the opponents of this measure the remarks which he made tonight bear me out: When he said that eggs put in cold storage plants deteriorate and become dangerous. I quote him verbatim; that is exactly what he said. If that be true I am willing to accept the statement of the gentleman from Delaware who knows all about this business, but I ask why repeal a law which limits the time they shall be kept in cold storage.

Mr. BADWIN. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to correct an impression that the gentleman from Philadelphia has made. I said that the general public believe erroneously in my judgment I added, the general public believes and I think erroneously in most instances that goods deteriorate when they are put in cold storage and because the Pennsylvanians has put the card "Cold Storage" on his eggs while beside him the Cleveland Provision Company (showing a paper) and this was wrapped around a piece of loin that was frozen as hard as ice and it is put before the public "Home Cut Loins," but there was no "Cold Storage" on it. Of course, that don't mean anything, when you come to analyze it, but the general public will conclude that it is home production, nice and fresh and never been in a refrigerator. Now, my friend says that the pure food law of 1909 does not have anything to do with it, with the wholesomeness and the purity of food. If it didn't, then the repeal of this law will let the bars down and it ought not to be repealed. It works against the interests of the people of Pennsylvania to have a foreign product come in to some extent and permit the public health through this commercial interest to suffer as it will be suffering to put on the public an unwholesome food. The Act of 1909 gives the Dairy and Food Commissioner relating to food, providing for the protection of public health and the prevention of fraud authority in this respect. Well, how are you going to provide for the public health if the Dairy and Food Commissioner is going to permit the market to be stocked with unwholesome food, be panned out to the public. I don't misrepresent our position in the least. My friend from Philadelphia says that it only deals with the question of health. It does not do anything of the kind. It deals with every phase of unhealthy food. My friend read section 18 of the bill of 1913 and it is true I didn't read it, but I will tell you just exactly what it did. In other words, I will tell you how it worked out. I am going to show you the fine Italian hand that is written there in section 18, that my friend didn't appear to be able to discover. A practical man can understand it and right now I want to say to this House that my friend from Philadelphia no doubt honestly thinks that the great packing interests outside of the State of Pennsylvania don't want this bill. I have the most absolute and positive evidence that they do want this bill to stay on the statute books and the fact is backed up by the very thing that they can sell their product for fresh and we have to sell ours for cold storage. I have not said that cold storage products are unhealthy, but I say it does affect the value of the goods on the market because the public through their impressions given by those who have not studied the subject very seriously have believed this; they have led the public to believe so. Let me show you the fine Italian hand in section 18 that my friend talks about. I have told you in the first place that the first seventeen sections hobbled, tied and ham-strung the Pennsylvanian. Now, I am going to show you that section 18 just merely says this that "no food shall be sold or offered or exposed for sale in this State which shall have been placed or stored in any cold storage warehouse outside of the State unless it first shall have been marked." It looks pretty good, don't it? But do you know what I would have said if I had been writing that section? I would have provided in that section that when a carload of cold storage goods comes to Philadelphia, somebody would have to say under oath that it hadn't been in cold storage, but what they have said in that act could not be unloaded until some public official say what its condition was before it was put into a Pennsylvania branch.

Branches of these great outside packing corporations are distributed over the City of Philadelphia. There is nobody to inspect the goods when they come in, nobody to require it to be marked when it went into that "cooling room." The fine Italian hand in section 18, who have drawn that section—he would not have thought that there should have at least been some requirements in section 16, in section 18, similar to the requirements that are in the other sections when they deal with Pennsylvania products. You know and I know why it is not in there. It is not in there so as to make it easy for those people. It is remarkable that it took seventeen sections to tie up Pennsylvania. I reiterate, for I want to impress you with it, it is peculiarly strange that it took 17 sections to tie the Pennsylvanian up, and only one little bare section which says it shall not be done, but providing none of the necessary precautions that the people of Pennsylvania would be protected when it comes to deal with their product. And mark you, at no time in that statute anywhere is there a provision for the Pennsylvanian to put his product in a "cooling room." The fine Italian hand again in section 20,—that when goods come in refrigerator cars from beyond the borders of the State of Pennsylvania, then they can go in the cooling room; they do not have to make a record when they are put in there. There is a book kept of them as to when they go in, but when they will be taken out, nobody shall have any information of it. The truth of it is that four-fifths of these particular products, probably that are consumed in the State of Pennsylvania, come from ouside of the State. I am well within the facts when I say to you that that bill does not give the people of Pennsylvania any protection whatever on the question of how long these particular products have been in a cold storage room, and that is all there is in the bill. So far as unwholesome food, adulterated foods, are concerned, that has all been taken care of, as I told you, in the Act of 1909. The public is amply protected. So far as foreign products are concerned, my colleague sits ready to make an affirmation that the facts exist in the City of Philadelphia as I have stated them to you. How can you deny it?

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. W. H. Wilson and Mr. Roney were as follows:

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED ON HOUSE BILL NO. 554.

Mr. BALDWIN asked and received unanimous consent for the extension for three days of the time limit on House Bill No. 554, entitled:

An Act to provide a standard form of policy contract to be issued by fire insurance companies transacting business in Pennsylvania designating the provisions thereof exempting certain policies and prescribing penalties for any violations

BILL ON THIRD READING.

The SPEAKER. The hour of ten o'clock has arrived, the time for the consideration, by special order, on Third Reading of House Bill No. 1106, entitled:

An Act to amend section five of an act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act regulating the exhibiting or using of moving pictures and stereopticon views providing for and regulating the examination and approval of moving-picture films or reels and stereopticon views and fixing penalties for the violation of this act

Session 1915 121st of the General Assembly

VOL. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 4, 1915. No. 53.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, May 4, 1915.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Charles H. Kline) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the preservation of our lives. The laws of our land are not hostile to us, and they have no fears for us when we obey them. It is when we violate these laws that we must suffer their penalties. It is also true with Thy laws, that when we obey them they are helpful to us in every way, but when we disregard them it is at that time that we feel the sorrows that come from such violations. We pray Thee then to help us to remember that whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap. So guide us that we may live to our own best interests, and to the highest good of our fellows. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. JENKINS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 888 (House Bill No. 1175), entitled:

An Act authorizing Emma Lorah of Luzerne county to bring suit against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the court of common pleas of Dauphin county

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CATLIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 1, in line 12, by striking out the words: "Said suit or suits shall be subject to the same rules of pleading and evidence and appeal as other suits brought in the said court are subject," and insert in lieu thereof the following: This suit shall be subject to the same rules of pleading and evidence as in other cases between individuals. The right to bring suit hereby given shall not preclude the Commonwealth from raising any defense available to it in the suit hereby authorized.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

An Act relating to and regulating the plotting by cities of the first class of parks and parkways in built-up sections thereof

said city any park or parkway in an entirely built-up section of said city the placing of such park or parkway on the city plan shall be considered as an appropriation to public use of the land within the lines of said park or parkway at the expiration of five years from the date of confirmation of the plan showing such park or parkway by the board of surveyors of said city with the same effect as if the land within the boundary of said park had been appropriated for public park purposes or the said parkway had been opened to public use by ordinance of councils unless an ordinance actually appropriating said land to public use shall have been previously passed or the ordinance placing such park or parkway on the city plan shall have been previously repealed

Section 2 Where any park or parkway has been heretofore superimposed upon the confirmed plan of streets of such city in an entirely built-up section, such superimposing shall be an appropriation for public use of the land within the lines of said park or parkway at the expiration of three years from the approval of this act.

Section 3 From the date of confirmation of the plan of said park or parkway in an entirely built-up section of said city until the expiration of said period of five years or until the passage of an ordinance to appropriate to public use the land within the lines of such park or parkway the owners of said land may alter their buildings thereon in accordance with plans approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection and other municipal authorities having jurisdiction thereof and upon the assessment of damages for the appropriation of their property to public use they shall be entitled to compensation therefor including the buildings so altered computed as of the date of said appropriation

Section 4 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move to amend section 3, in line 1, by striking out all after the figure 3, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Whenever any structure or appliance of any public service company exists under any highways at the time of the construction of such tube, tunnel or subway and the construction of such tube, tunnel or subway requires the removal and relocation of the said structure and appliance, the city may provide in the construction of such tube, tunnel or subway sufficient accommodations to provide for the location of such structures and appliances in such tube, tunnel or subway. If the situation resulting from the location and construction of the said tube, tunnel or subway and the number and extent of the structures and appliances of public service companies under said highway is such that in the discretion of the corporate authorities of the said city in the exercise of the police powers of said city that such structures and appliances should be re-located in the said tube, tunnel or subway, then the corporate authorities of such city shall have the power to provide by ordinance that the said structures and appliances shall be re-located in such places as may be determined in said tube, tunnel or subway, subject to such reasonable conditions and charge or rental, as the city may by ordinance impose. No discrimination shall be made by the city within the same class of users of any such tube, tunnel or subway.

Such city shall also have power to require that all new structures and appliances and all new installations shall be placed in said tube, tunnel or subway.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 4 Whenever said cities shall have entered into an agreement with a street passenger railway company for the operation of its cars in a proposed underground tube or subway they shall have the right to construct in conjunction therewith an additional or larger underground tube or subway and the same shall be used for the conduits pipes cables wires and other appliances located in said street or streets and said cities shall have the right to compel any one or more of the public service corporations and others using the public streets to utilize the said underground tube or subway and to take such locations therein as may be assigned by the proper corporate authorities to the respective persons firms or corporations and to pay therefor a reasonable rental The said cities in such cases may by ordinance require any one or more classes of users of the public highways as aforesaid to utilize the said underground tubes or subways as may be deemed expedient and necessary by the proper corporate authority and as they may find necessary for the public safety welfare and convenience provided however that no unreasonable discrimination may be made by said cities within the same class of users in requiring them to place their appliances and fixtures in said underground tubes or subways

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move to amend section 4, in line 1, by striking out all after the figure 4, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Such city shall also have power to enter into agreements with any individual, copartnership, association or corporation having any structure or appliance located under, on or above the highways of said city or intending to construct the same either prior to the construction of such tube, tunnel or subway or subsequent thereto for the location or re-location of such structures and appliances in such tube, tunnel or subway.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section of the bill was read as follows:

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move to amend the bill by adding two sections, to be known as sections 7 and 8, as follows:

Section 7. Should any section or provision of this act be held by the courts to be invalid or unconstitutional the same shall not impair the grant of power herein to cities of the second class to locate, construct, own and maintain subways or tunnels and their appurtenances, nor shall it be held to affect any other section or provision of this act.

Section 8. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act authorizing and empowering cities of the second class to construct underground tubes or subways to be used for pipe galleries or for the operation of street passenger railway lines either or both providing for the use thereof by public service corporations and others having their tracks conduits wires cables pipes and other appliances on the public streets conferring power upon said cities to compel their use under certain conditions and providing for the payment of a reasonable rental therefor

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Presidest, I move to amend the title by striking out the entire title and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

An Act granting certain powers to cities of the second class in relation to underground tunnels, tubes and subways, including powers of eminent domain and powers over certain public service corporations.

PETITION OF THE READING JITNEY COMPANY ASSOCIATION AGAINST THE PASSAGE OF BILL GIVING TO TRANSIT COMPANIES THE RIGHT TO OPERATE MOTOR BUSSES OR AUTOMOBILES.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate petition which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Municipal Affairs:

To the Honorable, the President and Members of the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—The undersigned, the duly appointed representatives of citizens of Reading, the individual owners and operators of motor cars in said city, for the purpose of carrying passengers, and united together in an association known as the "Reading Jitney Company Association," hereby respectfully protest against the passage of a bill which, we are informed, has passed the House of Representatives giving to Transit Companies the right to operate motor busses or automobiles in connection with the operation of street passenger railways by motor power, for the following reasons:

First: The act will suppress a wholesome competition by enabling the Transit Companies to operate two competing lines upon the same street and running in the same direction, which is manifestly contrary to the spirit of the constitutional prohibition as contained in Section IV, Article XVII of the Constitution of 1874, forbidding any corporation from having any control over a parallel or competing line.

Second. It will be impossible for the individual owners of automobiles or motor cars to engage in competition with the corporations controlling the Transit Companies. The result will be that the members of this association and the citizens of the Commonwealth elsewhere engaged in the same line of business will be thrown out of work at a time, when, by reason of the industrial conditions throughout the Commonwealth, they were forced, in order to earn a living, to seek a new source of income; and the travelling public will be deprived of the benefit of the low rates and long routes which the jitney service provides.

We, therefore, respectfully petition your honorable body that it does enlarge the powers and franchises of service corporations by giving them the right to do a business foreign to that for which they were chartered.

THE READING JITNEY COMPANY ASSOCIATION

By W. A. ROMBERGER, President.

Attest: ROY F. HEFFELFINGER, Secretary.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

NOTARIES PUBLIC.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 4, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—In conformity with law I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate, the following named persons to be Notaries Public for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the term of four years, to compute from the date of their confirmation:

ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

Daniel C. Dillon, Pittsburgh.
John Porreca, Pittsburgh.

LACKAWANNA COUNTY.

Clarence Balentine, Scranton.
Miss P. A. Thomas, Scranton.

NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Paul Azary, Mt. Carmel Township.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. CROW.

That Rule 38 which requires nominations made by the Governor to be referred to proper committees be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into executive session, for the purpose of acting on the foregoing nominations,

Which was agreed to,

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. CROW.

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

He also presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 141.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 1, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 141 entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of optometry in Pennsylvania defining optometry and relating to the right to practice optometry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and making certain exceptions and providing a bureau of optometrical education examination and licensure as a bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice optometry may be obtained and providing for the means to carry out the provisions of this act and providing for revocation or suspension of licenses given by said bureau and providing penalties for violations thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith."

This bill is designed to regulate the practice of optometry in Pennsylvania.

It aims to do this by creating a new examining board to license optometrists. This board is created in a way that is contrary to all precedent. To limit the Executive in his appointment to a professional body to whom is entrusted the conservation of human vision by compelling and directing him to appoint only those selected by the Executive Committee of a society that has no obligation or responsibility to the people, and a society whose members are in no legal way related to the people at large is contrary to the policy of law. Only members of said society would be eligibile to a place on the board, notwithstanding the fact that there may now be and in the future there may arise other societies whose function it is or may be with equal competence to administer to the human eye. In the formation of other state boards the Executive is not so limited and no reason has been given me why this limitation should be made. The judgment and the discretion of the Executive cannot be delegated to legally irresponsible bodies. This restriction is fundamentally wrong.

There is no convincing reason who these practitioners should not voluntarily place themselves under the existing licensing body of the Commonwealth

Under section four one number of this proposed board can secure the granting of a license, a situation wrought with grave menace. Unless a commanding reason is manifest no additional examining boards for professional regulation should be created.

The standards of professional service in this Commonwealth are and have been high. We are a center of professional services of the most commendable standards. These standards must be safeguarded and exaulted. No official act of the Commonwealth should in any way lessen the standards of admission to a professional career in this Commonwealth nor the standards of professional training to fit for is the sacred service The sanction of the state which is the sanction of the people cannot be lightly bestowed.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH

On the question,

Shall the bill pass the objections of the Governor notwithstanding?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President. I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. CATLIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEMORIAL SERVICES.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the Senate the Chair would state that when the Senate adjourns it will be to meet at eight o'clock to-night to hold a memorial service in memory of the late Senator J. K. P. Hall, and at nine o'clock for memorial service in memory of the late Senator John T. Fisher.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until eight o'clock this evening.

Mr. MILLS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 2.06 o'clock P. M. until Tuesday evening, May 4, 1915, at 8 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE JAMES K. P. HALL, LATE SENATOR FROM THE TWENTY-SIXTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

The Senate met at 8 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Charles H. Kline) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by resolution for holding memorial services on the death of Honorable James K. P. Hall, late Senator from the Twenty-sixth Senatorial District, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father we are assembled here because our Senate has set apart this evening as a memorial tribute to one of its most congenial and efficient members. One of the most striking characteristics of the late Senator was his intense interest in the welfare of young manhood. He was ever ready to give them sound advice and started many young men in their business careers by rendering them financial assistance. He was a public spirited man, a born leader. To his energies there were no limitations. He was a tireless worker from boyhood to ripe manhood. His influence in the halls of legislation was not confined to our own state but was nation wide. His charities were widespread, but not widely published. We pray that the memory of his broad-minded, large-hearted life may be a source of comfort and consolation to his widow, his sisters, brother, daughters, sons, and many friends. We pray that our Senate, in paying this historical tribute, may realize that the God of nations commends their brotherly action. These blessings we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE JAMES K. P. HALL, LATE SENATOR FROM THE TWENTY-SIXTH DISTRICT.

Mr. SONES offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, Almighty God in his wisdom removed from among us on January 15, 1915, our friend and associate, the Honorable James K. P. Hall, Senator from the Twenty-Sixth District; and

Whereas, This Body desires to enter its testimony in appreciation of the sterling qualities of our late member;

Therefore, Be it Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby records its high estimate of our late associate as a citizen, a legislator and a man;

Resolved, That in the death of Senator Hall the Commonwealth has lost one of its most substantial citizens, the Senate a faithful and efficient member and we, his associates, an honored and trustworthy friend;

Resolved, That we tender to his family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the great loss they have sustained;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the President and attested by the clerk be sent to the family of the deceased.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the same?

Mr. SONES. Mr. President and members of the Senate: We are assembled here tonight for the purpose of paying tribute to two of our members who have passed to the Great Beyond.

The Senator to whom I shall refer, was one of our older members, the late J. K. P. Hall who died at Tampa, Florida, January 15, 1915.

Senator Hall was born at Milesburg, Penna., September 30, 1844; he was admitted to the bar in November, 1866; was District Attorney from 1868 to 1877; Member of Congress from 1899 to 1903 and represented the 26th Senatorial District in the Senate of Pennsylvania for twelve consecutive years, 1903 to 1915. Owing to his growing business interests, which demanded his entire time, and which later assumed immense proportions, he retired from the practice of law in 1883. His interests were varied as well as large. He was extensively engaged for many years in the banking, lumber, tanning, mining, mercantile and railroad business, as well as various other enterprises, and it is perhaps, not too much to say, that more than any other man in Elk county, he was instrumental in developing the natural resources of this section of the State and in furnishing profitable employment to labor. He was still actively engaged in these lines of business at the time of his death, that is the banking, lumber and mercantile business.

He was a public spirited man of great courage and wonderful energy. Much of his time was devoted to public affairs in which he was intensely interested. Very early in his career he took an active part in politics and soon rose to a position of State-wide leadership in the Democratic party with which he had always been affiliated. He maintained this position for a number of years. How well he was regarded by his fellow citizens, in this and adjoining counties, is attested by his long and continuous public service in both Congress and the State Senate, and the estimate placed on his ability, character and attainments by his Democratic associates in the latter body, is shown by the fact that from the moment he took his seat in 1903 until the close of the last session of the Legislature, he was recognized by them as their leader. Owing to ill health he did not seek re-election to the Senate last fall. He was the candidate of his party for United States Senator in 1904 and served as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee in 1904 and 1905, and in other ways had been repeatedly and signally honored by his party and the people. As a legislator he rendered efficient and valuable service, being influential as well in the enactment of constructive and beneficial legislation as in the prevention of much that could not have proved otherwise than destructive and harmful. His sincerity was unquestioned; he made no false promises either to obtain or retain office. He was honest, conservative and able, and these qualities added to his legal attainments and his vast business experience, gave him a place of promise and influence among the lawmakers of the State seldom attained by a member of the minority party.

He was a natural leader of men, and this was because he possessed many attractive qualities. He was kind, generous, sociable, sympathetic and a most agreeable companion. He was a man of the people, acquainted with their trials and wants and ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in trouble and distress. His charities were greater and more widely extended than is generally known, for he was one of those truly charitable men who do not let their left hand know what their right doeth. He had been ill for several months; he endured surgical treatment of a most radical character, and before the final summons came, his life was several times despaired of, but he fought against death as he had fought the battles of life, with courage and indomitable will, and his heroic struggle to live, excited the unbounded admiration of his friends, who were legion. He did not want to die; he wanted to live and enjoy the friendships of the past, and to do, if possible, a little longer, his share of the work of the world, but the Great Judge, from whose decision there is no appeal, and to whom we herewith submit, had decreed otherwise and it was not to be.

In common with nearly all the members of this body, and with all its members as it was constituted in the two proceding sessions of the Legislature, I knew the late Senator Hall. Having been his colleague in those sessions it may be assumed that this statement is so obviously true and so well known as to be of no importance. As your associate and mine during the period covered by those sessions it would seem strange indeed if we did not know him. With many of you he served in this Chamber for a much longer time, and the opportunities of the older members to know him were of course greater than mine. But when I say that I knew him, I do not refer to mere acquaintanceship; we are all acquainted with many people, but we know only a few. Senator Hall was one of a few men whom to meet, even infrequetly, is to know. He was frank; expressed his sentiments openly, sometimes bluntly. One did not have to study the man in order to interpret his speech and actions. He spoke plainly, not evasively, or in words susceptible of different meanings, and what he said he meant. His actions followed his words, so that having heard him express himself on any subject before the Legislature, one did not need to inquire how he would vote. Frankness, I should say, was his dominant characteristic, and it was the possession of this quality that made it so easy to know him. He possessed many other admirable qualities. He was courageous, public spirited, honest and energetic. He did not favor or oppose legislation from any selfish motive. Although a man of large means he took a broad view of pending legislation, and was in no sense the advocate or representative of a class. He was a man of the people, acquainted with their trials and their needs, and his action here was always dictated by a desire to promote the common good of all. He was able and experienced, and during his long term of service in this Chamber he occupied a position of prominence and influence which is not often attained by a member of the minority party. This fact attests the esteem in which he was held, both as a man and as a legislator, not only by the members of his own party, but by the members of this body generally. He was a natural leader of men and this was because, in addition to his other good qualities, he had a kind and generous disposition and was a most charming companion. If he sometimes seemed to speak harshly to a friend, his apparent ill humor could always be safely attributed to a naturally aggressive manner, and never to a wanton desire to wound or hurt one's feelings, and he was so prompt and quick to reverse his outward attitude of severity, and his amends were always so whole hearted and gracious, that any unpleasant incident of this sort seemed only to be the means of cementing tighter the bonds of friendship. He was my friend, and because he was my friend, I mourn his death and offer this poor tribute to his memory.

> There is no death; what seems so is transition.
> This life of mortal breath
> Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
> Whose portal we call Death.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I only knew Mr. Hall as a Senator and therefore I can speak of him entirely uninfluenced by any contact of personal relationship. I sat near to him here and only met him in our association as Senators. But I was impressed with his keen insight into and knowledge of public affairs and with the natural kindness and sympathy of his disposition. He had grown up with and lived in the period of the world's greatest progress and development and was part and passed of the mighty evolution of the times in which he lived. His humanity made him loved and his abilities commanded respect and success in the material things of life. He was the kind of a man in whom our interest and regard increases as we know him better; one of the kind of men whose memory will longer undure and whose impress will be implanted longest amid the scenes and activities in which they moved. I was impressed with him as a man of action rather than of sentiment, one whose kindly actions were told in deeds as silent as they were substantial This is the way I was impressed with the character of Senator Hall during the several sessions I was associated with him here and I deem it a privilege at this time to pay this tribute to his memory.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, in addition to what has been said in regard to the loss sustained by the death of Senator Hall, I merely wish to state a word or two about his well known reputation and my personal knowledge of him in his own county. Senator Hall lived most of his life in Elk county, the county adjoining McKean county, where I live. Ever since I was a boy I have heard of his splendid deeds, his great business ability, and the great charitable work he has done in that county. In fact to visit his county was only to learn the history of the great work he had done in that county during his long and useful career. Every man who went to his funeral will recall the many kind remarks made by the old residenters of that county, of the great good he had done. During the session of 1913, I served as a member with him and I found during that time that whether he was with you or against you on the different measures that came up in that body that when the fight was over and the vote was counted, regardless of the result, he came around with the same smile the same friendly feeling, with no signs of any broken friendship. These are grand traits in any man's character and it is a pleasant recollection for us to have of his life and our association with him.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, it was only a few hours ago that I was personally acquainted with the fact that this memorial service was to be held this evening. I had not intended to make any remarks, but coming as I do from the western end of the State and living as I did within the sphere of the Senator's acquaintance and activity, and knowing him as I did, and knowing his friends, I feel that were I to remain silent in my chair, I would be neglectful of a duty, though sad and solemn as it may be. I think we do well to pause for a little while from the hurrying activities of this body in contemplation of the life and the character of him who was so recently one of us. His life was typical of the life of many successful men. In his chosen profession in his earlier years he attained distinction and won his spurs in the profession of the law. In the broader field of commercial activities in which he engaged he met with great success; in the halls of legislation in the State and the Nation he was a factor to be reckoned with his mental processes were quick, his vision was not obscured, his judgment was unerring and he possessed the faculty of brushing aside obscure phraseology in any bill under consideration and getting at the purpose and the purport of the measure according to his view point. It was my pleasure, though a sad one, to attend the funeral ceremonies at his home last January. If I remember it correctly he expired about the time that this Senate was convening. At that funeral, I learned much of the private character and generosity of the late Senator. I recall a little incident of a man of middle age, stalwart in form, forcible in expression, standing near me and saying to me that he had lost the best friend that he ever had, that Senator Hall had started him in business and I know that that man was only a representative of a very large class of men whom the Senator had aided. All men, I presume, like to project their lives as far into the future as possible. Some men like to live so that when they are gone they will be held in grateful remembrance by those who are left. Such was the desire, the wish, and the accomplishment of Senator Hall. His friends can take great satisfaction in the many successes of his varied career and his family comfort from the good deeds that he wrought. May he rest in peace.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE JOHN T. FISHER, LATE SENATOR FROM THE TWENTY-SEVENTH DISTRICT.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Charles H. Kline) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by resolution for holding memorial services on the death of Honorable John T. Fisher, late Senator from the Twenty-seventh Senatorial District, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father we realize that in the midst of life we are in death. To whom can we turn for comfort and help but to Thee. On every side we see our loved ones, our friends, and our companions passing from us into the great life beyond. We deeply regret the departure of our fellow-member of this Senate. We thank Thee for the beautiful characters and widely useful lives of his daughter and sons. They are in every true sense an honor to their beloved parents and a great credit and blessing to their State and Nation. We pray that this tribute paid by our Senate to the memory of their father may be a sweet and blessed consolation to them as they bow beneath the burden of their great sorrow. We commend them our Saviour to Thy love and guidance. May their lives be precious in Thy sight always. May Thy guiding spirit be realized in the lives of all our Senators and employees, and in the lives of their beloved families. These blessings we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE JOHN T. FISHER, LATE SENATOR FROM THE TWENTY-SEVENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Mr. DeWITT offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, The Omnipotent Ruler of all things did on January 15, 1914, call from among us John T. Fisher, a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania for the Twenty-seventh Senatorial District; and,

Whereas, His services to his constituents and the State of Pennsylvania entitle him to commemoration by the members of this Senate; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby enter upon its minutes the appreciation of the services of the late Senator Fisher, as a member of this body. He was at all times esteemed for his fidelity to duty and for the honest endeavor which he brought to the solution of questions of legislation submitted to the Senate during the session of 1913; and, be it

Resolved, That we hereby express our sympathy to his family and direct that a copy of these resolutions properly attested be communicated with our respect to the members of his family.

ASA K. DeWITT,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the same?

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President and members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, we are to-day called upon to do honor to the memory of a deceased public servant, the late Senator John T. Fisher.

I, perhaps had a better acquaintanceship and knowledge of the traits and character of Senator Fisher than any other member of this August body, for the decedent spent the latter days of his life in the town where I live.

Mr. Fisher was not an orator and made no pretense to leadership or superior statesmanship. He was free from all vindictive forces. These qualities fitted him to become what he was, a most faithful public servant. The work he did was in a quiet unostentatious manner,—no bluster, no threats, no attempt at dictation. It is well known that in his public life he was ever vigilant, diligent, faithful and conscientious. The fact that he was twice elected to the General Assembly, and then to the high office of State Senator, speaks louder for his popularity and ability than any eulogistic phrases that might fall from your humble servant's lips, or from the lips of any one who chooses to deliver an encomium to his memory. He came from a wonderfully cosmopolitan community, where perhaps every nationality on the face of the globe is represented. A part of the district is rich in agriculture, but a larger part is industrial and is located in the heart of the anthracite coal fields: So he represented the most varied and diversified trades and occupations imaginable.

He came up from the ranks of the common people, again proving that birth, however humble, is no barrier to any boy born within the borders of this, the greatest of nations, to prevent him from climbing the ladder, rung over rung, which he builds himself out of indomitable will power, pluck, energy and honesty, until he reaches the portals of fame and enters therein.

In his private life he was kind and gentle. He was a man of noble, generous impluses, firmly and warmly attached to his family and acquaintances. His death was mourned by a large circle of friends, and the sorrow was evinced by those who attended his funeral, coming as they did from all stations in life and from every part of his district, which was a lasting tribute to his memory.

After all, wealth, learning and power cannot of themselves make a man great, for true greatness consists in love, and true love manifests itself in the smile, the kind deed, the sympathetic word, the courteous handshake we give to a passing neighbor. Therefore, Senator Fisher, who had this greatest of all qualities, although dead, still lives in the memory of those who knew him best.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, my first and only acquaintance with Senator Fisher was in the session of 1913. At that time he had the seat now occupied by Senator Hackett and I had the seat now occupied by Senator Stewart. I became very well acquainted with Senator Fisher during that session and found him to be a man of very many splendid qualifications. In that session he had a great deal of sickness and attended to his duties the best he could under the circumstances. He was a man of very keen mind and had a very quick way of grasping the practical side of all legislation that came before him. I am convinced had he had the health so that he could have stayed in the session of 1913 more than he did that many more would have become better acquainted with him and appreciated the strong personality and keen intellect that he had. While I have never known anything of his life outside of the session of 1913, from the kind remarks I have heard from the people of his home county, I am convinced that he was one of the strong men in that county and one of the well-liked men in that county.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, gentlemen of the Senate, it is hard in a case of this kind to do justice, to speak words appropriate to our departed fellow Senator. During the session of 1913, I learned to know the deceased John T. Fisher exceptionally well. I remember on one occasion an interesting bill coming up in the Senate and going over and speaking to him. With his great big, brawny hand, developed by hard, honest toil, he said in his homely way, "Joe, I will be glad to give you a lift." And I remember just a few days before he crossed the bar, I happened to be in Shamokin, and I went to the hospital to see him. He was there lying semiconscious, and in his feeble way he reached up his hand, partially smiling. And the Doctor said, "I believe he recognizes you, Joe." That was the last I saw of John T. Fisher.

There are many lessons to be learned from John T. Fisher. We all remember of the meeting of last evening, the sons of toil and those who want to toil, and those who cannot toil. John T. Fisher, with a limited education in all the great principles of life that many people are favored with, surmounted all these difficulties, and from the very bottom came up to be an honored member of this body. We miss the homely, kindly handshake of John T. Fisher, because we learned to know him, to love him as a man whose word was as good as his bond. We surely miss him.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I hardly expected that on this evening I would be called upon to say anything regarding our late departed fellow-member, the Honorable John T. Fisher; but after listening to the other members, and listening attentively and some of them being in the position wherein they are not quite competent to extol the virtues of our late departed member in the manner that they should be, owing to the fact that his association with us here in the Senate was but for a short period of time, they were no doubt put to some disadvantage. I have a very full and fresh recollection of the Honorable John T. Fisher. I recollect him as being a member of this Senate. I also remember his kindly ways and the manner in which he attended to his duties in the short time in which he was in our midst. As has been said before, early in the session he became ill and was unable to attend fully to his duties. I have one recollection, however, of the Senator in one of our committee meetings, in which he tried, to the utmost of his ability, to have those members of the Grand Army, known, I think, as the Hundred Days Men, receive a pension from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the services they had rendered during the days of the Rebellion in their effort to save the honor and glory of this Commonwealth. I can well remember how urgently and how persistently he worked in the effort to have this bill come out of our Pension Committee and how he went on in his humble way to show all the valiant services of these men, who are not and have not been recognized by this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in their old days, and how he went on to say the great value they were to this Commonwealth. And as I sat here to-night the mystic chords of memory carried me back to the days of 1903, when I was but a youth and a member of the House of Representatives; and as I sat here while the other men spoke I started to have new and fonder recollections of the Honorable John T. Fisher.

I recall that in that session there were a number of young men new in the field that did not know the ways and manner in which to conduct themselves in their legislative duties, and I can recall a number of these young men in the session of 1903 time after time going to the late Senator Fisher to receive instructions as to the proper manner and the method wherein and whereby they should conduct themselves in their legislative duties.

He must have been a remarkable man in the community in which he lived. I know nothing of the community, but I say he must have been a remarkable man for this reason, if for no other—for on two occasions when the voters of this Commonwealth were in a tumult and uprising and uncertain as to whether or not their interests were best being cared for by the representatives in the Houses of this Commonwealth, they took it upon themselves to elect John T. Fisher. In the 1901 session he was elected by the constituents of the district wherein he resided, and those of you who can look back to the sessions of 1899 and 1901 can well remember that during those times tumult, dissatisfaction and discontent existed in this great Commonwealth and people were uncertain as to whom they should elect; that men different from the ordinary types of men were elected to these two bodies, particularly the sessions of 1899 and 1901, and John T. Fisher was elected by the people in his particular county at that time. That proves to me that in the hour of need and uncertainty they elected a man who at least they were convinced was absolutely honest, and to their satisfaction could perform the duties of a member of the House in such a manner that they would be selfcontented and satisfied. It is quite fresh in the memory of us all that two years ago in 1912 and 1913 political conditions in Pennsylvania were such as were never known or heard of before in our time, and again in these uncertain days when people with new ideas, new conditions and new thoughts in political activity were uncertain as to who should be sent to represent them in the Senate of Pennsylvania they again turned to the man whom they had depended upon in the tumultuous times of 1901 and 1903 and elected him to this body. I say these two elections at these two different times convince me beyond a doubt that he must have been a remarkable man in the community in which he lived. He must have been a man who had the good-will, the faith and the respect of the people in that particular community, and these things of themselves are sufficient for me to say that he must have been well loved in his life time and that his loss was a loss that that community will not overcome for a long time yet to come.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 9.30 o'clock P. M. until Wednesday morning, May 5, 1915, at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, May 4, 1915.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou art our Father and that we can approach Thee and talk to Thee as a little child talks to a parent. We can talk to Thee about our problems. We have personal problems, we have home problems, we have social problems, moral problems and spiritual problems. We thank Thee that we can talk to Thee about our struggles, the struggles against discouragement, struggles against disappointment, struggles against the losses of friends, losses of property and losses of money. We can talk to Thee about our mastership. We pray Thee that Thou wouldst help us to be masters over ourselves; over all these struggles, over all discouragements and in all things come off more than conquerors through Him that loved us. Bless us in this days work; may it be to us all a great delight and a great privilege and may the State be benefited and Thy name honored. We ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when, on motion of Mr. Beyer, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

House Bill No. 414, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Legislative Reference Bureau to continue the work commenced under the provisions of an act approved the twentieth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act directing the Legislative Reference Bureau to prepare compilations or codes by topics of the existing general laws of this Commonwealth for adoption or rejection by the Genearl Assembly fixing the powers and duties of the bureau therein fixing the compensation of the assistant director and making an appropriation therefor" fixing the powers and duties of the bureau therein and making an appropriation with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend the title by striking out in the 11th line after the word "therein" the words "fixing the duties and the compensation of the assistant director."

Strike out all of section 3.

Change section 4 to section 3, and striike out in line two after the word "the" the words "sum of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000)" and insert "further sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) in addition to the balance unexpended from the sum appropriated by said act of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, is entirely satisfied with the amendments.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 488, as follows:

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to encourage and authorize the formation of co-operative banking associations where the profits derived from the business after paying all legitimate expenses shall accrue to the depositors and borrowers of the association in proportion to their deposits or loans" approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred ninety-three and providing for the conversion of co-operative banking associations into banks of discount and deposit under certain regulations

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be lawful for any co-operative banking association which has been incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth and engaged in business for more than seven years and within three years next previous to the date of the expiration of its corporate existence to become a bank of discount and deposit as provided for under the act entitled "An Act for the incorporation and regulation of banks of discount and deposit" approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred seventy-six and supplements thereto In making such conversion the name of the association may be changed subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Banking and all its property real personal and mixed shall thereafter be vested in the bank of discount and deposit

Section 2 Notice of the intended conversion shall be given by the directors in two newspapers of general circulation in the county or place of business where the said association is located once a week for three months which notice shall be in the same form as now required for corporations originally organized as banks of discount and deposit

Section 3 The board of directors of the co-operative banking association making application for such change shall draw up articles of association and an organization certificate in the same form and manner as required for corporations originally organized as banks of discount and deposit which shall be signed and executed by the majority of the directors under the seal of the association A copy of the articles of association shall be forwarded to the Attorney-General for his inspection and approval and if approved by him he shall endorse his approval thereon and transmit the same to the Commissioner of Banking to be filed in his office

Section 4 The certificate shall contain a statement that such certificate is made to enable the co-operative banking association to become a bank of discount and deposit and shall declare that the full paid capital stock of the association is not less than fifty thousand dollars and that two-thirds of the holders thereof have authorized the directors to make such certificate to change and convert the co-operative banking association into a bank of discount and deposit

Section 5 This certificate shall be acknowledged before a judge or notary public which certificate with the acknowledgment certified and authenticated by the seal of such court or notary public shall be transmitted after approval by the Attorney- General of the articles of association as hereinbefore directed to the commissioner of banking to be filed and recorded in his office Copies of said certificate duly certified by the comissioner of banking shall be conclusive evidence in all courts of the Commonwealth of the existence of such corporation and of every other matter or thing which could be proved by the production of the original certificate

Section 6 The Commissioner of Banking upon receipt of the articles of association with the approval thereon of the Attorney-General as aforesaid and the certificate hereinbefore provided shall cause an examination to be made in order to determine the condition of such association and after such examination it appears to him that the said association is in a satisfactory condition and that its full paid capital is not less than fifty thousand dollars he shall certify a copy of said certificate with his approval thereon endorsed to the Governor who shall upon receiving the same direct letters patent to issue in the usual form to the said association which shall thereupon have the same powers and privileges and be subject to the same duties responsibilities and regulations in all respects as other associations originally incorporated as banks of discount and deposit under the act of May thirteenth one thousand eight hundred seventy-six and the supplements thereto

Section 7 A majority of the directors after executing the articles of association and organization certificate shall have power to execute all other papers and to do whatever may be required to make its organization perfect and complete as a bank of discount and deposit The capital stock shall be divided into shares of not less than fifty dollars each

Section 8 That after any co-operative banking association has been converted or changed into a bank of discount and deposit and the Governor has issued letters patent any shareholder not assenting to such conversion may give notice in writing to the directors within thirty days from the date of the letters patent of his desire to withdraw from the said association in which case he shall be entitled to receive from the said bank the value of the shares so held by him and in case of a dispute as to such value the same shall be ascertained by an appraisal made by a committee of three persons one to be selected by such shareholder one by the directors and the third by the first two and in case the value so fixed shall not be satisfactory to any such shareholder he may appeal to the Commissioner of Banking who shall cause a re-appraisal to be made which shall be final and binding and should the said re-appraisal exceed the value fixed by said committee the bank shall pay the expense of the said re-appraisal and otherwise the appellant shall pay the said expense The value so ascertained and determined shall be deemed to be a debt due and be forthwith paid to said shareholder by said bank and the shares so surrendered and appraised shall be sold at not less than the par value within thirty days of such surrender or shall be cancelled and deducted from the capital stock of the association In case any such cancellation and deduction shall reduce the capital stock of the bank below the minimum of the capital required by law the capital stock shall within sixty days from date of such cancellation be increased to the required amount in default of which the Commissioner of Banking shall have authority to proceed as in other cases of impairment of capital of banking companies

Section 9 All claims liabilities and rights of actions which have accrued against the co-operative banking association may be prosecuted against the bank of discount and deposit in its new name to which it shall have been changed and all assets suits judgments choses and rights of action owned by said co-operative banking association may be collected and prosecuted in the name of the bank of discount and deposit to which it has been changed

Section 10 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1581 (Senate No. 652), entitled:

An Act to amend the sixth eighth eleventh sixteenth and seventeenth sections of an act approved the twenty-sixth day of March one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five entitled "An Act relative to the public grounds and buildings defining the powers of the commissioners authorizing the Board of Commissioners to carry into effect the provisions of section twelve article three of the Constitution relative to contracts for stationery supplies fuel furniture furnishings distribution of documents repairs alterations or improvements and other matters needed by the Legislature the several departments boards and commissions of the State government and executive mansion authorizing the appointment of a superintendent and defining his powers authority and duties and providing for the appointment of subordinate officers required by this act and fixing the compensation of the same"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 4, line 8, by striking out the word "does" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "do"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1170 (Senate No. 435), entitled:

A supplement to an act approved the seventh day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act relating to and regulating motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles controlling their speed upon the public streets and highways in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing for their registration and licensing of certain operators by the State Highway Department prohibiting the operation of any motor vehicle by any person when intoxicated or without the consent of the owner forbidding the passage of any law laying a tax upon or requiring the registration of motor vehicles or licensing of any operator or regulating the speed of motor vehicles by any county borough city incorporated town or township establishing the rights of motor vehicles upon public highways with relation to other vehicles providing for their equipment and for the width of tires to be used upon motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles regulating the service of process and proceedings in actions for damages arising therefrom providing for arrest and for service of process and proceedings for violation of this act prescribing the penalties therefor and providing for the disposition of fees collected and fines imposed thereunder"

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1528 (Senate No. 754), entitled:

A Joint Resolution authorizing the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to lease a right of way through certain lands of the Commonwealtn situated in Cresson township Cambria county Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, if there is a gentleman in the House who represents the sponsor of this bill in the Senate, where it originated, I would like to have its provisions explained to the House.

Now, so far as I understand it, the way the bill reads, there is an absolute grant of an easement or right of way through the property of the State. Now, it also provides for the reversion, after thirty years, of what is left. Whatever it may be, it comes back. There is no consideration fixed. It may be one dollar or it may be more.

And now it does not provide that any lateral support shall be furnished to hold up the surface or if the lateral support is supplied, whether it shall be left when the property comes back. We would like to have a little light on this subject and I may go along with the measure, but we ought to know where we are at.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 393, entitled:

An Act relating to the powers duties and fees of coroners and their officers or assistants

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading

Mr. BUNGARD. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, with due regard and respect to the honorable gentleman, Mr. Neville, the sponsor of this bill, I wish to state to this House at this time that they had better look over this bill carefully before they vote upon it. I believe that this is not a good bill. This bill, to my mind, has some provisions in it that would tend to commercialize dead bodies. And then, if you will look on page three of this bill and see the provisions set forth there as to costs, you will find that this would cost our ciunties, it will cost Westmoreland county at least ten thousand dollars, and perhaps other counties in accordance. For instance, it fixes the mileage here at six cents and the regular rate of mileage in the State is two and one-half cents. And then these additional fees—gentlemen of the House, you can easily see from these additional fees here that are set forth that this will create an enormous expense on the counties. Therefore, gentlemen, I wish that you would carefully look over this bill before you vote and if you think it is a bad bill, then, gentlemen, let us vote it down. I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, the only interest I have in this bill is merely to explain it to my friend, who is laboring under a misapprehension. These fees enumerated in the Neville bill are merely for the purpose that the Coroner of each and every county may be enabled to earn sufficient money to pay his salary. If there is any excess he does not receive that money; as in Philadelphia and in other counties, each one of the Coroners must first earn his salary, otherwise he does not get it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me as though this bill tends unduly to increase the fees of Coroners. One objection I have to this bill is that it provides that the Coroner may make an investigation in all cases where death has occurred in less than twenty-four hours' sickness. The only object of a Coroner's inquest at the present day is to aid in the detection of crime, and in the majority of instances where death occurs, from heart disease and such causes, in less than twenty-four hours' sickness, a Coroner's investigation is entirely unnecessary.

The next objection I have to this bill is that it provides in all cases of suspicious circumstances the Coroner may make an investigation. This opens a wide door for unscrupulous men. I hold here a letter from C. E. Zimmerman, one of the most reliable undertakers in the western part of the State, which says, in part, as follows: "All reliable undertakers are, to a man, against this bill, and we want the family, and not a political appointee, to decide who shall bury their dead."

The next objection I have to this bill is the large amount of fees that may be taxed. For instance, for investigating each cause of death and viewing each dead body, where no inquest is held, $5.50; for investigating each case and viewing each dead body and holding each inquest, $10.00. Another instance, "For performing, or causing to be performed, each autopsy, except in case of murder, $25.00; for performing, or causing to be performed, each autopsy, in a case of murder, $50.00. This is to much. In many of the cases the Coroner can secure these services for one-half or one-third of this amount. The county is liable to the Coroner for the services of a physician. Under this bill, in an ordinary homicide case, the Coroner can tax seventy-five to a hundred dollars against the county; therefore, I am against this bill.

Mr. HACKETT in the Chair.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1256, File Folio 5825, entitled:

An Act fixing the pay of assessors in cities of the third class and in boroughs and townships of the second class was defeated on third reading on Wednesday evening, April 28th, be reconsidered.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill fixing the pay of assessors in cities of the third class and in boroughs and townships of the second class, which was defeated in a very light House last Wednesday evening, a large number of the members of this House friendly disposed to this bill not being here. It simply fixes the pay of assessors in cities of the third class and boroughs and townships of the second class. My idea is simply to equalize the pay of these assessors. In order to secure good men they should be sufficiently paid. In my opinion the labor is certainly worthy of his hire and I trust the House will pass this bill.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, this bill increases the pay of the rural assessors to five dollars a day. Now, it may be all right for opulent cities, like Easton, represented by the gentleman from Northampton, who is sponsor of this bill, to pay that if they want to, but for goodness sake don't wish it on townships all over the State of Pennsylvania, many of which have an assessed valuation of from only one hundred thousand to two hundred thousand dollars. I submit, gentlemen of the House, that this would be an unwise and unfortunate thing. It makes five dollars a day for eight hours' work, and for farmers, who are accumtomed to work fifteen hours a day, to let officials work for them eight hours for five dollars a day, would be unjust and ill-advised, and I hope the House will adhere to its position taken last week.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 351, as follows:

An Act relating to juvenile offenders and regulating their detention and trial

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemby met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all records of criminal actions against juveniles under the age of sixteen shall be entered in each county in a special docket only to be kept for that purpose exclusively Such docket shall not be open to public inspection and the records therein shall not be used in any subsequent proceeding against any such offender who is dependent therein

Section 2 Such docket shall be furnished by the juvenile court of each county at the expense of the county and shall be in such form as the court shall direct The docket shall be kept by a probation officer or some other person appointed by the court The court shall direct the manner in which such docket shall be kept and fix the fees and expenses in connection therewith

Section 3 All magistrates aldermen and justices of the peace shall hereafter without hearing discharge all juveniles under the age of sixteen or make return of all cases against such juveniles directly to the probation officer or person in charge of juvenile offenders in the county No record of any case against any such juvenile offender and no record of any such return shall be kept by any committing magistrate alderman or justice of the peace All such returns shall be entered in a docket provided for in section one

Section 4 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment to this bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 9, by striking out the word "dependent" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "defendant"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 981 (Senate No. 282), as follows:

An Act providing for and regulating the validation of certain borough ordinances

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemby met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That when a borough ordinance has heretofore been duly enacted and approved by the burgess and has been published in a newspaper published in the borough or county and transcribed in the ordinance book of the borough but when the president of council has failed to sign his name to the ordinance in the ordinance book of the borough any such ordinance shall be in full force and effect without further signing or publication if the borough council passes a resolution accepting the provisions of this act and if the resolution is signed by the burgess and is published and is transcribed in the ordinance book as ordinance of boroughs are by law required to be published and transcribed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed he same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1397 (Senate No. 375), as follows:

An Act relative to the deposit of county funds by the county treasurer in banks in certain counties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemby met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the county treasurer in counties having a population not exceeding one hundred and twenty thousand inhabitants shall not deposit county funds in any bank until the bank agrees to pay on any such account in excess of one thousand dollars interest at a rate not less than two per centum per annum on daily balances such interest to be paid to the county treasurer for the use of the county

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire before you vote on this bill to call your attention to it in this particular. You will notice that this bill went through a very careful process of elimination.

The larger counties have been taken out of this bill. It simply refers to the smaller counties, or the smallest counties in the State and it provides that in those counties where the funds and the balances are the smallest that they must first require from the banks in which they put out that money interest, or they cannot put it in any bank, and if no bank is willing, with the small deposits in these smaller counties, to pay interest they must keep them in their socks and there is no way whereby they can have the banking facilities in the smaller counties and the smaller banks. They are going to be compelled to pay interest for small balances, whereas larger counties and larger banks having the larger balnces pay no interest whatever. Now, I submit that this is not fair, gentlemen, and I ask the members from the larger counties to vote as they did before they had this bill amended so that their counties were stricken out, and vote against it. In the smaller banks throughout these smaller counties, very frequently the cost of handling these accounts does not leave any balance for interest or any great profit, but in the larger counties and the larger banks where the profit may be, have very properly seen fit that, and I do not judge your judgment of the matter, they will be eliminated. Now, therefore, I ask you to vote as you did in having your counties eliminated by these amendments in this bill. There is another one of the House bills on the calendar applying only to the smaller counties, for as you have had it amended it does not apply to your county. It is not fair, gentlemen of the House, to make a sauce for one county and a different sauce for another. Let us be fair and let us do it for all or for none, and not only make it apply to the smaller counties and the smaller banks. I ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I will have to take exception to the remarks made by these gentlemen on the floor. There has been scarcely a piece of legislation passed during this session, but what the same objections have been made to it and along the same lines that the gentleman is making. We come before you with matters of this kind wherein the larger cities, the larger counties and larger districts in this State shall be exempt from any of these measures, and I have never heard the gentleman, who just left the floor, get up and make any remarks in direct opposition to a measure of that kind. We are coming before you this morning, gentlemen of the House, and asking you to assist us in the smaller counties of this state; we are coming before you and asking that the funds placed in the various banks in the various counties be placed in such a position that they will draw for us a certain percentage, as they should. I do not think we ask too much to ask that each of you, who are members from the various larger districts of the State of Pennsylvania to come to our assistance who are struggling in the smaller districts. Time after time have we voted on legislation wherein the larger cities of one million and not over one million and a half, and cities of three hundred thousand and not over five hundred thousand, have come to us and asked us to support these measures. Now, gentlemen of the House, we come to you and are asking you to support this measure, assisting us in the smaller districts of this great State of Pennsylvania. There is no discrimination, there is nothing in it that will interfere with these larger counties or these larger districts, and I think that it is only fair, right and equitable that you vote to help the smaller counties who are struggling for this assistance and to get their benefit from the funds that may be placed in the various banks and various institutions which will draw for us an interest. I ask you, gentlemen, of this House, to help us put this measure through.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to call your attention to a statement made by the gentleman from McKean. He spoke of these bills having been amended to eliminate to help along the larger counties leaving the impression with the House that it was done with the purpose of securing their votes toward the passage of this bill. You gentlemen will notice that the bill in its original form included all counties under one hundred and fifteen thousand, and it was amended to include all counties under one hundred and twenty thousand, instead of its having been amended to eliminate larger counties, the reverse is true—it was raised five thousand. We had the other day before us, for our consideration, a bill covering practically the same subject with the exception that the treasure was not given permission to select the bank in which he was to place his deposits. To my mind, this is the better bill of the two. You notice that it calls for two per cent. on daily balances. That, to my mind, is in keeping with conservative banking, and I do not believe you will find, or will find very few banks who will not agree to that proposition. The difference between this bill and the other bill, is that it eliminates the expenses of advertising; it eliminates that feature that takes away from the county treasurer, whom we bond for the security of the money, the right to select his own bank. I ask the members of this House to vote in favor of this bill. The principle of both bills is right, but, to my mind, this is the better bill of the two.

Mr. OAKS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend to include counties up to (250) two hundred and fifty thousand.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears objection and unanimous consent is not granted.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, that proposition completely refutes every word which the gentleman from Armstrong has just said, that this bill has been refused to be amended to include larger counties. We also know that there is a bill on the calendar now introduced by a gentleman of the House which started in to provide for this regulation of county deposits to cover every county in the State. If you will look over the records of that bill, as it is in your File Folio to-day, you will see that it was amended in the House Committee, and each time it was amended to a smaller number of population, so that more counties would be eliminated, and you have refused to include even large counties of twice the population that is called for in this bill as it stands to-day. Now, I submit to you, let us be fair in this proposition, and if it is right to require county funds to secure interest upon the same as they are deposited in the banks, then, in the name of fairness and justice and good business, why is it not right to require it when the deposit is two, three, four, five or ten times as much as these deposits in the smaller counties throughout the State? Why is it, that we are simply limiting it to these small counties and these small balances and banks, and allowing the larger ones and larger balances and banks who are able and willing to pay this interest where the smaller ones cannot and will not? Why eliminate them and compel the county treasurer to go around and beg and ask some bank to please pay him interest for the smaller counties in this State. They will have absolutely no place to deposit their funds under this bill. Now, I wish to read to you gentlemen, a letter from a bank in one of the small counties, from McKean County, if you please, on this very question, and it is as follows:

"Our attention has been called to Senate Bill No. 375" ———this is the bill whose merits we are now discussing ———"requiring interest to be paid on county funds." ———which would necessarily be by the smaller banks of the State———"We believe this bill should be defeated, because the present cost of taking care of the account, added to the proposed interest charge, would in many cases cause a positive loss to the depository bank.

The general public does not understand the cost of taking care of a bank account. This includes: First, loss of interest on checks payable in other towns of from two to six days. Second, exchange charged on these items by collecting banks. Third, cost of check books, clerk hire and all the expenses incidental to running a bank.

"From the fact that many thousand dollars worth of checks are in transit, and cannot be counted as cash until advice of payment is received, a bank balance is more apparent than real. This fact can be verified by calling" on any bank in Harrisburg.

"I am sorry I did not know of this bill before, so as to have an opportunity of going over the matter with you in detail."

Now, gentlemen, the facts are these—that this bill which originally included the larger banks and larger counties includes only the smallest county and the smallest bank. Therefore, let us do it right or not at all; and I ask you to vote down this bill as you have already done on the other bill, and for the same reason that you voted down the amendments including other counties.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 203, entitled:

An Act requiring all locomotives operated by common carriers to be equipped with head lights of a certain candle power and providing a penalty for violation thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill provides for a power headlight on all locomotives. As I understand the provisions of this bill, in two otner States they have passed power headlight provisions. Mr. Speaker, I have been informed by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers that they cannot see thirty feet ahead of the engine at times. The semaphor signal is set to stop the engineer and the signal tower man tells them that the headlight is not lit. This bill provides that there shall be on all locomotives an equipped headlight which shall show a light for six hundred feet in order as these men plow through the darkness at night there shall be at least some regard had that ahead of the engine they shall be able to see a respectable distance so that if there is danger ahead they can see the signal light; I think it is entirely right and proper and that it is a fair bill and I ask the House to support it.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, we had on our committee a gentleman who is a practical engineer and I am informed that this is a bad bill, especially where there is a double track system and where there are curves in the road. Now, we have just passed through a siege of full crews and it seems to me that we would make a serious mistake in putting another measure upon the statute books of Pennsylvania that required an effort similar to that of the Full Crew measure to repeal at the next session of the Legislature. It even is more vicious that the Full Crew Law for the reason that the railroad companies would leave off the extra man when they came to the State line and go on through the next State, where it was not in vogue, and come back and pick him up. But when you compel them to put this headlight on it will be a very difficult matter to take it off when they come to the State line and leave it there until they come back and take it on again in order to comply with the law of Pennsylvania.

Now, I am informed by a number of engineers on our road, near our home, that this bill should not pass. Personally, I am in favor of doing anything that will give any relief to the workingmen or to the trainmen, and I think I have recorded my vote accordingly on other questions; but when it comes to a measure that affects the safety of the traveling public like this, it is only necessary to call attention to the strong headlights on automobiles, when you meet one coming around a bend in the road and see how it blinds the driver of either machine. The same thing is true of the engine. This requires a headlight of such candlepower that will enable the engineer to see a man or an object the size of a man six hundred feet ahead of the train. We have had hearing after hearing before the committee and we are convinced—at least some of us are,—that it is a bad measure and ought not to go on the statute books of Pennsylvania. I appeal to you again to defeat this bill and I hope you will do better than you did on similar occasions.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I recall very well in my own locality when the railroad had these powerful headlights on the locomotives and they were in operation for less than a year or about a year. They were taken off, and the impression was when they were first put on that they would be a protection to the traveling public. The information that I have received from railroad men as to why they were taken off was because with that vivid bright light it was almost impossible to read the signals. In the operation of railways you know very well that all along the line they use various colored lights as signals which tell the engineer what there is in front of him. I think you will all agree with me that under a very intense light on a locomotive it would make it very much more difficult to read a warning light. My own judgment is that the members of this House—none of us, I am frank to say that I know nothing about the proposition personally, except that under a vivid light shining in front of me I cannot see well to read the warning light. This bill, as I read it, calls only for a light sufficient to show certain objects six hundred feet distant. I think every member of the House realizes that if a locomotive run at the speed of forty miles or more, that it cannot be stopped, even though every brake responds automatically under air pressure, in six hundred feet. Now, it may be that from one standpoint that it is possible for a certain class of accidents to be eliminated. I don't say that they should not; but I do know to my satisfaction that from another standpoint, namely, a light so bright that it would interfere with the reading of the signals that probably while in the one instance you might get a moiety of protection, in the other you would get none; and that agrees with what my friend, Mr. Milliron has said; and it is for that reason and the information we all get that I think it would be very unwise to pass an act forcing the various railway companies to put a light on the locomotive such as we members of the Legislature might think wise and we not knowing anything about the subject. I really think it would be much wiser to leave that matter to the men who are experienced in the operation of trains to operate them in a way to produce the greatest degree of safety. It seems to me that if I were operating a railway that I certainly would prefer a light that would lead to a greater degree of safety to the public. Even if I cared nothing for the public, yet I would at least care for the property that was at hazzard all the time, and I think it would be very unwise for this Legislature to undertake to say what kind of light shall be on the head of the locomotive. It seems to me we could much better leave the matter as it is.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, it seems that I can approach the question of headlights on locomotives with some degree of propriety because of the fate that met the fender bill that I had in this House, and it seems to me that the House at least ought to be logical and defeat this bill. The strong headlight on the locomotive is baffling to the engineer and it is no good to any one else because, as the gentleman from Delaware says, that locomotive could not be stopped quickly enough anyhow. Besides that, the signals are of various colors and this headlight, if placed on the automobile, would make it almost impossible for the locomotive engineer to discern the various colors.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, there is a Federal regulation on this subject now. On April 1st of this year President Wilson signed a bill giving the Interstate Commerce Commission the right to regulate the running of locomotives, the equipment thereof, whether they need bells, headlights, or any other apparatus that may make for safety and security. Therefore, I think this bill ought to be voted down.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The bill was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Fruit, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FRUIT. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the House the contents of this bill, what it does. It may be that we are not thoroughly acquainted with it and we want to know about it.

Mr. FRUIT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is an amendment to what is known as the 21st section of the Automobile Act of 1913. Under the law of 1913, after a summary conviction before a Justice of the Peace, in the two instances of exceeding the speed limit and failure to blow a horn at crossings, the present method of procedure is, that after having been found guilty by a Justice of the Peace, he sends the information to the District Attorney, who then presents it to the Grand Jury. If the Grand Jury finds a true bill for a fine of ten dollars, it then goes to the Court of Quarter Sessions and the Petit Jury. Suppose the Petit Jury then finds the man guilty. The Court has ruled, I believe in Allegheny county, that it has no right then to impose a fine on this person who has either exceeded the speed limit or has failed to blow his horn at a crossing. The result is, that this man who has violated the law, the result is that this man who has violated the law is allowed to go scot free. In addition to that, they have a great deal of trouble in getting Grand Juries and Petit Juries to convict, on account of the reason that the offense is so small and the fine involved is from ten to twenty-five dollars. The result has been that the Automobile Association of the State as well as the Justices of the Peace and the constables are never exactly certain what is going to happen. This bill was introduced to clarify the procedure with regard to that section. The procedure now is, if this bill is passed, by what is known as an allequater by the Court of Quarter Sessions, which is, in case a man is found guilty by a magistrate, the case is then laid before the Court of Quarter Sessions or the appropriate Court. That eliminates the question of the expenses of the Grand Jury. It also eliminates the question of expenses of the Petit Jury and allows the Court himself to determine, from the evidence, what the facts are. If he finds that the man has violated either the speed limit or failed to blow his horn, it then gives him the right, which the present act does not clearly give him, to impose the fine. The fines are not changed under this amendment. It is simply a question of procedure.

There is a further slight amendment in this section which says that the prosecution shall be commenced within one week from the time the offence is committed. This may seem a trifle short, and if it is passed here this morning, I am going to have it amended to ten days or two weeks in the Senate. My reason for not amending it now, is that it will hold the bill over for an extra day and may, in some way, impede its progress through the Senate on account of the great amount of business during the last few days of this session.

The whole purpose of the bill, in conclusion, is simply to clarify the procedure in summary conviction cases. It does not apply in any way to any of the other cases of trespass, such as if a person is run down by an automobile and injured. He still has his right within two years to start proceedings. It does not apply to the revocation of licenses either for drunkenness or the continued misuse of the speed laws. It merely applies to the summary conviction cases in this section, and I hope that the House will vote for the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

An Act entitled 'An Act to amend the first section of an act entitled 'An Act relating to the return of moneys escheated to the Commonwealth' approved the fourth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five extending the same to certain other cases of escheat' approved June twenty-five one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five (Pamphlet Laws two hundred eighty-three)"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

Insert on page 3, in section six (6), after the word "possible," in line five (5), the following:

"and shall publish forthwith, once a week for four successive weeks, in one or more general newspapers having the largest circulation published in the city or county in which such corporataions, companies, banks, trust companies, insurance companies, limited partnership and partnership association may be located, and the legal periodical, if any, designated by rules of court for the publication of legal notices, a true and accurate statement containing the names, addresses and amount of money or character of property belonging to such persons or for whose benefit the same is held."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1241, as follows:

An Act amending section four of an act approved the twelfth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act regulating certain political parties providing for and regulating the nominations of candidates of such political parties for certain public offices the election of delegates and alternate delegates to National party conventions and of certain party officers including State committeemen a method whereby electors of such political parties may express their choice of candidates for the office of President of the United States and the payment by the several counties and their reimbursement by the State of the expenses of the same authorizing the State committee of a political party to make and to alter amend and revoke rules and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act and for the punishment of certain offenses provided for herein and repealing inconsistent legislation."

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 14 Each board of trustees shall appoint a superintendent of the farm and such other employes as the board may deem proper all of whom shall be bona fide citizens of Pennsylvania The compensation and duties of the superintendent and employes shall be fixed by the board

On the question.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BEYER offered the following motion which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Moved by Mr. Beyer, seconded by Mr. Graham, that House Bill No. 1043, File Folio 7351, be postponed for the present.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1054, entitled:

An Act providing for the purchase of a tract of land to be used for the benefit of the Eastern Penitentiary regulating the operation of the tract and the duties of the Secretary of Agriculture and the Commission of Forestry and making an appropriation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BEYER offered the following motion which was twice read considered and agreed to:

Moved by Mr. Beyer, seconded by Mr. Curry, that further consideration of House Bill No. 1054, File Folio 6561 be postponed for the present.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1084, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An Act to provide for the better protection of life and property by the examination and licensing of engineers having charge of steam boilers steam engines and appliances connected therewith in cities of the second and third class of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for violation" approved the fourth day of April one thousand nine hundred and five with amendments thereto

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the bill now before us is the bill to repeal the engineers license law. I think it would be a mistake to repeal this act. I consider it would be, in fact, dangerous. If this bill would pass it would simply mean that people could tend boilers in buildings where there were hundreds of people employed, whether they qualified as engineers or not. I consider this a mistake to repeal an act of this kind and I hope the bill will be voted down.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the sponsor of the bill I move that further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1301, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the twenty-eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act requiring bills and answers in equity to be sworn to and abolishing the rule that the averments of a responsive answer must be overcome by the testimony of two witnesses or of one witness sustained by corroborating circumstances equivalent to the testimony of another witness in order to entitle plaintiff to a decree except in certain cases"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BEYER offered the following motion which was twice read considered and agreed to:

Moved by Mr. Beyer, seconded by Mr. Curry, that further consideration of House Bill No. 1055, File Folio 6571, be postponed for the present.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1195, as follows:

An Act to amend revise and consolidate the law providing for the burial of certain honorably discharged soldiers sailors and marines at the expense of the counties in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death to provide a system for effecting the burial of such soldiers sailors and marines to provide head stones and markers for the graves of such soldiers sailors and marines and to authorize the county commissioners of the several counties to purchase plots of ground for the burial of such soldiers sailors and marines

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be the duty of the coutny commissioners of each county in this State to appoint a sufficient number of suitable persons in each city township borough and ward in their county other than those prescribed by law for the care of paupers and the custody of criminals whose duty it shall be upon application made to them to look after and cause to be buried in a decent and respectable manner in any cemetery or burial ground other than those used exclusively for the burial of the pauper dead at an expense to their county not exceeding fifty ($50.00) dollars the body of any honorable discharged soldier sailor and marine who served or who shall hereafter serve in the army or navy of the United States during any war in which the United States was or shall hereafter be engaged or who served or shall hereafter serve in the army or navy of the United States where a state or condition of war existed or shall hereafter exist in the United States or any foreign country or territory or upon the high seas or who was in active service in the militia of the State of Pennsylvania under and in pursuance of any proclamations issued by the Governor during the Civil War and not duly mustered into the service of the United States and who was honorably discharged or relieved from such service and shall hereafter die within their county or shall die beyond their county and shall have had a legal residence within their county at the time of his death And the persons who shall be so apointed shall hold their offices at the pleasure of the county commissioners and shall serve without compensation

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the persons so appointed in each city township borough and ward in each county before assuming the charge and expense of the burial of the body of and deceased soldier sailor or marine under the provisions of this act first to satisfy themselves by a careful inquiry into and examination of all the circumstances in the case of such deceased soldier sailor or marine whose body they are called upon to bury that he served in the army or navy of the United States during a war in which the United States was engaged or served in the army or navy of the United States where a state or condition of war existed in the United States or any foreign country or territory or upon the high seas or was in active service in the militia of the State of Pennsylvania under and in pursuance of any proclamations issued by the Governor during the Civil War and not duly mustered into the service of the United States and was honorably discharged or relieved from such service and died in their county or having died beyond their county shall have had a legal residence within their county at the time of his death whereupon if they are satisfied that such facts exist they shall take charge of the body of such deceased soldier sailor or marine and cause it to be buried in the manner mentioned in the first section of this act and thereupon they shall immediately report their action in the case to the county commissioners of their county setting forth the facts ascertained by them together with the name rank and command to which such deceased soldier sailor or marine belonged at the time of his service the character of his occupation immediately preceding his death the date of his death and place of burial and also an accurately itemized statement of the expenses incurred in and about the said burial which report shall be duly attested by three reputable persons of full age who have knowledge of the facts

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the county commissioners of each county in this State upon receiving the reports and statements of expenses from their appointees under the provisions of this act to transcribe in a book to be kept for the purpose all the facts contained in such reports and statements and to draw warrants upon the treasurer of their county for the payment of such expenses not exceeding however the said sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars on each body buried in accordance with the provisions of this act to be paid out of the funds of the county and such warrants shall be made payable to the persons appointed under the provisions of this act who shall have buried the bodies for which the warrants are to be so drawn

Section 4 All public officers agents and servants and all officers agents and servants of any county city township borough district or other municipality or of any almshouse prison morgue hospital home or other public institution having the control over the body of a deceased honorably discharged soldier sailor or marine whose body is entitled to be buried under the provisions of this act shall immediately on the death of any such soldier sailor and marine notify the person or persons in the immediate or adjoining district who has or have been appointed by the county commissioners under the provisions of this act to take charge of the burial of such honorably discharged soldiers sailors and marines of the death of such soldier sailor and marine whereupon it shall be the duty of the said person or persons to take charge of the said body and bury it in accordance with the provisions of this act

Section 5 It shall also be the duty of the county commissioners of each county in this State upon the death of any soldier sailor or marine who shall be buried within their counties under the provisions of this act to cause a headstone to be placed at the head of the grave of each such deceased soldier sailor or marine containing his name and if possible the organization to which he belonged or in which he served to be of such material and design as they may deem suitable and the expense for the same shall be paid out of the funds of the county in which such soldier sailor or marine died or shall have had his legal residence Provided however That the expense shall not exceed the sum of fifteen dollars for each headstone and the county commissioners of each county acting under this section shall draw a warrant on the treasurer of their county for the payment of said expense in favor of the party or parties furnishing such headstone

Section 6 The county commissioners of the several counties of this State shall upon the petition of any ten reputable free holders of any city township borough or district in said county procure for and furnish to said petitioners some suitable and appropriate metal terra cotta or other suitable markers for the grave of each and every soldier sailor and marine who served with honor in the military or naval forces of the United States during any war or where a state or condition of war existed or in active service in the militia of the State of Pennsylvania under and in pursuance of any proclamation issued by the Governor during the Civil War and not duly mustered into the service of the United States and buried within the limits of said city township borough or district to be placed upon the grave of such soldier sailor or marine for the purpose of permanently marking and designating said grave for memorial purposes

Section 7 The county commissioners of the several counties of this State are hereby authorized to purchase plots of ground in any cemetery or burial ground in their respective counties for the interment of honorably discharged soldiers sailors and marines whose bodies are entitled to be buried under the provisions of this act and to draw their warrant on their county treasurer for the payment of the same Provided however That the purchase price of said plots of ground shall not be charged against or allotted as part of the cost of burial of any soldier sailor or marine who may be buried in any of said plots under the provisions of this act

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 784, entitled:

An Act to require the reporting by physicians to the State Department of Health of certain occupational diseases and providing penalties for violations thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. C. A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the sponsor of this bill for an explanation of it.

The SPEAKER. Will the Gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir. The bill now before us provides that when a physician discovers a case of lead poisoning or any other occupational disease that after forty-eight hours after he has diagnosed the case he shall report to the State Board of Health—to the Department of Health of the State. The purpose is that the Department of Labor and Industry and the State Board of Health will be able to gather and keep statistics relative to occupational disease. That is all there is to it. The bill was amended in committee extending the time in which the physicians are requested to make their report. The original bill provided that they should make their report immediately. As amended it provides that the report be made forty-eight hours after they take up the case. The bill was amended in committee by the consent of myself and the Department of Labor and Industry to read "forty'eight hours after the diagnosis of the case." I hope the bill will go through.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman in case of anthrax, who is to determine what the occupational disease was and if the physician knows whether the disease was contracted in his occupation?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, that is left solely to the judgment of the physician who has the determining factor in the case.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE AND REPORT TO THE NEXT SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE ALL MATTERS PERTAINING TO THE CONSTRUCTION OF A SHIP CANAL ACROSS THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY AND CONNECTING THE PORT OF PHILADELPHIA WITH THE ATLANTIC OCEAN, AND MAKING AN APPROPRIATION TO MEET THE EXPENSES OF SAID COMMISSION.

Whereas, The suggestion has been made by members of the Board of Strategy of the Navy Department of the United States, that a ship canal across New Jersey, connecting the port of Philadelphia with the Atlantic Ocean would make the Philadelphia Navy Yard the greatest naval station in the world; and,

Whereas, such a canal of the width and depth of the Panama Canal would increase greatly the commercial and manufacturing prosperity of the State of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs), That a committee of six members of the General Assembly be appointed, three to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to investigate and to report at the next session of the General Assembly their findings upon the following questions:

1. The feasibility and advisability of a ship canal across New Jersey;
2. The route of such a canal;
3. The total cost of its construction;
4. The share that should be borne by the State of Pennsylvania, provided that the actual expenses incurred by the committee in this investigation shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) which shall be provided for in the General Appropriation bill.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will lie over for printing.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED.

Mr. WOOD asked and obtained unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

By Mr. WOOD. House Bill No. 1721.

An Act to validate acts done and conveyances or mortgages made by or to corporations and judicial sales or sheriff's sales had on any corporate obligations or mortgage, after letters patent are issued and before the recording of their charters.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1497, as follows:

An Act authorizing the exoneration of John McSorley from the payment of certain taxes erroneously assessed

Whereas In the county assessment for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen the assessor of county taxes for Allegheny county erroneously assessed John McSorley with a mortgage dated the twenty-third day of February one thousand nine hundred and twelve which mortgage was executed and delivered to the said John McSorley and was recorded in the recorder's office of Allegheny county on April twelfth one thousand nine hundred and twelve in mortgage book one thousand four hundred and sixty-five page five hundred and thirty-nine and

Whereas The tax on said mortgage together with the amount of the penalty imposed for failure to make return of the said mortgage amounted to five hundred and ten dollars ($510.00) and

Whereas The said John McSorley did not own the mortgage at the time of the assessment or any time subsequent thereto he having assigned such mortgage to the Wilkinsburg Real Estate and Trust Company on March twenty-ninth one thousand nine hundred and twelve which assignment was made on the back of said mortgage recorded on the date aforesaid and

Whereas The county commissioners being convinced that the said John McSorley should not have been assessed with the said mortgage exonerated the said John McSorley from the payment of three-fourths of the amounts of the tax or three hundred and eighty-two dollars and fifty cents ($382.50) and

Whereas The said county commissioners were without authority of law to exonerate the said John McSorley from the remaining one-fourth of said tax or one hundred and twenty-seven dollars and fifty cents ($127.50) as this represented the portion of the whole tax claimed by the Commonwealth as State taxes and

Whereas It is proper that the Commonwealth should exonerate the said John McSorley from the payment of any money claimed by the Commonwealth by reason of the said erronous assessment therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Auditor General is authorized to exonerate John McSorley of the fourteenth ward City of Pittsburgh County of Allegheny from the payment of any tax to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania imposed on the mortgage dated February twenty-third one thousand nine hundred and twelve executed and delivered to the said John McSorley recorded in the recorder's office of Allegheny county in mortgage book volume one thousand four hundred and sixty-five page five hundred and thirty-nine which tax was imposed pursuant to the county assessment of Allegheny county for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1530 (Senate Bill No. 574), entitled:

An Act to amend rule eighteen of the General Rules in article twenty-five of the act of June nine one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and fifty-six) entitled "An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the bituminous coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith"

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 390, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-sixth day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven entitled "An Act granting an annuity to J. H. Pershing"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the first section of an act approved the twenty-sixth day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven entitled "An Act granting an annuity to J. H. Pershing" which reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the State Treasurer be and is hereby directed to pay to J H Pershing of Tyrone county of Blair an annuity at the rate of one hundred and twenty dollars per year commencing the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven payable semi-annually during his natural life Provided That should the said J H Pershing receive during his lifetime a pension from the federal government then the provisions of this act are to become a nullity" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the State Treasurer is hereby directed to pay to J H Pershing of Tyrone in county of Blair an annuity at the rate of three hundred dollars a year commencing the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and fifteen payable semi-annually during his natural life Should the said J H Pershing receive during his lifetime a pension from the federal government then the provisions of this act are to become a nullity

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading,

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consiueration of House Bill No. 1431 (Senate Bill No. 52), entitled:

An Act relating to the sale of goods

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That

First A contract to sell goods is a contract whereby the seller agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price

Second A sale of goods is an agreement whereby the seller transfers the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price

Third A contract to sell or a sale may be absolute or conditional

Fourth There may be a contract to sell or a sale between one part owner and another

Section 2 Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract and to transfer and acquire property

Where necessaries are sold and delivered to an infant or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract he must pay a reasonable price therefor or return the goods in substantially the same condition as when received within reasonable time

Necessaries in this section mean goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or other person and to his actual requirement at the time of delivery

Section 3 Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf a contract to sell or a sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal) or by word of mouth or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth or may be inferred from the conduct of the parties

Section 4 First A contract to sell or a sale of any goods or choses in action of the value of five hundred dollars or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods or choses in action so contracted to be sold or sold and actually receive the same or give something in earnest to bind the contract or in part payment or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract or sale be signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf

Second The provisions of this section apply to every such contract or sale notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time or may not at the time of such contract or sale be actually made procured or provided or fit or ready for delivery or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof or rendering the same fit for delivery but if the goods are to be manufactured by the seller especially for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business the provisions of this section shall not apply

Third There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer either before or after delivery of the goods or any part thereof expresses by words or conduct his assent to becoming the owner of those specific goods

Section 5 First The goods which form the subject of a contract to sell may be either existing goods owned or possessed by the seller or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract to sell in this act called "future goods"

Second There may be a contract to sell goods the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen

Third Where the parties purport to effect a present sale of future goods the agreement operates as a contract to sell the goods

Section 6 First There may be a contract to sell or a sale of an undivided share of goods If the parties intend to effect a present sale the buyer by force of the agreement becomes an owner in common with the owner or owners of the remaining shares

Second In the case of fungible goods there may be a sale of an undivided share of a specific mass though the seller purports to sell and the buyer to buy a definite number weight or measure of the goods in the mass and though the number weight or measure of the goods in the mass is undetermined By such a sale the buyer becomes owner in common of such a share of the mass as the number weight or measure bought bears to the number weight or measure of the mass If the mass contains less than the number weight or measure bought the buyer becomes the owner of the whole mass and the seller is bound to make good the deficiency from similar goods unless a contrary intent appears

Section 7 First Where the parties purport to sell specific goods and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have wholly perished at the time when the agreement is made the agreement is void

Second Where the parties purport to sell specific goods and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished in part or have wholly or in a material part so deteriorated in quality as to be substantially changed in character the buyer may at his option treat the sale

(a) As avoided or

(b) As transferring the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the sale was indivisible or to pay the agreed price for the goods in which the property passes if the sale was divisible

Section 8 First Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and subsequently but before the risk passes to the buyer without any fault on the part of the seller or the buyer the goods wholly perish the contract is thereby avoided Second Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and subsequently but before the risk passes to the buyer without any fault of the seller or the buyer of the goods perish or the whole or a material part of the goods so deteriorate in quality as to be substantially changed in character the buyer may at his option treat the contract

(a) As avoided or

(b) As binding the seller to transfer the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the contract was indivisible or to pay the agreed price for so much of the goods as the seller by the buyer's option is bound to transfer if the contract was divisible

Section 9 First The price may be fixed by the contract or may be left to be fixed in such manner as may be agreed or it may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties

Second The price may be made payable in any personal property

Third, Where transferring or promising to transfer any interest in real estate constitutes the whole or part of the consideration for transferring or for promising to transfer the property in goods this act shall not apply

Fourth Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions the buyer must pay a reasonable price What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case

Section 10 First Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods at a price or on terms to be fixed by a third person and such third person without fault of the seller or the buyer cannot or does not fix the price or terms the contract or the sale is thereby avoided but if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor

Second Where such third person is prevented from fixing the price or terms by fault of the seller or the buyer the party not in fault may have such remedies against the party in fault as are allowed by sections fifty-two to seventy of this act

Section 11 First Where the obligation of either party to a contract to sell or a sale is subject to any condition which is not performed such party may refuse to proceed with the contract or sale or he may waive perfomance of the condition If the other party has promised that the condition should happen or be performed such first-mentioned party may also treat the non-performance of the condition as a breach of warranty

Second Where the property in the goods has not passed the buyer may treat the fulfillment by the seller of his obligation to furnish goods as described and as warranted expressly or by implication in the contract to sell as a condition of the obligation of the buyer to perform his promise to accept and pay for the goods

Section 12 Any affirmation of fact or any promise by the seller relating to the goods is an express warranty if the natural tendency of such affirmation or promise is to induce the buyer to purchase the goods and if the buyer purchases the goods relying thereon no affirmation of the value of the goods nor any statement purporting to be a statement of the seller's opinion only shall be construed as a warranty

Section 13 In a contract to sell or a sale unless a contrary intention appears there is

First An implied warranty on the part of the seller that in the case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods relying thereon No affirmation of the value of the goods nor any statement purporting to be a statement of is to pass

Second An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods as against any lawful claims existing at the time of the sale

Third An implied warranty that the goods shall be free at the time of the sale from any charge or encumbrance in favor of any third person not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract or sale is made

Fourth This section shall not however be held to render liable a sheriff auctioneer mortgagee or other person professing to sell by virtue of authority in fact or law goods in which a third person has a legal or equitable interest

Section 14 Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description and if the contract or sale be by sample as well as by decription it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods correspond with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description

Section 15 Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract to sell or a sale except as follows

First Where a buyer expressly or by implication makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required and it appears that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not) there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose

Second Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not) there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of merchantable quality

Third if the buyer has examined the goods there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed

Fourth In the case of a contract to sell or a sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any particular purpose

Fifth An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose many be annexed by the usage of trade

Sixth an express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied under this act unless inconsistent therewith

Section 16 In a case of a contract to sell or a sale by sample

(a) There is an implied warranty that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality

(b) There is an implied warranty that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample except so far as otherwise provided in section forty-seven sub-section third

(c) If the seller is a dealer in goods of that kind there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample

Section 17 Where there is a contract to sell unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained but property in an undivided share of ascertained goods may be transferred as provided in section six

Section 18 First where there is a contract to sell specific or ascertained goods the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred

Second For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties regard shall be had to the terms of the contract the conduct of the parties usages of trade and the circumstances of the case

Section 19 Unless a different intention appears the following are the rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer

Rule 1 Where there is an unconditional contract to sell specific goods in a deliverable state the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether the time of payment or the time of delivery or both be postponed

Rule 2 Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state the property does not pass until such thing be done

Rule 3 First when goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return" or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price the property passes to the buyer on delivery but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract or if no time has been fixed within a reasonable time

Second When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on trial or on satisfaction or other similar terms the property therein passes to the buyer

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection then if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods on the expiration of such time and if no time has been fixed on the expiration of a reasonable time What is a reasonable time is a question of fact

Rule 4 Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract either by the seller with the assent of the buyer or by the buyer with the assent of the seller the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer Such assent may be expressed or implied and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made

Second Where in pursuance of a contract to sell the seller delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to do holding for the buyer he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract except in the case provided for in the next rule and in section twenty This presumption is applicable although by the terms of the contract the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods and the goods are marked with the words Collect on Delivery or their equivalents

Rule 5 If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer or at a particular place or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer or to a particular place the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon

Section 20 First Where there is a contract to sell specific goods or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract the seller may by the terms of the contract or appropriation reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer

Second Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent or to the order of the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods But if except for the form of the bill of lading the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods the seller's property in the goods so shipped and delivered shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract

Third Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer

Fourth Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and a negotiable bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby If however the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer or is endorsed in blank or to the buyer by the person to whose order the bill of lading is drawn one who purchases in good faith for value the bill of lading or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods although the bill of exchange has not been honored provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading indorsed by the consignee named therein or of the goods without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful but delivery to the endorsee of the bill of lading shall discharge the carrier from all resposibility for the goods

Section 21 In the case of a sale by auction

First Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale

Second A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner Until such announcement is made any bidder may retract his bid and the auctioneer may withdraw goods from sale unless the auction has been announced to be without reserve

Third A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller

Fourth Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer

Section 22 Unless otherwise agreed the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer but when the property therein is transfrred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not except that

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or to a bailee for the buyer in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure the performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract the goods are at the buyer's risk from the time of such delivery

(b) Where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault

Section 23 First Subject to the provisions of this act where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell

Second Nothing in this act however shall affect

(a) The provisions of any factors act recording acts or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof

(b) The validity of any contract to sell or sale under any special common law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction

Section 24 Where the seller of goods has a voidable title thereto but his title has not been avoided at the time of the sale the buyer acquires a good title to the goods provided he buys them in good faith for value and without notice of the seller's defect of title

Section 25 Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods or of negotiable documents of title of the goods the delivery or transfer by that person or by an agent acting for him of the goods or documents of title under any sale pledge or other dispostion thereof to any person receiving and paying value for the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same

Section 26 Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods or of negotiable documents of title to the goods and such retention of possession is fraudulent in fact or is deemed fraudulent under any rule of law a creditor or creditors of the seller may treat the sale as void

Section 27 A document of title in which it is stated that the goods referred to therein will be delivered to the bearer or to the order of any person named in such document is a negotiable document of title

Section 28 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by delivery

(a) Where by the terms of the document the carrier warehouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer or

(b) Where by the terms of the document the carrier wareshouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the document has indorsed it in blank or to bearer

Where by the terms of a negotiable document of title the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable document of title has been indorsed in blank or to bearer any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person and in such case the document shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee

Section 29 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the document deliverable Such indorsement may be in blank to bearer or to a specified person If indorsed to a specified person it may be again negotiated by the endorsement of such person in blank to bearer or to another specified person Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner

Section 30 If a document of title which contains an undertaking by a carrier warehouseman or other bailee to deliver the goods to the bearer to a specified person or order or to the order of a specified person or which contains words of like import has placed upon it the words "not negotiable" "non-negotiable" or the like such a document may nevertheless be negotiated by the holder and is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of this act But nothing in this act contained shall be construed as limiting or defining the effect upon the rights and obligations of the carrier warehouseman or other bailee issuing a document of title or placing thereon the words "not negotiable" non-negotiable" or the like

Section 31 (a) A document of title which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee A non-negotiable document cannot be negotiated and the indorsement of such a document gives the transferee no additional right

(b) Nothing in this section nor in any other provision of this act shall be construed to impose upon any common carrier any obligation to require the surrender of the bill of lading or shipping receipt before making delivery of the goods where by the terms of said bill of lading or shipping receipt the goods are deliverable to the consignee without surrender of such bill of lading or shipping receipt

Section 32 A negotiable document of title may be negotiated

(a) by the owner thereof or

(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted by the owner if by the terms of the document the bailee issuing the document undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted or if at the time of such entrusting the document is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery

Section 33 A person to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby

(a) such title to the goods as the person negotiating the document to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the document had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and

(b) The direct obligation of the bailee issuing the document to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document as fully as if such bailee had contracted directly with him

Section 34 A person to whom a document of title has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby as against the transferor the title to the goods subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor

If the document is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the bailee who issued the document of the transfer thereof and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of such bailee to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document

Prior to the notification of such bailee by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable document of title the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of such bailee may be defeated by the levy of the attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor or by a notification to such bailee by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor or of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor

Section 35 Where a negotiable document of title is transferred for value by delivery and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the document unless a contrary intention appears The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made

Section 36 A person who for value negotiates or transfers a document of title by indorsement or delivery including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a document of title unless a contrary intention appears warrants

(a) That the document is genuine

(b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it

(c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the document and

(d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warrants would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a document of title the goods represented thereby

Section 37 The indorsement of a document of title shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the bailee who issued the document or previous indorsers thereof to fulfill their respective obligations

Section 38 The validity of the negotiaation of a negotiable document of title is not impaired by the fact that the negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation or by the fact that the owner of the document was induced by fraud mistake or duress to entrust the possession or custody thereof to such person if the person to whom the document was negotiated or person to whom the document was subsequently negotiated paid value therefor without notice of the breach of duty or fraud mistake or duress

Section 39 If goods are delivered to a bailee by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document of title is issued for them they cannot thereafter while in the possession of such bailee be attached by garnishment or otherwise or be levied upon under an execution unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined The bailee shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court

Section 40 A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable document of title shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such document or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process

Section 41 It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods and of the buyer to accept and pay for them in accordance with the terms of the contract to sell or sale

Section 42 Unless otherwise agreed delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions that is to say the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods

Section 43 First Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract express or implied between the parties Apart from any such contract express or implied or usage of trade to the contrary the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he have one and if not his residence but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specifis goods which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place then that place is the place of delivery

Second Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer but no time for sending them is fixed the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time

Third Where the goods at the time of the sale are in the possession of a third person the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale Nothing is this section however shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document or of title to goods

Fourth Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact

Fifth Unless otherwise agreed the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller

Section 44 One Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell the buyer may reject them but if the buyer accepts or retains the goods so delivered knowing that the seller is not going to perform the contract in full he must pay for them at the contract rate If however the buyer has used or disposed of the goods delivered before he knows that the seller is not going to perform his contract in full the buyer shall not be liable for more than the fair value to him of the goods so received

Second Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the reject or he may reject the whole If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate

Third Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest or he may reject the whole

Fourth the provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade special agreement or course of dealing between the parties

Section 45 First Unless otherwise agreed or it is to be implied from the nature of the contract the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by installments

Second Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivered by stated installments which are to be separately paid for and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more installments or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more installments it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract or whether the breach is severable giving rise to a claim for compensation but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken

Section 46 First Where in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer delivery of the goods to the carrier whether named by the buyer or not for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer except in the case provided for in section nineteen rule five or unless a contrary intent appears

Two Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case If the seller omit so to do and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself or may hold the seller responsible in damages

Three Unless otherwise agreed where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure the seller must give notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit and if the seller fails to do so the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit

Section 47 Where goods are delivered to the buyer which he has not previously examined he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Second Unless otherwise agreed when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer he is bound on request to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Third Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words collect on delivery or otherwise the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement and proper written authority to the carrier permitting such examination

Section 48 The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them or when the goods have been delivered to him and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller or when after the lapse of a reasonable time he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them

Section 49 In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or the sale But if after acceptance of the goods the buyer fail to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows or ought to know of such breach the seller shall not be liable therefor

Section 50 Unless otherwise agreed where goods are delivered to the buyer and he refuses to accept them having the right so to do he is not bound to return them to the seller but it is sufficient to if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them

Section 51 When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of the entire contract the seller shall have the rights against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default

Section 52 First The seller of goods is deemed to be an unpaid seller within the meaning of this act

(a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered

(b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment and the condition on which it was received has been broken by reason of the dishonor of the instrument the insolvency of the buyer or otherwise

Two In sections fifty-two to sixty-two of this act the term "seller" includes an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading has been endorsed or a consignor or agent who has himself paid or is directly responsible for the price or any other person who is in the position of a seller

Section 53 One Subject to the provisions of this act notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer the unpaid seller of goods as such has

(a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them

(b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer a right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with the possession of them

(c) A right of resale as limited by this act

(d) A right to rescind the sale as limited by this act

Two Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer the unpaid seller has in addition to his other remedies a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transit where the property has passed to the buyer

Section 54 One Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until the payment or tender of the price in the following cases namely

(a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit

(b) Where the goods have been sold on credit but the term of credit has expired

(c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent

Two The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer

Section 55 Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention

Section 56 One The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof

(b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods

(c) By waiver thereof

Two The unpaid seller of goods having a lien thereon does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods

Section 57 Subject to the provisions of this act when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit that is to say he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possession

Section 58 One Goods are in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water or other bailee for the purpose or transmission to the buyer until the buyer or his agent in that behalf takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee

(b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them even if the seller has refused to receive them back

Two Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) If the buyer or his agent in that behalf obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination

(b) If after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent and it is immaterial that further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf

Three If the goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer

Four If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or his agent in that behalf the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transit unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods

Section 59 One The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transit either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are Such notice must state that the buyer is insolvent and has not paid the seller of the goods and may be given by either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal In the latter case the notice to be effectual must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal by the exercise of reasonable diligence may prevent a delivery to the buyer

Two When notice of stoppage in transit is given by the seller to the carrier or other bailee in possession of the goods he must redeliver the goods to or according to the directions of the seller The expenses of such redelivery must be borne by the seller If however a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee he shall not be obliged to deliver or justify in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancellation

Section 60 One Where the goods are of a perishable nature or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may resell the goods He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two Where a resale is made as authorized in this section the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer

Three It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer has been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made

Four It is not essential to the validity or a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer

Five The Seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale

Section 61 One An unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted

Section 62 Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is not affected by any sale or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made unless the seller has assented thereto

If however a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transit shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier or other bailee who issued such document of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transit

Section 63 One Where under a contract to sell or a sale the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods

Two Where under a contract to sell or a sale the price is payable on a day certain irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price the seller may maintain an action for the price although the property in the goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has become unable to perform the contract or the sale on his part or has manifested an intention not to perform it

Three Although the property in the goods has not passed if they cannot readily be resold for a reasonable price and if the provisions of section sixty-four (four) are not applicable the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer and if the buyer refuses to receive them may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price

Section 64 One Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for non-acceptance

Two The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the buyer's breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages is in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted or if no time was fixed for acceptance then at the time of the refusal to accept

Four If while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfill his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing towards carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyers repudiation or countermand The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be allowed for in estimating such damages

Section 65 Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder or has committed a material breach thereof the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer

Section 66 Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld

Section 67 One Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for non-delivery

Second The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the sellers breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered or if no time was fixed then at the time of the refusal to deliver

Section 68 Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods a court having the powers of a court of equity may if the remedy at law be inadequate on the application of the buyer by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages The judgment or decree may be unconditional or upon such terms and conditions as to damages payment of the price and otherwise as to the court may seem just

Section 69 One Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller the buyer may at his election

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(c) Refuse to accept the goods if the property therein has not passed and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(d) Rescind the contract to sell or the sale and refuse to receive the goods or if the goods have already been received return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid

Two When the buyer has claimed and been granted a remedy in any one of those ways no other remedy can thereafter be granted

Three Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer But if the deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale

Four Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods If the price or any part thereof has already been paid the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid concurrently with the return of the goods or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price

Five Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so if the seller refuse to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section fifty-three

Six The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the breach of warranty

Seven In the case of breach of warranty of quality such loss in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty

Section 70 Nothing in this act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed

Section 71 Where any right duty or liability would arise under a contract to sell or a sale by implication of law it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties or by custom if the custom be such as to bind both parties to the contract or the sale All implications from surrounding circumstances or from the nature of a contract or agreement shall be regarded as forming part of the contract or agreement

Section 72 Where any right duty or liability is declared by this act it may unless otherwise by this act provided be enforced by action

Section 73 In any case not provided for in this act the rules of law and equity including the law merchant and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud misrepresentation duress or coercion mistake bankruptcy or other invalidating cause shall continue to apply to contracts to sell and to sales of goods

Section 74 This act shall be so interpreted and construed if possible as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it

Section 75 The provisions of this act relating to contracts to sell and to sales do not apply unless so stated to any transaction in the form of a contract to sell or a sale which is intended to operate by way of mortgage pledge charge or other security

Section 76 One In this act unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 251, as follows:

An Act defining optometry and relating to the right to practice optometry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and making certain exceptions and providing a Bureau of Optometrical Education Examining and Licensure as a bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice optometry may be obtained and providing for the means to carry out the provisions of this act and providing for revocation or suspension of licenses given by said bureau and providing penalties for violations thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith

Whereas the eyesight of the citizens of this Commonwealth is endangered by incompetent persons practicing optometry and due regard for the safety and protection of the citizens demands that only authorized and qualified optometrists shall be permitted to practice optometry

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the practice of optometry is hereby defined to be the employment of any means other than the use of drugs for the measurement of the powers of vision and the adaption of lenses for the correction and aid of the vision of human beings

Amend section 1, line 101, by adding after the word "Falls" the following: "No fish basket shall be located in any stream at a point where the width of the stream is less than two thousand feet."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments as read? The Chair hears objection and the amendments will not be inserted.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House go into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the use of fish-baskets for the catching of eels in the streams of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The purpose of my amendments was to confine the use of fish-baskets to streams at a point where the streams were two thousand feet or more broad, but in view of the fact that a number of members have expressed themselves in opposition to this amendment it is my purpose to fight this bill on the floor of the House in an effort to have justice done to the constituents whom I have the honor to represent in this measure.

Under the Act of 1909, fish-baskets were permitted to be used in the streams of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the catching of eels. In the Southern part of Pennsylvania, particularly in York County and Lancaster County the eel fishing by the use of fish-baskets has been for years past a great industry. As a result of the Act of 1913 those fishermen in the southern part of York County were compelled to abandon the use of fish-baskets in catching of eels with the result that they were forced to give up vested rights which they had in property for the fishing rights in the catching of eels. These rights, included property rights, which represented the livelihood of these fisherman. I can see no objections or no reason why we should not permit the use of fish-baskets in the streams of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the catching of eels. If we don't permit the use of these baskets the eels go down into Maryland waters and are there caught by the hundreds of thousands and the fishermen of York County and other counties bordering on the Susquehanna River are not only deprived of the livelihood but the people around surrounding waters are deprived of a necessity of food. It has been shown before the Committee on Fisheries that the use of fish-baskets does not interfere with the game fish of the streams. It is in the interests of the fishermen of Pennsylvania, especially of York County who have large investments in this industry that by act of law they have been deprived of, together with a livelihood that I am making my voice heard in behalf of the passage of this bill which carried with it justice. I ask you gentlemen, in all fairness to pass this bill.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen from York would have you believe that his people from his district—would have the committee believe that the catching of eels by fish-baskets does not in any way interfere with the catching of game fish. I want to declare openly that that is not true. I want to say further that drawing from my experience as a member of this House I have never once seen a man who was discourteous enough to take advantage of a Chairman of a Committee during his absence and ask the House to vote in favor of his proposition and discharge that committee from the consideration of the further consideration of such bill. I hold this to be breach of ethics in parliamentary practice. This was done by the gentleman from York last week, during my absence, and as Chairman of that Committee and appealing to the honest intent of every member of this House I hope they will vote "No" on his bill.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from York to say that this law destroyed a great industry of the citizens of York County?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman did so understand.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call your attention to a report of York county for the years of 1911 and 1912 bearing on this question, which is as follows: "The total number of license issued in York county for the year of 1911—7. The total number of eels reported caught in York county was 475, for the year 1911. The total weight was 276 pounds and the value was $29.31. In 1912 the total number of eels caught was 952. The total weight was 650 pounds and the total value $64.30. There were 12 licenses issued." Now, Mr. Speaker, for the life of me I cannot see where this law destroys a great industry.

Mr. PHILLIPS., Mr. Speaker, I have a letter here in my hand which I want to read. It will take but two or three minutes. This letter comes from the Norristown Fish and Game Protective Association, of Montgomery county.

We beg to call attention to House Bill No. 134, Folio 469, by Mr. Spangler, which provides for the wanton destruction of fish life within the streams of this Commonwealth by commercializing the fishing interests to gratify the selfish aims of a few fishermen, properly termed pot hunters, to the detriment of the masses, by the use of traps, commonly called fish baskets.

We sincerely trust that you will see that Montgomery county does not belong to the pot hunter's class and that you will use your every effort to uphold our recognized reputation for the enactment of only such laws that are for the best interest of the entire State, and urge your utmost influence for the defeat of such a vicious measure.

It is said that ‘every dog has his day"; the dog this season has had many days, in fact, there have been five bills presented for the protection, destruction and purification of that animal. The Allied sportsmen have presented Senate Bill No. 1043, Folio 2903, by Mr. Thompkins, and we trust that you will give this bill your earnest consideration, recommitting or defeating House Bill 1514, Folio 7379, by Mr. Brownlee.

May we ask that you kindly interview Mr. Miles A. Milliron, of Armstrong county, urging him to have reported out from the House Special Educational Committee, at the earliest opportunity, Senate Bill No. 428, Folio 1371, by Senator Buckman ("Bird Day") with the amendment as suggested and agreed upon by the Governor.

Thanking you for your co-operation, and with best wishes, we are,

Respectfully yours,
THE NORRISTOWN FISH & GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.
JOHN R. PRUFF, Secretary.

For this reason we ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I just want to answer the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Powell, to say that when the members of the Committee of Fishermen from York county appeared for a public hearing, that same question that he asked was put up to the Fish Commissioner and that he had the statistics there and this man at that time stated that the reports that had been made were inaccurate. The men who do the fishing in the lower end of York county are men who probably never get above that locality; they are ignorant men and don't understand the making and filing of reports so that there are very many instances where these reports are erroneous.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The Speaker announced that the Nays had it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 50 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 70 in the negative.

The question was determined in the negative and the bill was not agreed to on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 783, as follows:

An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the clay quarries or mines of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That on and after the passage of this act the clay quarries or mines of Pennsylvania in which bituminous coal is also mined shall be operated under the supervision of the State Department of Mines and shall be subject to such rules and methods of operation as may be recommended by the chief of the Department of Mines in accordance wtih such provisions of the Coal mine laws of the State as may be found applicable to the supervision of clay quarries or mines

Section 2 The inspection of the mines and quarries as set forth in section one of this act shall be made by certain district State coal mine inspectors who shall be designated for the work by the chief of the Department of Mines and who shall make and forward to the Department of Mines such reports from time to time as the chief of the Department may demand

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 590, as follows:

An Act to prescribe the conditions and restrictions under which public vaults crypts or mausoleums for the interment of human bodies may be constructed and maintained and fixing penalties for failure to comply therewith

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That

After the passage of this act no person firm or corporation shall build construct or erect any mausoleum vault crypt or structure intended to hold or contain the bodies of the dead which shall be wholly or partially above the surface of the ground unless and until the following requirements and conditions have been fully complied with and fulfilled in every particular

2 Before commencing the building construction or erection of the same full detailed plans and specifications of such structure shall be presented to the State Department of Health of this State for the examination and approval of said Commissioner of Health Before approving such plans and specifications said Commissioner of Health shall be satisfied as to the following facts (a) that the same provide for a structure so arranged that every part thereof may be readily examined at any time by such Department of Health or by the health officer of any county or city wherein such structure may be erected (b) that proper provision is made for hermetically and permanently sealing each individual crypt or cell after the placing of the deceased body therein in such a way that no injurious or offensive odor or effluvia may escape therefrom (c) that the materials of which it is intended to construct the same shall be of the best quality obtainable and of the character best suited for the respective purposes for which they are intended The approval of said plans materials and specifications by the said Department of Health shall be evidenced by a certificate in writing signed by the State Commissioner of Health and such signed approval together with the detailed plans and specifications so approved shall before commencing work on such structure be filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county wherein such structure is to be erected and there remain as a public record

3 The erection of such structure manusoleums or crypts shall at all times be under the supervision of an inspector competent to perform such work and with a knowledge of such construction such inspector shall be appointed by the State Department of Health and his compensation shall be fixed and determined by the Commissioner of Health said compensation however not to exceed seven and one-half dollars per day for each and every day actually employed in such inspection Said compensation to be paid on demand to the Treasurer of the State of Pennsylvania by the firm or corporation erecting such structure and credited by said State Treasurer and the money so derived from time to time under the provisions of this act is hereby permanently dedicated to the payment of the compensation of the inspector aforesaid and shall be kept in a special fund for such purpose in the State Treasury separate and apart from the general revenues of the Commonwealth The State Treasurer and his bondsmen shall be responsible for the safe-keeping of and accounting for said fund in the same manner and under the same penalties as for the safe-keeping of and accounting for other revenues of the Commonwealth The State Treasurer shall on the first business day of each and every month make report to the State Department of Health of the money in said fund available for the use of the State Departmnet of Health and the State Treasurer and Auditor General shall credit the amount so certified as available to an amount for the payment of the inspector in this section provided when so certified by the State Treasurer the funds shall be available for requisition and expenditure and shall be requisitioned expended settled and vouched as provided by general law for funds appropriated from the general revenues of the Commonwealth It shall be the duty of such inspector to see that the approved plans are followed in every detail and that the approved specifications are complied with in every particular No departure or deviation from the original plans and specifications shall be permitted except upon approval of the State Department of Health evidenced and filed in like manner and form as the approval of the original plans and specifications

4 No mausoleum vault crpyt or structure so erected as aforesaid shall be used for the purpose of interring or depositing therein any dead body until there shall have been obtained from the State Department of Health a final certificate signed by the Commissioner of Health and also the inspector who inspected the construction thereof stating that the plans and specifications as filed have been complied with and followed in every particular and until such certificate shall be filed with the prothonotary of the county

5 Before or at the time of the completion of any structure aforesaid the person firm or corporation so constructing same shall pay to a trustee which shall be a trust company appointed by the court of common pleas of the county in which the same is located and which has given security as directed by the court a sum equal to fifteen per centum of the price fixed for each crypt to be sold said trustee to permanently invest the said fund and use the interest arising therefrom in the care and maintenance of said structure and also any necessary expense and services of the said trustee or salary for person to permanently care for the structure

6 It is distinctly understood that the Department of Health of the State shall be in no way held responsible for any liability resulting from permission by it given as hereinbefore provided

7 Any person member of a firm or any officer or director of a corporation which or who shall fail to comply with each and every provision of this act shall be personally liable therefor and shall upon conviction thereof be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and sentenced to pay all costs and a fine of not less than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than the fifteen per centum required to be paid to said trustee as provided in section five of this act or be imprisoned in the county jail of the respective county for a term of not less than six months or more than one year Provided however That the provisions of the act shall not apply to temporary receiving vaults and Provided further that the provisions of this act shall not apply to vaults crypts or mausoleums intended only for one person or family or the relatives thereof by blood or marriage

8 The fine when collected as aforesaid shall be paid to the trustee and be used as provided in section five of this act

9 No community mausoleum vault crypt or structure for the burial of the dead shall be erected within one mile of the corporate lines of any city or borough except it be on the property of an incorporated cemetery

10 This act shall take effect immediately excepting however that it shall not apply to or affect any mausoleum now in the course of construction or where twenty-five per centum of the total number of crypts to be therein contained have actually been sold to the public

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, we are not opposed to proper restrictions on mausoleums. We are not opposed to the principle of this bill; but we are opposed to the measure of this bill as it is drawn. As chairman of the sub-committee that had this bill in charge we held a public hearing and at that time the only men who appeared in advocacy of this measure were the monument men, and they appeared for a selfish reason and for a selfish reason only. The Health Department of the State of Pennsylvania was represented at that hearing and the Health Department of the State of Pennsylvania was opposed to this measure because the Health Department said, we have all the powers now in our possession, under existing law, that we need in order to protect the health of the community against the construction of mausoleums that might be a menace to the health of the community.

This bill, if it were confined to the one section, would be a very excellent bill; and there is one section that I will commend and that is section nine, which says that:

> "9 No community mausoleum vault crypt or structure for the burial of the dead shall be erected within one mile of the corporate lines of any city or borough except it be on the property of an incorporated cemetery"

In other words, that section prevents blackmailers from threatening to place a mausoleum in a residential section; but the rest of the bill is bad. Now the question is: "Are we going to burn down the house in order to catch a few mice in the House?" I do not think that is policy.

Another provision of this bill that is bad is the fifteen per cent. clause, the fifteen per cent. reserve clause in this bill which provides for the depositing of fifteen per cent., which is absolutely bad, is entirely too excessive.

There is one other provision that I wish to call attention to in this measure and that is, in section two the bill states that the mausoleum shall be constructed the best quality of granite. Now, under that provision alone, any mausoleum that has been constructed could be condemned because the "best quality" might be any quality.

Now, I feel that this bill, as I have said, is bad in the whole. It is bad because it is not fair to the men who are putting up mausoleums at the present time. The Health Department is amply protected under existing law and there is no reason, other than the selfish reason, for the passage of this measure.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I presume that you have all read this bill and are familiar with its provisions. It is to regulate certain buildings that are intended to contain the bodies of dead people. These buildings are practically new in the State of Pennsylvania. They are in operation in the West, in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, and they have not proven a success in those States. The provisions of this bill are to regulate the construction of these buildings. The bill makes provisions to take care of the building after it is constructed. The plan upon which many of them have been built was that after they were built and the crypts therein were sold, the parties who had gotten the money left the sections of the State where they were located and there was no one to care for the maintenance of the crypts.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I am doing the best I can to be heard and I cannot do any better; I cannot speak any louder.

Now, the provisions of this bill are not too drastic for persons who want to build right and do an honest business; but the history of these buildings, so far as we have learned—a large percentage of them—is that they have been thrown together and put up in such a manner that in a few years they begin to crumble and the parties who have purchased places for the burial of their dead or the depositing of dead bodies—the buildings have fallen to pieces and they are not in position to use them and their money is gone.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I voted "no" on this bill for the purpose of moving a reconsideration of this vote, as I feel sure that the members of this House do not understand this bill. Unfortunately, I was interrupted when I desired to speak in regard to it and do my best to explain it; and I move that this bill be reconsidered. If the members will kindly reconsider the vote and then we can put it on the postponed calendar until we have had full opportunity to examine and explain it.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The gentleman's motion is not now in order.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both Houses of the General Assembly, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER in the presence of the House signed the same.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1605 (Senate Bill No. 152), File Folio 2445, entitled:

An Act providing for the establishment erection equipment and management of a Pennsylvania home for boys and for the commitment thereto of delinquent boys between the ages of six and sixteen years and making an appropriation on page 40 of today's calendar, be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I now desire to move for a reconsideration of the vote by which House Bill No. 590, File Folio 7531, entitled:

An Act to prescribe the conditions and restrictions under which public vaults, crypts or mausoleums for the interment of human bodies may be constructed and maintained and fixing penalties for failure to comply therewith

was defeated on final passage, and I would ask some other member of the House who voted "no" on the bill, to second the motion. I do not believe the members of the House understand the proposition. They could not hear the sponsor of the bill when he made his explanation and only heard the remarks of the gentlemen who objected to it, the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler. I therefore move for a reconsideration of the vote, as it is a very important question.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the "Nays" appeared to have it, whereupon a division was called for and 46 gentlemen having voted in the affirmative, and 82 in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1096 (Senate No. 291), as follows:

Section 11 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McARDLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then twice read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 11 by striking out all the words therein and insert instead the following words "This act shall not apply to establishments maintained or conducted by religious, charitable and educational institutions."

Amend by adding the following section:

"Section 12 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill, as amended, was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading House Bill No. 746, as follows:

An Act supplementary to an act entitled "An Act defining the powers of the several courts of quarter sessions of the peace within the Commonwealth with reference to the care treatment and control of dependent neglected incorrigible and delinquent children under the age of sixteen years and providing for the means in which such power may be exercised" approved the twenty-third day of April one thousand nine hundred and three Pamphlet Laws page two hundred and seventy-four prohibiting magistrates aldermen or justices of the peace from sentencing or committing for trial for any offenses dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent children under the age of sixteen years and providing for the disposition of such children by the juvenile courts providing that the jurisdiction of such courts over children committed by them shall continue notwithstanding such children may remove or be removed from the territorial limits of such courts authorizing the said courts to commit such children in proper cases to the custody of their mothers to be maintained in their respective homes and providing for the payment of the cost of such maintenance by the proper county prescribing the duties of probation officers in such cases and authorizing the several juvenile courts to employ medical experts in certain cases

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no magistrate alderman or justice of the peace shall sentence commit or hold for trial any dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent child under the age of sixteen years but in all cases in which any such child shall be charged with any offense before such magistrate alderman or justice of the peace he shall give such child into the custody of a probation officer of the proper juvenile court the duty of which officer shall be to thereupon petition the said court setting forth the facts in the case whereupon such court shall take such action agreeably to existing law as it deems proper

Section 2 Whenever the jurisdiction of a juvenile court shall attach to any dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent child the said jurisdiction shall continue notwithstanding that the child may remove or be removed from the territorial limits of the court with the same force and effect and for the same length of time as if the said child had continued to reside within the said territorial limits

Section 3 Whenever any dependent child under the age of sixteen years brought before any juvenile court shall have a mother maintaining a home the court may in its discretion commit such child to the custody of its mother under the supervision of said court and make an order upon the proper county for such sum for its maintenance payable to the mother as the court may direct which order shall thereupon be paid by the said county In all such cases such mother shall make a monthly report of the condition and behavior of such child to a probation officer of such court in such form as the court may prescribe which officer shall make a report to the court once in three months upon a form similarly prescribed

Section 4 Whenever there is any question in the mind of the court as to whether or not a child brought before a juvenile court is defective the said court may appoint a medical expert to examine the child and report whether it is in fact defective or not the expense of which examination and report shall be paid by the proper county on the order of said court

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend House Bill No. 746, File Folio 3909, on page 2, section 1, line 14, after the word "proper" insert the words "and if upon the hearing, such court shall be of the opinion that the offense charged is of such a character that the case of the delinquent should be disposed of by a court of criminal jurisdiction it shall be the duty of such court to return same to the care of the court of quarter sessions and the delinquent proceeded against as in other cases in which there is a binding over to said court by committing magistrates."

Section three (3), line nine (9), after the word "County," add the following: "unless such county shall have a mother's pension fund in operation in which case the court shall refer the dependent child for the consideration of the trustees of the mother's pension fund of said county."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill, as amended, was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

Mr. STEEDLE in the Chair.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 560, entitled:

An Act relating to the animal commonly known as the muskrat and providing penalties

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Walter,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. GLENN. I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 1156, File Folio 5355, on page twenty-nine of tonight's calendar, Bills on Final Passage Postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1156, entitled:

An Act granting to parties litigant in cases involving the reasonableness of the rates or regulations of the adequacy of the services or facilities furnished or offered by public service corporations in this State the right to examine the accounts books papers records vouchers letters contracts memoranda and documents and to enter upon and examine the properties of said public service corporation or corporations

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the author of this bill to explain it to the House.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, the bill very largely explains itself. It simply means that parties litigant in cases involving the reasonableness of the rates or regulations of the adequacy of the services or facilities furnished or offered by public service corporations in this State shall have the right to examine the accounts, books, papers, records and so on.

It was gotten up by the Municipal Home League and has been amended to suit all parties concerned and there has been no objection to it and I think it is a good proposition and should pass.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of nine o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the House Special Order on Third Reading, House Bill No. 1041, File Folio 7359.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1041, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven entitled "An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons penitentiaries State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing said goods" as originally enacted and as amended by an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred ninety-nine

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section two of an act approved the eighteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven entitled "An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons penitentiaries State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing said goods" which as amended by an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An Act amending sections one and two of an act entitled 'An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons penitentiaries State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing said goods' " reads as follows

"That the officers of the various county prisons work houses and reformatory institutions within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall not employ more than five per centum of the whole number of inmates in said institutions in the manufacture of brooms and brushes and hollow ware and ten per centum in the manufacture of any other kinds of goods wares articles or other things that are manufactured elsewhere in the State except mats and matting in the manufacture of which twenty per centum of the whole number of inmates may be employed Provided This act shall not apply to goods manufactured for use of the inmates of such institutions" is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 2 The officers of the various county prisons workhouses and reformatory institutions within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall not employ more than five per centum of the whole number of inmates in said institutions in the manufacture of brooms and brushes and hollow ware and ten per centum in the manufacture of any other kind of goods wares articles or other things that are manufactured elsewhere in the State except mats and matting in the manufacture of which twenty per centum of the whole number of inmates may be employed Provided This act shall not apply to goods manufactured for use of the inmates of such institution or for any institution or the inmates of any institution supported wholly or in part by the county in which the prison workhouse or reformatory institution is located or for the use of the county itself

Section 2 Section three of said act is hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, the two bills on Special Order tonight, Numbers 1041 and 1042 are so closely related together in principle that it seems absurd to discuss them separately, so that with the permission of the Speaker and of the House I will take the two bills up at once with the idea of saving time. I have already discussed these bills so fully with the various members of the House that I propose tonight to simply confine myself to an explanation of the terms of the bills.

First of all, gentlemen, House Bill No. 1041 is merely an enabling act. The bill is an amendment to the Act of June 18th, 1897. That bill is the bill which restricts labor in county prisons. The particular amendment which I offer relates to section two of that Act which provides that five per cent of the prisoners in county prisons may be employed in the manufacture of brooms and brushes. It also provides that ten per cent of the prisoners in county prisons may be engaged in the manufacture of general articles. It also provides that twenty per cent of the prisoners may be engaged in the manufacture of mats and matting. It also provides that the restrictions contained in that section shall not apply to the manufacture of goods for use except in these institutions. In other words, under the provisions of the Act of 1897, the only thing that prisoners in county prisons can do is to work on the particular things I have outlined and also to work in the manufacture of supplies for the prison itself. The amendment that I offer provides that in addition to manufacturing supplies for their own institution they may also manufacture supplies for the county institutions and for the county offices. It does not provide that they must be engaged in that kind of work but that if the authorities in the local counties desire to have that kind of work done by the prisoners they may do so. In other words, it is purely an enabling act putting in the hands of the purely local authorities the power to employ their prisoners in the manufacture of supplies for county institutions and for county offices. It does not provide that they must be engaged in that kind of work but that if the authorities in the local counties desire to have that kind of work done by the prisoners they may do so. In other words, it is purely an enabling act putting in the hands of the purely local authorities the power to employ their prisoners in the manufacture of supplies for county institutions and for county offices. That is the first bill.

The second bill on Special Order, House Bill No. 1042, provides what is known as the "State Use System." These bills were prepared by a commission which was appointed by authority of an act of Assembly passed at the session of 1913 . Last June, Governor Tener appointed a Commission of seven men; Four lawyers from different parts of the State, Mr. Robert McKenty, who is the Warden of the Eastern Penitentiary; Mr. Gilday, who was the representative of organized labor on the Commission and Mr. Robinson, who is instructor of Political Economy at Swarthmore College. This Commission, consisting of seven men, made a very, very thorough investigation of laws relating to prison labor and in the course of their investigation examined all the laws of the various states of this Union. They also went out and examined into the operation of those laws and they found that the Ohio system was the best. That system is what is known as "The State Use System" and following the example of the State of Ohio they prepared this Act which is now before you for passage.

Section one of the act provides that the prisoners in the Eastern and Western Penitentiary and in the Huntingdon Reformatory who are physically capable of manual labor, may be employed in the manufacture of useful articles for the use of the State. Understand, none of these articles are to be put out on the public market for sale. The articles are to be sold to the State or to the county or to State supported institutions. The act also provides that the prisoners shall be paid a wage ranging from ten cents a day to fifty cents a day, depending upon the amount of work and the nature of the work they do. In other words, a man who does more skilful labor than another will be paid more, but in no case will a man receive less than ten cents a day and in no case more than fifty cents a day. Of that money seventy-five per cent. will be paid to his dependents, if it appears that he has a wife or children who are entitled to his support while he is confined in prison; seventy-five per cent. of the money he earns, or if he so desires, all of the money he so earns, will be paid to his wife or his children. The balance of the money will be placed in a saving fund for him and when he comes out of prison at the end of his term that money will be given to him with the accrued interest on it and will be paid to him in three instalments of six months periods intervening. The idea of that is that he will have a little money ahead of him until he can get a position. In order to carry this out and in order to make an executive body to put this law into effect we have provided for a Prison Labor Commission which will consist of one represenative of the Board of Governors from the Eastern Penitentiary, one representative from the Board of Governors of the Western Penitentiary and one representative from the Huntingdon Reformatory. These men will serve without compensation and they will decide what kind of industries will be carried on the various institutions, having regard for the location of the institution and the demand for various articles in that particular neighborhood. They will also decide what kind of machinery will be installed with the same idea in view. As I said, gentlemen, these men will serve entirely without compensation. They will attend to the sale of the articles and to their distribution either in the State offices, in he county offices or in the State institution. The bill carries with it an appropriation for the purchase of machinery and for the purchase of supplies and material in order to start this work. You can understand, gentlemen, that this work cannot be started, that these men cannot manufacture goods unless they have the money with which to buy the raw product and with which to install machinery and with which to buy tools. I might say while I am on that point that I have asked that if this bill pass the House and goes to the Senate, it be referred to the Senate Committee on Appropriations where that idea in the bill may be thoroughly threshed out and carefully considered.

I think gentlemen that I have covered the entire bill and that it is sort of useless for me to stand here and argue with you as to the advisability of adopting this system. To-day we send our men to prison, bad men, and we bring them out worse. You men can understand if we take a normal man and lock him up for a year or three years where he has no opportunity to use either his mind or his body that he is bound to come out a less useful citizen. Now, we believe that the passage of this bill and the inauguration of this system is going to be of great benefit to the dependents of the prisoners. We believe that the innocent people who are obliged to suffer when a man goes to prison are going to be greatly benefitted by this income which they will derive from his labor. We believe that, in addition to that, when the prisoner comes out he will come out a more useful citizen than he was when he went in. He will come out having learned a trade which will be of use to him in obtaining employment when he gets out, and, in any case, he will come out with a habit of labor instilled in him and will be better able to undertake the duties of citizenship. I trust that you men will vote for these bills.

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, we have heard from my friend, the gentleman from Philadelphia, what we representatives feel about this bill. In order that we might know what the other side, the managers of our penal institutions think, I sent copies of this bill to the lawyer on the Board of the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory, one to their attorney, and one to the Superintendent of the Reformatory. We all know that the main object of the Reformatory is to reform boys, and the best way to reform them is to give them useful employments. Last week I had a conference with Mr. Patton, Superintendent of the Reformatory, and he begged me to say to this House that he is in hearty accord with both these bills, and believes they will work very great good to the boys in the Reformatory, and that I should ask you to vote for these measures.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act relating to the holding of a Constitutional convention providing for the submission of the question of holding such a convention to the electors regulating the time and manner of nominating and electing delegates fixing their number and compensation providing for the organization and constitution of the convention defining its powers providing for the publication of the constitution proposed by the convention and for its submission to the electors and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, owing to the absence of the sponsor of this bill I move that further consideration of same be postponed for the present.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that a special order be fixed. I would like to know the time when this bill will be taken up.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I prefer to leave that to the sponsor. I have no objection to a special order being made but think the sponsor should specify the time.

On the question recurring,

Shall the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. COX offered the following motion which was twice read and considered.

Moved by Mr. Cox, seconded by Mr. Rinninger, that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 435, House Bill No. 1170, File Folio 1307, entitled:

A supplement to an act approved the seventh day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act relating to and regulating motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles controlling their speed upon the public streets and highways in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing for their registration and licensing of certain operators by the State Highway Department prohibiting the operation of any motor vehicle by any person when intoxicated or without the consent of the owner forbidding the passage of any law laying a tax upon or requiring the registration of motor vehicles or licensing of any operator or regulating the speed of motor vehicles by any county borough city incorporated town or township establishing the rights of motor veihcles upon public highways with relation to other vehicles providing for their equipment and for the width of tires to be used upon motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles regulating the service of process and proceedings in actions for damages arising therefrom providing for arrest and for service of process and proceedings for violation of this act prescribing the penalties therefor and providing for the disposition of fees collected and fines imposed thereunder was defeated on third reading today, be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1387, entitled:

An Act to provide funds for the department of city planning in cities of the third class conferring upon said department the power of veto upon certain ordinances regulating the manner in which vacancies in said department shall be filled conferring powers upon the said department in regard to mausoleums cemeteries burying grounds plots and drafts of land and building lines and also imposing certain duties upon city council in its relationship to said department

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor of this bill to explain it to the House.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 1387, which is before this body for final passage, has been drawn out of a desire to make city planning effective in third class cities of Pennsylvania. The present law is the Act of July 1913. Two years' experience with this law has demonstrated that it does not carry with it sufficient authority for city planning commissions to warrant the existence of such bodies in cities of the third class. In preparing the bill that is before you, therefore, there has been inserted several provisions as follows:

1. That it shall be the duty of city council to appropriate, upon the annual requisition of the city planning department a sum of money not less than the proceeds of one-twentieth of a mill for the use of the department, the city planning commission having full authority to expend this money for administrative and contingent purposes.

2. The present law gives the commission supervision over the development of a zone of three miles surrounding the city. It is proposed to extend this zone to six miles along the line of any boulevard or proposed boulevard, but not in any other particular.

3. The present law provides that when a new allotment or development of a new section is contemplated, it shall be the duty of the owner to submit, for the approval of the city planning commission, a plan or plot, showing the proposed development of streets and lots. It has been discovered, however, in the operation of this law in some third class cities during the past two years, that the commission has no power to make this effective, and so there has been written into the new act before you a section, providing that it shall not be lawful for the recorder of deeds to accept for record any deed to a lot in a newly developed section unless that deed shall bear reference to a plot on file in his office, approved officially by the city planning commission. It must be understood that it is not the intention of the commission to approve deeds. The bill only insist that promoters of land sales shall first have their plots approved by the city planning commission before they attempt to sell to the public, and the section I am discussing provides the weapon that is to be used to compel real estate dealers and promoters to first submit their plots.

4. It is provided that cemeteries and mausoleums shall not be located hereafter without the permission of the city planning commission, a proposition so clearly reasonable and proper that it need no defence.

5. The present law provides that city council shall refer to the city planning commission all ordinances relating to the large structural matters that have to do with the physical development of a city, such as the widening or extension of streets, the development of parkways or playgrounds, and the locating of subways. There is nothing in the present law, however, to require that an important criticism or objection on the part of the city planning commission, from its expert standpoint, shall have any attention by city council, and it is proposed in the new bill before you that in every case in which such an ordinance receives the disapproval of the city planning commission, it shall be the duty of the commission to return it to council within two weeks, and it shall be the duty of council, in order to make the ordinance a city law, to pass it over the disapproval of the commission by an affirmative vote of three out of the five members of the council. I want to make it clear that this in no way curtails the proper power of council. There are only a limited number of ordinances which, under the law, reach the city planning commission. The purpose of this section is to fix responsibility and to give some dignity and proper importance to the recommendation of a commission which is devoting itself, in a patriotic way, to the safeguarding of the interests of the future of its city. There is absolutely nothing in this section that threatens the indepedence of city council. In this connection it is also provided that when the planning commission makes a recommendation to council that council shall report thereon within sixty days in some form or other.

6. With a view to protecting the interests of the community and to guard against a sort of wildcat property development which is growing up in some of our cities, it is proposed to lodge with both the commission and city council the right to establish a building line. The purpose of this is evident. It means to promote a logical and harmonious development of cities, with some thought to beauty of arrangement in residence sections and with the hope that our American cities will, in the course of time, provide larger open areas. In many cities we have narrow streets. It is possible, by a reasonable exercise of the power encompassed in this section, to enlarge the space between residences without widening the street itself.

7. With a view to a recognition of the principles of the Clark Third Class City Act, it is provided in this bill that one member of council may be designated as a member of the city planning commission so that the commission may not appear to operate as a body independent from the city government and so that, too, council shall, in this manner, become identified with this important work of town planning.

This bill expresses a growing demand on the part of thoughtful citizens for the protection of the American city of the future. We have been a rapidly growing country since the organization of the government and have had so many other larger problems that it is only recently that we have found time to think about directing the growth of the cities in which our homes are located. City growth has been more or less haphazzard, with the result that we find slums, congested communities, narrow streets, unsanitary alleys grade crossings and the necessity of paying heavy damages out of city treasuries to correct the mistakes of plotting that have been made through the neglect of earlier years. The money that is provided in section one of the bill would not require, in the City of Harrisburg or Erie, for example, more than $2500 per year out of the city treasury, and yet I know of instances where third class cities have paid, in the opening of single squares, $25,000 to $50,000 in direct and consequential damages, and I submit to you that an expenditure of the sum of $2500 a year or better is economy in its best sense. It is time that we gave serious thought to the duty that we owe to the future. Much of what we are enjoying today in the way of conveniences and comforts and rights have come down to us through the far-sighted action of men who lived generations ago. It becomes our duty to so legislate that the interests of the generations to come may be properly safeguarded. This bill provides only for legal and business methods in the development of cities. It proposes to guard against the selfish activities of land promoters: it hopes to so influence the growth of cities that the day of the slum may gradually disappear, and that the community shall feel the necessity, as one great family, of providing a home for its members that will give every convenience and every protection and every comfort that the modern conception of home suggests.

I appeal for your support of this bill because I know it is a constructive measure that will do more to develop the third class cities of Pennsylvania along right lines and to save these cities from ultimate expense than any bill that is before this body for consideration at this session.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1161, entitled:

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to secure to laborers within this Commonwealth the benefit of the exemption laws of this Commonwealth and to prevent assignment of claims for the purpose of securing their collection against laborers outside of this Commonwealth" approved the twenty-third day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven regulating the practice in trials on actions of debt instituted under the terms and provisions of the said act

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Title, line 6, by striking out the word "Domnii" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Domini"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 831, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an assignment to article eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the author of this resolution to explain to the House its effect.

Mr. ARON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Chair withdraws the decision of agreeing to the bill on third reading.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ARON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, line 10, by striking out the word "or" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and"
Amend Section 1, line 22, by striking out the word "First" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "1"
Amend Section 1, line 24, by striking out the word "Second" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "2"
Amend Section 1, line 25, by striking out the word "if"

An Act to exempt from the payment of inheritance taxes bequests and devises to institutions of purely public charities

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, if there is any member in the House who can give an explanation of the purposes of this bill I would be glad to hear it.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the bill is not very hard to understand. It is a very short bill. At the present time, as I understand the law, the collateral inheritance taxes are collected even though the money by bequest is given to this class of charitable institutions. It is not a very large sum, probably, that the State will be interested in at any time. The money being for charity, and the State constantly appropriating a very large sum of money for various charitable associations, and it is the thought no doubt of the author as well as my own that so far as the collateral inheritance tax is concerned, the State probably could not act any more wisely than to exempt that class of bequests from the five per cent. tax. That is in the case of a private individual, the inheritance going to an individual will be exempt in this class of charitable institution, provided the same be not chartered by any organization or incorporated by any organization outside of the State of Pennsylvania. It seems to me that as it is purely in the interest of charity and that he revenue to the State is so very small, probably giving assistance to that class of institutions that are just as deserving of the charity of the State as most any of those that are now receiving such large sums in the way of charity from our State, that I am inclined to agree with the author of this bill that the legislature can well afford to pass it.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr Speaker, can the gentleman from Delaware inform this House how much the revenues of the State will be reduced by the passage of this bill?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it would take a few minutes for me to tell exactly what the inheritance tax revenue amounts to in the State, but I am thoroughly satisfied that this act would affect the State revenues on an average, I doubt, twenty-five thousand dollars a year. In a few minutes I can answer the gentleman and tell him exactly what the collateral inheritance tax is in the whole State. Probably the gentleman from Philadelphia has already looked it up.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, under ordinary circumstances I would have no objection to the passage of a bill of this kind. But this Commonwealth is confronted with a condition that it has to meet, and that condition is that instead of depleting the State revenues, we are obliged to increase them in order to meet the demands which are made upon this Commonwealth, both as to the ordinary expenses of running this government, as well as making charitable bequests. Now this bill operates not only as against charitable institutions which are receiving State aid, but also charitable institutions which do not receive State aid, or do not ask State aid. I am advised, while I have not the exact figures, that to pass this bill would mean a depletion of the State revenues to a very considerable extent, and we think that at this time it is unwise to pass any measure that is going to reduce the State revenue.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BALDWIN Mr. Speaker, with the consent of the gentleman from Philadelphia, I would suggest that at the present time that the bill be postponed and I will assure the House that I will give them full information on the matter and then if the House feels that it will deplete the revenues of the State to any considerable extent that they will have my support in trying to defeat the act. But if it is a very small matter I do not think the House will desire to defeat the act. Certainly no harm can come from the postponement of the act. I just happened to notice that the author of this bill was the Senator from my own county. I know that he is a man of first class judgment, and I do not believe that he would introduce a bill of this character, a man who knows the affairs of this State so well and who knows that the revenues at this time cannot afford to be depleted, that he would introduce a bill that would seriously affect the revenue. Now, surely the House can afford to postpone action on this bill until to-morrow at least, and I will guarantee to have full information on the subject by then. Therefore, I move, Mr. Speaker, that the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I am only one of the 207 members here and I certainly have no objection, if it is the sense of the House, that this bill ought to be postponed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1546 (Senate No. 653), entitled:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of House Bill No. 1398 (Senate No. 22), entitled:

An Act to provide for the appointment of a coroners physician in counties having a population of more than one hundred and fifty thousand and less than eight hundred thousand and defining his qualifications duties and salary

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call attention to this bill No. 1398. It calls for the appointment of a Coroner's Physician in certain counties and fixes the salary at eighteen hundred dollars. Now there may be counties where the Coroner's Physician would have a good deal to do, but in the majority of the counties he would have very little to do. In my own county he would hardly have ten days a year of service to perform and yet his salary is fixed at eighteen hundred dollars,—one hundred and eighty dollars a day, and the balance of the people to put up the money. We are too loose in spending other people's money. When it comes to our own we would not be so liberal, and in this case I do not think we ought to force this upon the counties requiring them to pay eighteen hundred dollars a year for five or ten days service in a whole year, and sometimes not so much.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 841, as follows:

An Act creating a Division of Boiler Inspection in the Department of Labor and Industry requiring and regulating the inspection of steam boilers and providing penalties for the violation thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever the word "inspector" is used in this act it shall mean either a boiler inspector of the Department of Labor and Industry and inspector approved by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry or an inspector of a casualty company authorized to insure boilers in this Commonwealth and that wherever the word "pressure" is used it shall mean gauge pressure in pounds per square inch

Section 2 The inspections required in this act shall either be made by inspectors of the Department of Labor and Industry designated by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry in which case the fees provided for in this act shall be transferred by the inspector to the Commissioner of Labor and Industry by whom they shall be paid into the State Treasury for the use of the Commonwealth or the inspections shall be made by inspectors approved by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry in which case the fees provided for in this act shall be retained by the inspector as his pay for making such inspections

Section 3 The owner or user of a boiler or boilers inspected by an inspector of the Department of Labor and Industry or by an inspector approved by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry shall pay to such inspector a fee of five dollars for each inspection of each boiler so inspected which fee shall be disposed of as elsewhere provided for in this act

Section 4 All steam boilers and their appurtenances except boilers under the jurisdiction of the United States Government boilers of automobile vehicles or trucks boilers of steam fire engines brought into the State for temporary use in times of emergency for the purpose of checking conflagration and boilers used solely for heating and operating under a gauge pressure not exceeding fifteen pounds per square inch shall be inspected by an inspector once each year Provided That nothing in this section shall refer to boilers in cities of the first second and third classes and in those counties for which special laws have been enacted for the inspection of steam boilers and boilers in use or in connection with coal mines

Section 5 Boilers used solely for heating purposes which are exempt from annual inspection as provided for in section four of this act shall be equipped with safety valve which shall be locked so that the pressure in the boiler cannot exceed fifteen pounds per square inch and with water gauge or water glass for determining the water level in the boiler with an accurate steam gauge and the necessary valves in the feed water and condensation pipes for the proper operation of the boiler

Section 6 The Industrial Board of the Department of Labor and Industry shall adopt and may alter amend and repeal a code of boiler regulations which shall apply to all boilers in this Commonwealth and no person firm or corporation shall operate any boiler in this Commonwealth except as provided in this code of boiler regulations the Board shall further make such rules and regulations as may be necessary to adapt the requirements of this act in such a manner that their intent and purpose will be accomplished in a reasonable manner

Section 7 It shall be the duty of the inspector in making an inspection to enter each boiler that has a man-hole eleven inches by fifteen inches in size or larger He shall note carefully the material of which the boiler is constructed and if such material is corroded or pitted he shall have it drilled at the weakest point to determine its thickness and shall permit of the operation of the boiler only at such pressure as will conform to the rules contained in the code of boiler regulations as established by the Industrial Board of the Department of Labor and Industry

Section 8 If upon the inspection of any boiler the inspector finds that the boiler is in a safe working condition and that it complies in all respects to the provisions of the code of boiler regulations he shall issue to the owner or user thereof a certificate of inspection which certificate shall state the maximum pressure at which the boiler may be operated The certificate of inspection shall contain over the signature of the inspector the name of the owner or user the location the size and number of the boiler the date of inspection and a statement that such certificate shall apply for only one year from the date of inspection unless sooner withdrawn If such inspection is made by an inspector of a casualty company the certificate shall contain the name of the company All certificates of inspection shall contain such quotations from the statutes as may be deemed necessary by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry The certificate of inspection shall be so placed as to be easily read in the boiler plant where the boiler is located except that the certificate of inspection of a portable boiler shall be kept on the premises and shall be exposed to view at all times

And the amendment made thereto having been made as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. President, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Insurance.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I see no reason why this bill should be recommitted. This bill is what is known as the "State Firemen's Bill." This bill has been fully considered by the Insurance Committee, or whatever committee it came from. There is no reason that I know of, or that I believe the Senator can explain to this Senate why it should be referred back to committee, other than possibly to try to keep it in the committee for some motive which I know nothing about. This bill should be considered at this time and either passed or be defeated. For the benefit of the members of the Senate, I wish to state that this is a sort of an amendment to the Fire Marshal Bill and the intention is to have some additional deputies appointed in order to go through the State for the purpose, if possible, of preventing fires. In these days it seems to be that accord with the progress of the times that the various departments of the State take it upon themselves to try and prevent the occurrence of certain disasters in communities. For instance, the Health Department is spending large sums of money at this time to prevent disease. All the Departments of this State are spending money at this time to prevent waste in the different communities and why anybody should object to the State Fire Marshal having inspectors going around throughout the Commonwealth visiting the various farmhouses and business houses and other institutions to prevent a fire and waste in those communities I cannot understand, and the only objection that I can see anywhere from anybody in reference to this bill is the fact that possibly the head of some fire department, particularly in the City of Pittsburgh, may feel that the State Fire Marshal may do better and greater work and work that may be for the benefit of Pennsylvania far in excess of what he may do, and there is no man who can not honestly and sincerely and conscientiously say that the passage of this bill places in the hands of the Fire Marshal adequate servants or employes to prevent fires in this Commonwealth, or do other than be a benefit to this community, and it is high time that men should not allow their desires to shine bigger than their neighbors, should not interfere with the progress of the people of this State. This is a fair bill, an honest bill, and it is for no man's particular glory it is for the benefit of all the people, and I hope the members of this Senate will see to it that this bill will not go back to committee, and will vote for it at this ime.

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. President, I think this bill is a fit subject to be considered by the Insurance Committee. This bill was sent to another committee and not sent to the Insurance Committee. At this time, when you are talking about economy and cutting down appropriations to the schools, I think it should be fully considered. This bill as I understand it, takes an immense sum of money. The bill comes along and I understand there are forty deputies to be appointed at a salary of $1,500.00 each, there are two or three additional deputies at $3,000.00 each, there are stenographers and messengers and everything of that kind. It takes an immense sum of money and for that reason I think it ought to be fully considered before it is voted on.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, in reference to the immense amount of money involved in this bill, it will mean an expenditure of a sum total in addition to the present expenditure of $40,000.00. There are now thirteen deputies together with the special deputies hired from time to time. In this bill the twenty-seven new deputies will cost $40,000.00 more, and if that is a great amount of money, $40,000.00, on a case like this, then we are living in a very small state, because if the work of the twenty-seven deputies saves a single scar on the body of a single man, woman or child in this Commonwealth by the prevention of one fire in one year, then the $40,000.00 will be well spent, and if it saves a single life in this community and we spend a million dollars, it is money well spent. This is one bill in which the lives of our citizens are involved, and if the paltry sum of $40,000.00 is a thing that can be put in the scales as against the life of one man, then it is high time to say, shame on Pennsylvania, shame on the Senators, or any Senator who will have the effrontery to come on this floor and compare that paltry sum with the life of any one of our citizens, and I do not believe there is a man on this floor or in this body who would place himself in that position for such a small amount.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, in addition to the reasons Mr. Salus advanced for the passage of this bill, there is another and equally important reason and that is the fact that it calls for the investigation of incendiary and suspicious fires after the occurrence. He fails to mention that and I feel it is equally as important as the fact of their being an annual inspection.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

It was not agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. W. W. SMITH. For the benefit of those who are continually watching the finances of the Commonwealth, permit me to say that this is not a salary raiser. This bill is to place the bank examiners of this Commonwealth on an annual pay instead of a per diem pay. At the present time they are on a salary of $10 per day, and if they lose any time through sickness or for a vacation, it comes off their salary. The salary is not allowed to exceed $3,000 per year, and they manage to work steadily enough to receive that amount of remuneration, so I see no reason why we should not place them on an annual basis instead of per diem.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, May 5, 1915.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for this beautiful May morning, we thank Thee for the rest that we have had during the past night. We have laid ourselves down and have slept, and have awaked because Thou hast sustained us. We thank Thee for the gift of a Saviour who came to seek and to save that which was lost; who founded His church and declared that the gates of hell should not prevail against it.

We pray Thee for the Governor of this State and his cabinet, and that Thou wouldst give him wisdom that he may deliberate wisely upon all subjects. Continue to crown the Speaker with success and bless every member and employe of this General Assembly. May we be faithful servants to the State and faithful servants to Thee, we ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Barnett, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,
The House resumed the consideration on final passage passage of House Bill No. 1180, as follows:

An Act to prohibit in cities of the second class the construction or erection of public or community vaults crypts or mausoleums (that is to say vaults crypts or mausoleums or parts of mausoleums intended for sale to the public) for the interment of human bodies where the building containing such vaults crypts or mausoleums is wholly or partially above the surface of the ground

Whereas, In cities of the second class it is deemed inimical to public policy and public health for sanitary and civic reasons to permit the construction or erection of public or community vaults crypts or mausoleums (that is to say vaults crypts mausoleums or parts of mausoleums intended for sale to the public) for the interment of human bodies where the building containing such vaults crypts or mausoleums is wholly or partially above the surface of the ground

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no person firm or corporation shall hereafter in cities of the second class commence build construct or erect any public or community vault or mausoleums that is to say vaults crypts or mausoleums wherein such vaults crypts or parts of mausoleums are intended to be sold or offered for sale to the public for the interment therein of human bodies where such public or community vaults crypts or mausoleums are in a building or buildings wholly or partially above the surface of the ground

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. McCAIG, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, House Bill No. 242, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Northwestern Anti-Tuberculosis League, for the Grand View Sanatorium and the Bonair Sanatorium

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time on page 17 of to-day's calendar, House Bill No. 865, File Folio 5207, Bills on Third Reading Postponed

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 865, entitled:

An Act relating to the assessment of real estate for taxation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I introduced this bill at the request of some of my friends in Philadelphia. I believed at that time that the bill had some merit in it and still so believe in regard to certain sections of this State. When the bill appeared upon the third reading calendar there was some objection raised to it by some of the members of the House, and I believe those objections are, in the main, well founded. The purpose of the bill was to cure a condition which existed under the Act of 1844. Under that act tools and machinery were made part of the real estate for the purpose of assessment for taxation for local purposes. In Philadelphia county that act has never been enforced. Subsequent to the passage of the Act of 1844, there was local legislation which passed the Legislature of this State exempting the City of Pittsburgh from the provisions of the Act of 1844, also the City of Scranton.

I am advised by some of the members of the House that the passage of this bill would seriously affect the taxation in some boroughs and townships where the manufacturing establishments largely consist of machinery only, and to exempt that from taxation for local purposes would leave next to nothing for that purpose. I am going to vote for the bill, but I wanted to explain my position to you gentlemen, so you would be guided accordingly and I do not ask anybody to vote for it who comes from a district which it would affect.

On the question recurring.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, lines 4, 5 and 6, by striking out the words "Relating to and regulating motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles et cetera" and inserting in lieu thereof the following, entitled "An Act relating to and regulating motor vehicles, and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles; controlling their speed upon the public streets and highways in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; providing for their registration, and licensing of certain operators, by the State Highway Department; prohibiting the operation of any motor vehicle by any person when intoxicated, or without the consent of the owner; forbidding the passage of any law laying a tax upon or requiring the registration of motor vehicles, or licensing of any operator, or regulating the speed of motor vehicles, by any county, borough, city, incorporated town, or township; establishing the rights of motor vehicles upon the public highways, with relation to other vehicles; providing for their equipment and for the width of tires to be used upon motor vehicles, and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles; regulating the service of process and proceedings in actions for damages arising therefrom; providing for arrest, and for service of process, and proceedings for violation of this act; prescribing the penalties therefor; and providing for the disposition of fees collected and fines imposed thereunder"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, with the permission of the House, I desire to make a statement at this time. The amendments, as prepared by the sponsor of this bill, are proper so far as I am able to determine. Yesterday there was a conference of what is known as the Legislative Committee of Conference and it was at that conference decided that certain revenue bills would receive the immediate attention of the Legislature. Among those bills was the bill that is now before us, on second reading, known as the Lipschutz Bill. After considering the matter from various standpoints it was decided that it would be proper and right to amend this bill and reduce the fees as proposed by us in the amended bill as it came out of the Senate. It was left to me to prepare such amendments and I am about to offer these amendments to the House, so if the gentlemen of the House will permit the amendments to the title and section one as prepared by the sponsor of the bill to pass, I will immediately offer the amendments that we substantially agreed on yesterday for the consideration of the House. I may say, in passing, that I believe that the amendments will be nearly, if not entirely, satisfactory to those who have been in opposition to the bill, so if you will kindly endorse the proposition of the sponsor of the bill, and these amendments immediately following, as I will offer these amendments, then you can consider the bill in its entirety as planned.

I desire to make the further statement that if this bill passes on second reading, as to the amendments we are now proposing, it will give you an opportunity to take the bill home, as amended, and have it finally decided next week so that no hasty action either for or against this bill will be taken on second reading.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the members allow the proposed amendments to go in as the probabilities are that they did not fully understand them.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lipschultz?

The SPEAKER declared the yeas had it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 104 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 26 in the negative.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, at this time I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 13, by striking out the words '"fifty cents"

Amend section 1, line 15, by striking out the words "as is" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "those included in what is known as the dealer's class," and by inserting after the word "for" the word "hereinafter"

Amend section 1, line 16, by striking out the words "in dealer's class"

Amend section 1, line 17, by striking out the words "seven dollars fifty cents" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "six dollars"

Amend section 1, line 18, by striking out the word "fifteen" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "twelve"

Amend section 1, line 20, by striking out the words "twenty-two" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "twenty" and by striking out the words "fifty cents"

Amend section 1, line 25, by striking out the words "seven dollars fifty cents" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "ten dollars"

Amend section 1, line 30, by striking out the words "twenty-two dollars fifty cents" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "twenty dollars"

Amend section 1, line 33, by striking out the word "thirty" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "twenty-five"

Amend section 1, line 36, by striking out the words "thirty-seven" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "thirty-five" and striking out the words "fifty cents"

Amend section 1, line 40, by striking out the words "fifty cents"

Amend section 1, line 42 by striking out the words "seven dollars fifty cents" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "eight dollars"

Amend section 1, by striking out lines 45 to 49 both inclusive

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. H. I. Wilson?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, for fear that the sentiment raised against this bill may take such hold upon the members of the House that they may reject even the amendments that are now being offered to the House by myself, I am about to take the responsibility of making a specific statement to this House. In the first place I want to call your attention to the fact that it is not a pleasant duty for any member of the House to stand here and fight for any revenue bill against which there is opposition, but there are a few things that we must do. We have been here an entire session to pass legislation and stand for certain things that will require money to meet the expenses thereof. Among the things for which we have almost stood for, is the taking care of the roads of this State in the proper manner and along new lines. Now, then, it was proposed in the first instance by this bill to tax the automobiles and others that are included in this bill about twice what they had already been taxed before. Very naturally a protest from all over the State came in and the bill came out of Committee amended to reduce this raise about 50 per cent. Now, then, the protests still come in and it has been decided that it would be better to reduce them still more. Now, before you decide that this bill shall be defeated on second reading I want to say to you that being committed to the general improvement of the roads and to make as many new roads as we can, this Legislature, being backed by the Executive, will carry that out. The money will be expended, and if we have not enough money to take care of the other appropriation bills before the House and Senate, the other appropriation bills will suffer. I am giving fair warning to this House that the roads will not suffer. I am in a position to say that if a sufficient amount of revenue is not provided that the roads will not suffer, but the other appropriation bills will. Therefore, I ask you to listen to these amendments and see what they will do. I ask you to pass the bill on second reading and take it home with you and come in touch with those who are interested and see, after you have this word, whether they are willing to submit to it, and whether you are willing to vote for it on third reading.

Now, then, just a word in explanation as to what the bill, if it is amended as proposed by the amendments which I have sent to the desk will do; under the present law, motorcycles of the State are taxed three dollars. It was proposed to tax them six dollars. As the bill came out of committee it was amended, or rather it was not amended, and we reduce it to four dollars. From six to four dollars. The raise is only one dollar. That increase will bring us $11,429, and only mean a dollar to the owner of each motorcycle in the State. As to the pneumatic tired vehicles divided into four classes:—the first class being up to 20-horse power, the old law provided a fee of five dollars. The new bill as it originally stood provided that that should be increased to ten dollars. As it came out amended from the committee, it was reduced to seven dollars and fifty cents. My amendment proposes to reduce it to six dollars, making a raise of only one dollar. That raise of only one dollar will bring to the State $10,754 in a single year and will only mean one dollar extra expense to the owners of automobiles in that particular class. In the second class are embraced the machines that are above 20-horse power to 35-horse power. As the old law stood, the fee was ten dollars for this class. It was proposed by the bill originally to raise it to twenty dollars. It came out of the Committee amended to fifteen dollars. The amendments now sent to the desk will reduce it to twelve dollars, meaning a raise for those in that class of only two dollars. The raise will bring to the State an increase of $173,494. The third class embraces all vehicles above 35-horse power to 50- horse power. The original law was fifteen dollars license fee. It was proposed to double it by the original bill, making it thirty dollars. The amendment sent to the desk will make it twenty dollars, a raise of five dollars. That will bring an increase to the State of $47,375.00. The fourth class embraces all those of more than 50-horse power. It was proposed to tax them forty dollars. These amendments will let them through for thirty dollars. And so, all through, this bill has been amended along those lines. I am not sure whether the automobile people of this State will be in favor of this bill or not, as it is about to be amended with your consent, but this much we do know that the amendments will very greatly reduce the changes that were set forth in the original bill and the total estimate now as to what the whole amount, if we put in these moderate raises, is as follows: The total increase for a single year will be $304,288. That seems a tremendous sum to come from one class of people, but remember there are thousands in the first class, a raise of only one dollar. As to motorcycles the raise is only one dollar. In the second class, the largest class of all, a raise of only two dollars. I cannot conceive that the automobile people of this State can object to the bill as it may be amended here to-day, and I feel that they will meet upon this basis if you carry the facts back home to them, and let them consider it. If they don't, if they want to assume the responsibility as standing against any increase whatever, then it will be up to each member to represent his constituents and vote accordingly.

This bill has been very unpopular because, in the first instance, it proposed to double the fees, and it is very hard now to get people to approve of anything along the line of raising the license fee at all on automobiles, but I have given you the additional warning as to what may happen if some of these bills that are proposed to raise revenue for us do not go through. Now, I am going to leave it with you, merely with the request that you approve of these amendments, pass the bill on second reading take it home with you and come back next week, and we will compare notes and see whether the people of this State are willing to meet us on this basis. If they do not, then it will be up to raise revenue somewhere else. There are several bills before us for our consideration along this line, but remember you this, that revenue must come from some source and there will be no place at all that we can reach out that the particular calss of citizens that may be affected by the bill that will raise their taxes will protest against it, and you have the same opposition on every bill that comes before us that is proposed to raise revenue. Without revenue, the charitable institutions, the schools and the many projects that are before the State will suffer. There is no use of going into details. I have a list of those many bills and as to how they may affect other interests. This is not a proper time to go into them, but you may rest assured that the interests affected by these various bills will be heard from when it comes to the time for us to cast our votes on these bills. Now, all we ask is your fair consideration of this bill along with the others, with the warning that the roads will be taken care of in any event, and if a loss is to fall, if appropriations are to be reduced, it will fall somewhere else, let it be where it may. I am authorized to make that statement on the floor of the House.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, as sponsor of the bill, I want to just add a word to the words uttered by the gentleman from Jefferson. The protests against the bill, that you gentleman have received, no doubt, apply to the bill in its original shape. At that time, after careful consideration, I thought that the bill was too drastic. I took the matter up with people in that line of business, and they also said it was too drastic. I, myself, have received numerous letters applicable to the bill in its original shape. After conferences with the Governor, the Attorney-General and other members of this legislative body, we took the matter up and again we said the bill was too drastic, even though it contemplated an increase of only 50 per cent. The gentleman, from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, very kindly volunteered that he would take the matter up and give it careful consideration. He has given this matter most painstaking consideration, and I say to you gentlemen there is nothing unfair in this bill; that all these protests are against the bill in its original form. Now, what harm can be done? We merely ask you to withhold your judgment in abeyance for a few days, and give you an opportunity to take this bill, as it is emasculated by the gentleman from Jefferson, home with you, digest it, take it up with your various interests do not only consult automobile owners, do not only consult the men who handle automobiles but consult those also who are desirous of having good roads. When we go to a dance, we must pay for the tune of the fiddler. If we want good roads we must pay for them. We only ask the automobile man to contribute his proportionate share for the purposes of good roads. Now I ask you what harm can there be done: I ask you gentlemen to let these amendments go through, and then after careful consideration, if you are of the opinion that it is for the best interests of the majority of your constitutents to vote against this bill, you will then have your opportunity.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, for my own information as well as the information of the other members of the House, I desire to ask the gentleman from Jefferson what the difference in the revenues would be in the bill as originally introduced, and after his amendments are put into the bill.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I am unable to give the exact figures but in the original bill, as presented, the increase would have been one hundred per cent.; this increase will only be about twenty-four and six-tenths per cent. so that the reduction will be about 75 per cent. on a million and a quarter of dollars.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further for information.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, whether he wishes us to understand that in these amendments, he himself proposed to strike off 75 per cent. of the revenues of the State, and then to severely criticise us if we should strike the other 25 per cent. off?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, indeed I do not criticise anybody for striking out the entire amount of increase. That is up to him, each individual member. I am here merely as the spokesman of the committee that has been trying to work out something along the line of increase of the revenues generally of the State. This is one of the bills that is proposed to raise revenue. So many protests came in from clubs and individuals throughout this State with regard to the bill that it was deemed wise to amend it and it was amended in committee, reducing it one-half. So many protests still came in that it was deemed wise to amend it further and the amendments submitted here carry out the directions as they were given by those who were in this conference on the question of revenue bills. Now, I am not urging the gentlemen to pass this bill finally. I am only urging them to accept the amendments and pass it on second reading and if then they ascertain, after three or four days' time, that the bill is desirable, then we will ask their support for it; if not, vote it down in its entirety. But it would seem that no further amendments or no further reduction would be worth while. The amendments should be accepted substantially as submitted or the entire bill dropped and then take the responsibility of that act. I am not urging anybody to do anything. I am only here, as I said before, to carry out the instructions as they were given to me.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Jefferson how much revenue the owners of automobiles pay under the present law.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, they pay under the present law $1,236,936.00.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I realize the fact that we must have revenue and if we cannot get it in any other way we must get it off the owners or some of the owners of automobiles. From the statement of the gentlemen from Jefferson you can see that a large amount of revenue of this State is derived from the automobiles. We have other resources in this State that should pay something. We have natural resources—crude oil—if I am informed correctly, they don't pay a cent of revenue and yet they are removing from the State these natural resources. I make that suggestion to the gentleman from Jefferson as another means of raising revenue.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, it is not my purpose, it is not my position in this House to oppose the raising of revenue. I want that understood at the start; but I do want you to understand this, gentlemen, and I think that every gentleman in the House knows that the rate of taxation upon the automobiles to-day is more than the rate that the State has fixed upon corporate property. Now I was told, no longer ago than this morning, that we have already taken in through the Highway Department $1,300,000, and that, at four mills, the rate on corporate property, would make the valuation of the automobiles of the State of Pennsylvania about $325,000,000.

Now it seems to me that with only eight thousand or ten thousand miles of State road upon which this tax is to be expended, when taken into consideration with the other eighty thousand miles of road in the State of Pennsylvania over which these automobiles travel, the township roads, that some provision ought to be made for those township roads; and the people back home in our district are asking why we don't tax these automobiles locally, and if they were taxed locally then they would get some tax for the township roads. But now, when you raise this increase for the State, you lessen the chances in the time to come when these automobiles will be taxed locally. Gentlemen, I do not think it is fair. I do not think it is an honest proposition to destroy this automobile bill of 1913 and that is what this bill practically does.

I realize that we can let these amendments go through and that the bill can stand until next week and that we can vote upon it at that time; but I want to say to you that it has been my experience in this House in the two years I have been here that powerful interests are brought to bear upon the members of this House whenever a measure of this kind comes before the House and the minds and judgment and right decisions of the members are imposed upon. And I want to say to you further, that I believe that that will take place in this case and that we will no more get a correct idea of the wishes of our constituents next week than we will this week. I am sure that we have heard from home, every last one of us. We know that they object to any increase upon the automobile licenses. My people, as I said before, don't object to the local tax but they do object to any more State tax and I hope the members of this House will take these matters into consideration when they come to agree on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER declared the "ayes" appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for and one hundred and twenty-seven voting in the affirmative the amendments were agreed to.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to thank the members of the House for their action and I wish to say this: That the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Walter, has called my attention to the fact that my amendment does not strike out enough lines with relation to the traction engine and he has suggested that a few more lines of the bill be taken out and we wish that you would take this further amendment along with those adopted as it will not affect the bill.

I therefore offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 6 by striking out in line 62 all after the word "wheel" down to 77 inclusive.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker you will remember that the traction engine proposition was taken care of by the Spangler Bill and this amendment eliminates from the present bill all the provisions relating to traction engines embraced in the Spangler Bill and I trust you will support the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was then read as follows:

An Act amending an act "Relating to and regulating motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles et cetera" approved the seventh day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws six hundred and seventy-two) by increasing the registration fees provided in section six thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, lines 1 and 2, by striking out the words "Relating to and regulating motor vehicles and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles et cetera" and inserting in lieu thereof the following, entitled: "An Act relating to and regulating motor vehicles, and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles; controlling their speed upon the public streets and highways in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; providing for their registration, and licensing of certain operators, by the State Highway Department; prohibiting the operation of any motor vehicle by any person when intoxicated, or without the consent of the owner; forbidding the passage of any law laying a tax upon or requiring the registration or motor vehicles, or licensing of any operator, or regulating the speed of motor vehicles, by any county, borough, city, incorporated town, or township; establishing the rights of motor vehicles upon the public highways with relation to other vehicles; providing for their equipment and for the width of tires to be used upon motor vehicles, and vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles; regulating the service of process and proceedings in actions for damages arising therefrom; providing for arrest, and for service of process, and proceedings for violation of this act; prescribing the penalties therefor; and providing for the disposition of fees collected and fines imposed thereunder"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO PRINT EXTRA COPIES OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1471.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that one thousand extra copies of this bill, as amended, be printed for distribution.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean that they can be printed and distributed in the short time we have? It seems to me it would almost be a waste of money on account of the shortness of the time, although I am satisfied if they will really be of any benefit.

The SPEAKER. The idea is to have the bills for the members to take home with them.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1471 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1471, the bill just passed on second reading, be made a Special Order for third reading and final passage on next Monday evening at nine thirty o'clock.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that instructions be given to the State Printer to have this bill printed as soon as possible, so we can get it and send it out.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's suggestion is referred to the Chief Clerk, who will be guided accordingly.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10.35 having arrived, the House will now take up the consideration of the special order set for that hour.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1330, as follows:

An Act providing for the assessment and collection of a tax for State purposes on the loans of private and public corporations joint stock associations limited partnerships and companies and appropriating and dedicating the same to the construction and maintenance of State highways

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That every public corporation and every other corporation joint stock association limited partnership and company whatsoever incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth shall be subject to and pay annually a tax of four (4) mills for State purposes on the nominal value of all mortgages bonds scrip certificates of indebtedness car trust securities and every other security or loan of every kind whatever issued by it bearing interest except ordinary commercial paper or notes for annual indebtedness issued and discounted or negotiated by any bank banking institution savings institution or trust company

Section 2 The treasurer of every such corporation shall report under oath annually on the thirty-first day of December to the Auditor General on forms prepared by the Auditor-General the amount and character of the indebtedness of such corporation If the Auditor-General be dissatisfied with such report he may demand further reports or information or the production of any books documents or papers and for this purpose shall have all the powers now provided by law for the settlement of other accounts by the Auditor General

Section 3 Upon the filing of the report by any corporation under the provisions of this act or upon obtaining the additional information by the Auditor-General for that purpose the Auditor-General and State Treasurer shall assess a tax of four (4) mills upon each dollar of the nominal value of the amount of the loans of said corporation and settle an account against the said corporation for the amount of said tax in the manner now provided by law for the settlement of other public accounts.

Section 4 After the settlement of said account and a notice given in writing by the Auditor-General to the corporation of such settlement the corporation shall pay into the State Treasury the amount of said tax within sixty days after the date of such settlement Upon the failure of any corporation to pay the tax as required by this act within sixty (60) days after said settlement interest at the rate of twelve (12) per centum shall be added as now required by law in the case of other settlements of public accounts In the event that any corporation shall fail or refuse to file the reports required by this act the Auditor-General shall have the right to make an estimated settlement and to impose the penalties as required by law

Section 5 No person firm corporation partnership association or limited partnership owning or holding any of the obligations which are required to be reported to the Auditor-General and taxed under the provisions of this act shall be required to return to the local authorities any such loans or obligations or to pay any tax to the local authorities thereon Provided That nothing contained in this act shall be construed to relieve the owners and holders of every other kind of personal property to return the same and pay the tax thereon as now requird by law And provided further That every corporation making the report and paying the tax imposed by this act shall be relieved from making any report or paying any tax upon its loans or other obligations held by corporations or individuals in whose hands the same would have been taxable except for the provisions of this act

Section 6 The money derived from time to time from the tax collected under the provisions of this act is hereby permanently dedicated to the construction maintenance improvement and repair of the State highways of the Commonwealth and shall be kept in a special fund for such purpose in the State treasury separate and apart from the general revenues of the Commonwealth the State Treasurer and his bondsmen shall be responsible for the safe-keeping of and accounting for said fund in the same manner and under the same penalty as for the safe-keeping and accounting for the other revenues of the Commonwealth The State Treasurer shall on the first business day of each and every month certify to the State Highway Commissioner the money in said fund available for the use of the State Highway Department and the State Treasurer and Auditor General shall credit one-half of the amount so certified as available to an account for the construction and improvement of State highways and one-half to an account for the maintenance and repair of State highways When so certified by the State Treasurer the funds shall be available for requisition and expenditure and shall be requisitioned expended settled and vouched as provided by general laws for funds appropriated from the general revenues of the Commonwealth

Section 9 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith or supplied hereby be and the same are hereby repealed saving reserving and excepting unto the Commonwealth the right to collect any taxes interest penalty or penalties due owing or accruing under the said laws or parts of laws and saving also the right to settle and collect the tax for the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen under existing laws

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this is another one of those unpopular revenue raisers. We all seem to want appropriations for our charitable institutions, and for our schools and road, but we are very loath to vote for bills which produce the money. As I stated to the House some weeks ago, we cannot build roads without the money, or have proper schools without the money. This is one of the bills which will produce in revenue to the Commonwealth around a million and a half of dollars, without adding any additional tax to any interest or to any people. It merely provides for a Four Mill tax on the items mentioned in the bill, and it is not an additional Four Mills as some people seem to think. It is merely a change in the method of collecting this Four Mills corporate tax, and I assure you this is a most worthy bill and for a most worthy cause, and I ask you gentlemen to vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10:40 A. M. having arrived, the House will take up the special order of business set for that hour.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1665 (Senate Bill No. 914), as follows:

An Act creating a fund for the purpose of rebuilding restoring and replacing buildings structures equipment or other property of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty and regulating the placing of insurance thereon and providing penalties for any violation of the provisions of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of creating a fund for the rebuilding restoration and replacement of any structures buildings equipment or other property owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty the following funds income and revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are hereby specifically dedicated appropriated and set apart to constitute a fund separate and apart from all other funds of the Commonwealth and to be known as the Insurance Fund to wit

(a) All moneys now in the custody of the State Treasurer heretofore "Appropriated and set apart for the purpose of paying the present indebtedness and the interest thereon and such further indebtedness as may hereafter be contracted on the part of the Commonwealth" and commonly known as the Sinking Fund in excess of the total amount of the funded obligations or indebtedness of the Commonwealth chargeable thereto the amount of such excess in the Sinking Fund to be determined by the State Treasurer audited by the Auditor General and approved by the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners as of the date of the approval of this act

(b) All revenues of the Commonwealth received by the State Treasurer after the date of the approval of this act which under existing laws are appropriated and set apart to the Sinking Fund

(c) One-half of all taxes received upon premiums of foreign fire insurance companies after the date of the approval of this act

(d) All payments hereafter made by insurance companies on account of loss or damage to property of the Commonwealth caused by fire or other casualty or on account of the cancellation of existing policies of insurance

(e) All income received from interest upon deposits in bank or upon securities in which the said fund may be invested

Section 2 The said fund and all interest increment and additions thereto shall be and remain in the custody of the State Treasurer and shall be invested and reinvested by him under the supervision and direction of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners in lawfully issued interest-bearing securities of the United States of America the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or any other of the United States or any county city borough or school district of this Commonwealth or any obligations of municipalities of other states but preferably in such securities issued by municipalities within this Commonwealth Provided however that current receipts and income applicable to said fund shall be deposited at interest in legal depositories of the public funds until the same shall accumulate in sufficient amount to justify the investment thereof in interest-bearing securities as hereinbefore provided

Section 3 The said fund hereby created shall be available for expenditure in the manner hereinafter provided for the rebuilding restoration or replacement of buildings structures equipment or other property owned by the Commonwealth and damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty and for no other purpose whatsoever And for such purpose the State Treasurer is authorized and directed by and with the consent and approval of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners to make sale from time to time of such part of such securities as may be necessary for the purpose of this act

Section 4 Whenever the total amount of said fund shall exceed the sum of one million dollars no further investment in securities shall be made on account thereof but all additional income and receipts applicable thereto shall be deposited in legal depositories of public funds and the excess over and above the said sum of one million dollars shall be transferred annually on the thirty-first day of December to the general fund of the State Treasury

Section 5 Whenever loss or damage by fire or other casualty shall occur to any structure building equipment or other property owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the department board of trustees overseers commisioners or other branch of the State government having control or custody thereof shall make report of such loss or damage to the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings setting forth specifically the use and character of the structure building equipment or other property damaged or destroyed the original cost thereof the estimated amount of the loss or damage and cost of restoration rebuilding replacement and such other data and information as may be required by the said Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings who shall make such examination and investigation as may be necessary and report the result thereof to the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings whereupon the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings may in its discretion authorize the rebuilding restoration or replacement of the property damaged or destroyed and for that purpose is hereby authorized to have plans and specifications prepared and contracts executed and to supervise the erection construction or replacement thereof under the supervision of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings or other duly authorized agent of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings such rebuilding restoration or replacement to be in substantial accord with the original character use and purpose of the property damaged or destroyed Provided That the provisions of this act shall not apply to armory buildings owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and under the supervision of the Armory Board of the State of Pennsylvania

Section 6 All expenditures on account of contracts entered into under the provisions of this act shall be examined by the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings and if found correct he shall certify to the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings that the materials have been furnished and the work and labor have been performed in accordance with the plans specifications and contracts approved by the said board and after having been so certified by him shall be approved by the Executive Controller and when so approved shall be audited settled and paid by the Auditor General and the State Treasurer in the manner provided by law Provided that whenever the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings shall have taken such action as will involve expenditures from said fund they shall forthwith certify the probable amount of expenditure to the State Treasurer and Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners who shall forthwith take such action as is necessary to provide funds sufficient to meet the obligations so entered into

Section 7 That from and after the adoption and approval of this act it shall be unlawful for any Department Bureau Commission or other branch of the State Government or any Board of Trustees overseers managers or other person or persons or custodians of State property to purchase secure or obtain any policy of insurance on any property owned by the Commonwealth the term of which policy of insurance shall extend beyond the thirty-first day of December Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and twenty or to purchase obtain or secure any such policy of insurance for any amount in excess of the amount of insurance outstanding at the date of the approval of this act after deducting from such amount twenty per centum thereof for each calendar year which shall have elapsed from and after the thirty-first day of December Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen to the date of purchasing securing or obtaining such policy of insurance

Section 8 The State Treasurer and his bondsman shall be responsible for the safe keeping of and accounting for said funds in the same manner and under the same penalties as for the safe keeping of and accounting for the other funds of this Commonwealth

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, If there is any gentlemen in the House who can thoroughly explain this bill, I would be glad to have it done. Otherwise, I think it ought to be postponed for a couple of hours. Now, this is an important measure and I have not had the time to take it up myself. I see it provides for certain moneys that are now in the Sinking Fund to be turned over for certain other purposes. What the amount of that fund is and whether it will be able to take care of the provisions of this bill ought to be explained to the House before it finally passes. It is a Senate bill and action upon it now decides whether it shall be finally passed by the two bodies.

I do not want to be understood to be in the position of opposing the bill at the present time, but I really have not had the time to give it consideration myself and I presume there is some one in the House that can explain it thoroughly.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, Senate Bill No. 914, now before us for consideration, will permit the State to carry its own insurance. Now, that is the object of the bill; to permit the State to carry its own fire insurance. It provides for a Sinking Fund to meet any of these losses. It has been demonstrated by the Attorney General's Department, and those who have studied the subject, that this can be done much more cheaply and at a great saving to the State. It will save the State $125,000 a year, it is estimated, if the State carries its own insurance on its buildings.

Now, this harms nobody, except perhaps the insurance companies,—three or four insurance companies, of course, will lose that amount of business, but we are doing business for the citizens of Pennsylvania rather than for some particular insurance companies. This is along the line of taking care of the revenues of the State, only it may be said for this that it levies no taxes up on anybody, but it saves the expenses. It is along the line of economy. This bill is one of the bills that was considered at the conference with relation to the revenues of the State. It appealed to me and it was the concensus of opinion of the gentlemen present at this conference, that this bill was a wise step. I would ask that the members of the House vote for the bill.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am very much in sympathy with anything that will save the State money, but I am not going to sit here and vote for a proposition that appears beyond doubt to me to be impracticable, unless it is explained. Now, because I happen to take a part in the insurance legislation of this House is largely due to the fact that I am the chairman of the Insurance Committee. I, perhaps, have more knowledge than many members of the House on insurance subjects, but perhaps there are some here who know more about the subject than I do, but I do not think there is any member of the House who does not realize that if you make a promise to do something you ought to be able to do it.

I have no interest in any insuranec company, either in the United States or abroad. I realize that if the State undertakes to take care of its own insurance, it is not a new proposition. It has been done in other States and it has been suggested in the Legislature of Pennsylvania a number of times before, but we have never yet seen the time when we were able to set aside a sum that would give the State the protection that fire insurance is presumed to give, namely: if this Capital should burn ,at the least calculation there would be a loss of eight or ten millions of dollars. There are a number of buildings in the State of Pennsylvania of very large value. The very moment that the State feels it can set aside a sum sufficient to indemnify it against that loss, that particular moment the State ought to do it if it works out as a matter of economy to the State, but in the absence of any evidence whatever, from any source, as to the amount of money available to make a reserve fund which will protect the State against a fire loss, to my mind it would be very unwise for this Legislature to do it.

It is because I cannot see where there is money enough at the present time to embark in this proposition that I enter this objection. At the present time we are crowded for immediate revenue. I, just by casually glancing at this bill, find that one-half of the revenues now that are going into the State from a tax on premiums collected in the State of Pennsylvania are going to be diverted out of the immediate revenues of the State. Now, that is going to amount to a good deal more than one hundred thousand dollars a year. I have not the time to give you the figures, but they are available and can be quickly obtained.

I am in sympathy with the same proposition that my friend from Jefferson is, and I think every member of the House is in sympathy with it, but certainly unless some one can show us that it will in no way affect the current revenues to embark in this proposition, we will have to look at it like any other man in business, namely: things we much desire to do, we do not have the means available to do them. Much as we may desire for the State to avoid paying premiums of insurance on her property, can we afford to allow all of that to be cancelled, so far as the protection the State now has, and have it placed in the hands of the State with no reserve to give the protection.

For the provisions of this bill diverts more money from the Treasury, two or three times over, than the amount of their premiums, and that is all there is to it. The House had better know what it is doing; it is immaterial to me, but as a legislator and a member of this House I am presumed to try to protect the State and the State's property and with my knowledge of the business I make these suggestions to you. I do think that we had better postpone action on this bill until we do know something more about it. It is a Senate Bill which can be postponed for a few days and not endanger the passage of it. It may be possible that it can be corrected in some features and it may be put in a form that I myself will support it and vote for it, but in its present form I doubt whether I could. I suggest that the bill be postponed and be made a special order for next Monday evening.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, There has been no plan or no thought that I should be the champion of these revenue bills, but I have this to say in answer to the remarks by the gentleman from Delaware. I am informed that the State now has three hundred thousand dollars as a reserve fund along this particular line. I am also informed that this matter has been under consideration by the heads of the different departments of the State for a long time and that inasmuch as modern architecture is on such a basis that the State can afford to carry its own insurance it has been deemed advisable, after a great deal of research, to have just such a bill as this. I am assured by the head of the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings that the State will not lose by this proposition and that it is a wise step. It does seem that it would not be proper to postpone the consideration of this bill at this time. So far as I am concerned, personally, I have not given the subject enough consideration to deal with it intelligently. However, it was discussed in my presence in such a manner as to thoroughly satisfy me that the idea was proper and right and is one of the things that we agreed upon that we should try to carry through. It was discussed in the presence of the gentleman from Delaware. I may further add that large private concerns have tried this plan and it is working out to their advantage. Wanamaker of Philadelphia has it and it would appear that if private concerns can assume the responsibility of such an idea as this or even if an insurance company can afford that kind of a risk that the State itself ought to be big enough, financially, to take care of its own risk and take chances on carrying its own insurance.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. H. I. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, yes sir. I will allow myself to be interrogated, of course. However, I feel that I am not such an expert along insurance lines and I may not be able to give him any satisfaction.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that I was present at a discussion of this subject yesterday?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I was informed that the gentleman from Delaware was present while this matter was being considered.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I was present when the matter was suggested but not discussed. When it was spoken about I was there but there was no discussion of the subject at all as to the mater of detail. It is true that the Attorney General made some remarks about the proposition but nobody else made any remarks about the matter. There was no time, I thought, to go into the details of the subject and so I didn't put it up to them at that time. I am not saying now that the State ought not to do these things, but I am saying, since my friend from Jefferson says that there is a reserve of but three hundred thousand dollars and having some knowledge of the State of Pennsylvania and its buildings, I know that three hundred thousand dollars would not be a bagatelle as a reserve to recover insurance. Why, I want to tell my friend from Jefferson that if he will go over and look at the Norristown Asylum alone, he will find a property there worth over a million dollars. The structural part of it is from thirty to fifty years old and it does not approach being fire-proof. I am not going to be put on record as having supported a measure of this type and then find that the State is up against a million dollar loss and that I was one of the parties who voted for this condition. I do know that insurance is intended to insure and protect against an unusual loss; that is all there is in insurance; the protection is not here in this proposition. My friend from Jefferson, himself, says three hundred thousand dollors is the amount of the reserve fund. Where would that protect? If we had no buildings in the State of Pennsylvania that are worth over three hundred thousand dollars, I would vote that there be no insurance on any of it. That would be no kind of a loss and the State would not need any protection, as it is considered no risk if it does not exceed three hundred thousand dollars, nor if a risk don't exceed a half a million, but, unfortunately, scattered over the State there is a lot of State property that runs into millions and that sort of property, in my judgment, ought to be protected. It is simply a plain practical business proposition.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Delaware: At the beginning of this discussion did you ask for an explanation of the bill before the House?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir. And the explanation, I might add, the explanation that was given did not evidence to me that it was wise to pass it. The evidence divulged, as explained, that there was not over three hundred thousand dollars as a reserve fund to protect properties of the State if the State attempts to carry its own insurance. It also developed in the argument on the bill that one-half of the premiums—

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman or did he not, later in the discussion, say that this was a matter that had been before this Legislature in preceding years.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, did not the gentleman first ask to have this bill explained to the House and then declare that it was an old measure that had been before the Legislature during previous sessions? I want to say this for the benefit of the members of the House: A number of us were asked to go in and see the Governor yesterday and this matter was discussed then and the gentleman from Delaware participated in the discussion so that he should be familiar with every detail of this bill.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Armstrong is mistaken when he says that I entered into any discussion of this bill. There was no question asked or no evidence given except that the principle was a good principle, to which I subscribed, but as to how it would work in detail, there was no explanation given. It is true that it was said at that little gathering that lasted perhaps a half hour in which several matters were suggested as being wise, but this was only a good principle and accepted as such and nobody went into detail as to whether there would be a sufficient reserve fund to protect the State.. I would not say that this is an old bill; I say it is a proposition that has been considered in previous Legislatures and the reason always why it would not pass was because we would not find the reserve fund to give the protection. As soon as my friend will show me a sufficient reserve fund, I will vote for the bill both handsup, but three hundred thousand dollars is not a sufficient reserve. It is alright to say that buildings will never burn. I recently thought it was not necessary to carry much insurance, but my buildings burnt down and I was to a certain extent, caught napping. Here is a case which is similar to this State going into this proposition with a reserve fund of three hundred thousand.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this bill merely creates a reserve fund or a certain fund and with the understanding that the insurance will not be cancelled until the sum of one million dollars is in the fund. The fact that we have three hundred thousand dollars to-day has nothing to do with the case, and we will not assume this risk and this responsibility of carrying our own insurance until there is a reserve fund of one million dollars created under the provisions of this bill. The insurance as we now carry it will not be cancelled for five years. It will go on just as it is until this fund of one million dollars has been created and when once the fund of one million dollars has been created, then that fund surely would take care of this risk as has been provided in this bill. All these questions were gone over very carefully and it was stated to us that the average loss a year is about ten thousand dollars. Therefore, it would be wise to adopt such a policy as this. If in two years from now we find the fund has not been working out as we planned, it will be very easy to take back what we have done and repeal this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is known as the Agricultural Commission Bill—The purpose of it is to add to the efficiency and increase the results that may be obtained by scientific investigation and experimentation in governmental work in the line of agriculture and stock raising. Although this is the oldest industry in the world nevertheless, it is only within the last few years, within a comparatively late time, that we have begun to appreciate the importance and the necessity of scientific investigation and research. Serious efforts at passing laws to increase the efficiency of agriculture and stock raising begin, practically, with the Act of 1895 creating an Agricultural Department. That law is still in force, is efficient, and has been only modified from time to time as experience has dictated. The purpose of the present bill is merely to add another element of efficiency to that plan which has been outlined in the Act of 1895. The law which is now in force provides for a Secretary of Agriculture, A State Economic Zoologist, a State Veterinarian and a Dairy and Food Commissioner. Those officials are capable and efficient and are doing good work as far as I know. But it is quite natural that with these independent departments bureaus and officials that there should be considerable conflict as in fact there is, and an overlapping of the duties of the officials and agents of the different departments, and in some rare cases, friction between the departments. It is with the idea of overcoming that condition that this bill provides for a Commission to make the work seem more smoothly and in harmony and coöperation.

The bill provides for a Commission composed of seven men, five of whom shall be farmers, all of whom shall be appointed by the Governor for different terms. They are given the power to appoint all of the officers and employees of the various departments with the exception of the Secretary of Agriculture, who is to be still appointed by the Governor as at present. They will have the fixing of the salaries and the defining of the duties of all the employes and agents; they will have the power to discharge them and regulate their activities, and most important of all, in the interest of harmony,. it will be the Commission's duty to report to every Session of the Legislature an estimate of the expenditures that will be needed for two fiscal years. With that power it is anticipated that they will be able to overcome all of the conflict of activities and duplication of work that now occasionally takes place. This bill will not legislate any official out of office. It will not add any expenditure to the State, as the Commissioners are not to be paid any compensation. It will not interfere with the executive or administrative powers which are now vested in the heads of these departments. The authority of the different heads to declare quarantines and other matters which require prompt, and effective action is not taken away. It is merely a step forward in the progress of scientific and intelligent agricultural education, and assistance on behalf of the State government, to those engaged in the industry and will go far, I fell sure, to keep the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the front rank and enable it to meet the competition that is daily growing greater and greater among the great producing Commonwealths of the Nation.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON HOUSE BILL NO. 331.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up the report of the Committee on Conference on House Bill No. 331.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON HOUSE BILL NO. 331.

To the members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 331, entitled:

An Act requiring cities of the first class to establish a pension fund for employes of said cities and all county or other public employes if any paid by appropriation of the city councils thereof and out of the treasury of said cities and regulating the administration and the payment of such pensions respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

WM. W. SMITH,
OWEN B. JENKINS,
RICHARD V. FARLEY,
Committee on the part of the Senate.

JAMES A. DUNN,
WARREN C. GRAHAM,
JOHN M. FLYNN,
Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.

An Act requiring cities of the first class to establish a pension fund for employes of said cities and all county or other public employes if any paid by appropriation of the city councils thereof and out of the treasury of said cities and regulating the administration and the payment of such pensions

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all cities of the first class shall create a pension fund for the pensioning of employes of said cities and all county or other public employes if any paid by appropriation of the city councils thereof and out of the city treasury thereof in the manner under the conditions and subject to the qualifications following

Section 2 In every such city of the first class there shall be created a board to be known as the pension board consisting of the mayor the city treasurer the city controller one member of select council and one member of common council of said city to be selected annually by the respective bodies It shall be the duty of said board to register all persons employed by the said city and all other public employes paid out of the treasury thereof as aforesaid if any and to administer the collection and distribution of the fund herein provided for and to do such acts and make such reasonable rules in the premises as such board may deem necessary to effectually carry into effect the provisions of this act

Section 3 Every person now or herafter employed by the said cities or paid out of the city treasury thereof as herein above provided if any of the age of sixty years and upwards who shall have been so employed for a period of twenty years or more shall upon application to the board of pensions herein created be retired from service and shall during the remainder of his or her life receive the pension or compensation fixed by this act subject to such qualifications as are herein contained

Section 4 During the lifetime of the said person he or she shall be entitled to receive as a pension annually from the fund set aside for the purpose fifty per centum of the amount which would constitute the average annual salary or wages which he or she received during the last five years of his or her employment by the said city or other public employment as aforesaid Said pension to be paid in monthly payments Should any person so employed after twenty years of service be dismissed voluntarily retire or be in any manner deprived of his position or employment before attaining the age of sixty years upon continuing a monthly payment to the fund equal to the last amount due and paid monthly while in active service said person shall be entitled to the pension above mentioned notwithstanding he or she has not attained the age of sixty years at the time of his or her separation from the public service but said person shall not commence until he or she has attained the age of sixty years Should any employe however become totally and permanently disabled after twenty years of service and before attaining the age of sixty years he or she shall be entitled to the said pension Proof of total and permanent disability shall consist of the sworn statement of three practicing physicians designated by the board that the employe is in a permanent condition of health which would totally disable him or her from performing the duties of his or her position or office The pension paid to any one employe shall not exceed one hundred dollars per month

Section 5 The city county or other public employes if any herein mentioned shall after the passage of this act pay unto the board of pensions monthly an amount equal to two percentum of their monthly salaries or wages in no event however paying at a rate greater than four dollars a month which shall be applied to the purposes of this act Payment of the monthly amount or contribution herein mentioned shall cease and be discontinued at the time the beneficiary receives the pension herein provided If for any cause an employe contributing to the pension fund shall cease to be an employe of any such cities of the first class or other county or public employes paid out of the treasury of such cities before said employe becomes entitled to the pension conferred by this act the total amount of the contributions paid into the pension fund by such employe shall be refunded to him in full without interest Provided however If any such employe shall have returned to him or her the amount contributed as aforesaid and shall afterward re-enter such public employment said employe shall not be entitled to the pension designated until twenty years after the said re-employment unless he or she shall return to the pension fund the amount withdrawn in which event the period of twenty years shall be computed from the time said employe first entered the such public service In the event of the death of any employe before the said employe becomes entitled to the pension aforesaid the said total amount of contributions aforesaid shall be paid over to the estate of said deceased employe

Section 6 Should any person holding position in said cities of the first class or any county or other public employes if any paid out of the treasury of such cities as aforesaid be paid a per diem wage he or she shall not be compelled to pay or contribute toward the pension fund herein provided for but shall have the option or choice of so doing and in that event only of becoming entitled to the pension provided by this act

Section 7 The heads of every department and office employing persons entitled under the provisions of this act to receive a pension shall certify to the board of pensions all persons so employed and the amount of salary or wages which is paid to said employe together with dismisals resignations changes or terminations of services and from the records of their office or department furnish such other relative information as the board of pensions shall require

Section 8 It shall be the duty of the board of pensions to receive and retain and when deemed advisable to invest the funds payable in accordance with the provisions of this act and to pay over by warrant or check the amount due to said employes

Section 9 The public authorities of every city of the first class charged with the disbursements expenditures and appropriations shall annually set aside apportion and appropriate out of all taxes and income of the said cities unto the board of pensions a sum sufficient to maintain the pensions or compensations due under this act

Section 10 The benefits conferred by this act shall apply to all persons employed in any capacity by or holding positions in the cities included in its provisions or paid out of the treasury thereof as aforesaid and the city or cities therein Provided That this act shall not apply to employes of such departments bureaus or offices as are now protected by pension authorized by the laws of this State and in force at the time of the passage of this act

Section 11 The time of service herein specified namely twenty years shall be computed from the time of the first or original employment said employment to consist of service either to such cities or to the county or other public service paid out of the city treasury or both as aforesaid and need not be continuous No pensions shall be paid under the provisions of this act however until after January first one thousand nine hundred and seventeen

Section 12 The compensation or pension herein mentioned shall not be subject to attachment or execution shall be payable only to the beneficiary designated in this act and shall not be subject to assignment or transfer

Section 13 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this is a municipal pension bill for the City of Philadelphia and the Conference Committee reports unanimously on it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1193, as follows:

An Act defining conditional sales and regulating the recording and effect thereof and providing penalties

DEFINITION

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the term "conditional sale" when used in this act means any contract whereby goods or chattels attached or to be attached to real property or chattels real are sold or delivered upon condition that the said goods or chattels shall belong to the person to whom they are sold or delivered when the amount paid is a certain sum or the value of the property or any part thereof or on the occurrence of a future event or contingency The term "conditional vendor" when so used means the person who so sells or delivers such goods or chattels to another The term "conditional vendee" when so used means the person to whom such goods or chattels are so sold or delivered

CONTRACT FOR CONDITIONAL SALE.

Section 2 When personal property attached or to be attached to real property or chattels real is sold or delivered to any person on condition that it shall belong to the person purchasing or receiving it when the amount paid is a certain sum or the value of the property or any part thereof or upon the occurrance of a future event or contingency the title to it to remain in the conditional vendor until such sum or value has been paid or until the occurrence of such future event or contingency such condition in regard to the title so remaining until payment or until the occurrence of such future event or contingency shall be void as to all subsequent purchasers of such real property or chattels real for a valuable consideration mortgagees and judgment creditors without notice unless the contract with its conditions is evidenced by writing signed by the parties thereto or their respective agents and recorded as hereinafter provided

This act is not to apply to any contract concerning railroad equipment and rolling stock or to any persons firms or corporations engaged in the business of selling house furnishings

NOT TO BECOME FIXTURES

Section 3 Every such contract for the conditional sale of any goods or chattels attached or to be attached to any real property or chattels real shall be void as against subsequent bona fide purchasers or encumbrances of such real property or chattel real without notice and as to them the sale shall be deemed absolute unless such contract shall have been recorded and indexed as herein provided before such goods or chattels are so attached or before the date of such purchase or encumbrance of such real estate or chattel real

Except as above provided said goods or chattels shall not by reason of their being attached to any real property or chattels real become an accession thereto but shall be treated as severable and subject to removal as against the conditional vendee his heirs executors administrators successors and assigns and also as against all other persons having any interest in or liens against such real property or chattels real upon the tender of a sufficient bond to all such persons holding prior interests in or liens against the same conditioned for repairing all damage caused by such severance and removal

CONTENTS OF CONTRACT

Section 4 Every such contract shall set forth clearly

A The date of the contract

B The names of the conditional vendor and the conditional vendee

C A description of the chattels by name or otherwise sufficient to identify them

D A statement of the conditions upon which the conditional sale is based

E The amount of the purchase price that is the certain sum or value to be paid before title is to pass and when payable or due

F A description sufficient for identification and location of such real property or chattels real

The contract shall be signed by the conditional vendor and the conditional vendee or their respective agents and shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the conditional vendor his agent or attorney to the effect that it is an existing bona fide contract and showing the amount of the purchase price remaining unpaid and when payable or due as well as all other of the said conditions which remain unperformed

RECORDING PLACE—TIME

Section 5 Such contracts or all of the terms required by section four hereof shall be recorded and shall be notice from the date of such recording in the miscellaneous docket and indexed in the judgment index the name of the conditional vendee in the column of defendants and the name of the conditional vendor in the column of plaintiffs in the prothonotary's office of the county wherein such real property or chattels real is situate

EFFECT OF RECORDING

Section 6 Every such contract hereafter recorded pursuant to the provisions of this act shall be valid against the creditors of the conditional vendee and against his subsequent purchasers mortgagees or judgment creditors from the time of the recording thereof until the same be cancelled of record in the manner now provided by law for cancelling judgments

PENALTY FOR NOT DISCHARGING

Section 7 If a conditional vendor assignee or the executor or administrator of either after the title to such goods or chattels shall have passed to the conditional vendee either before or after breach of the conditions does not within ten days after being thereto requested and after tender of reasonable charges discharge such lien as provided herein he shall forfeit to the person entitled to redeem the sum of ten dollars and damages occasioned thereby to be recovered as debts of like amount are by law recoverable

VENDOR'S RIGHTS.

Section 8 Upon the breach of the said conditions or any of them by the conditional vendee the conditional vendor may after five days' written notice to the conditional vendee his agent or attorney of his intention so to do (unless the provisions of said contract are before complied with) repossess himself of the property so conditionally sold or delivered but the same is not to be taken out of the county in which it then is within fifty days after such taking

Said notice shall name the amount due and owing on said contract and shall be served personally upon the conditional vendee or his successor in interest if he is within the county where the sale is to be held and if not within such county or he cannot be found therein such notice must be mailed to him at his last known place of residence

Should the conditional vendee demand it by written notice properly served on the conditional vendor his agent or attorney within ten days after such taking it shall be the duty of the conditional vendor his agent or attorney after thirty days and not more than forty days after such taking to cause such property to be exposed at public sale at a convenient place in the county where located after giving notice by publication once a week for three successive weeks in one newspaper published in the county and by at least ten printed or written hand bills posted in public and conspicuous places in the vicinity where the sale is to take place

At such sale the conditional vendor may become the purchaser if he is the highest and best bidder

The proceeds of the sale shall be distributed first to the costs and expenses incident to the sale secondly to the debt secured and lastly the surplus if any shall be paid over to the conditional vendee his executors administrators or assigns any time before sale had the conditional vendee or his successors in interest shall have the right to redeem said property by complying with the terms of such contract and paying the legal costs then accrued as herein provided

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill does not apply to personal property generally but only to property attached or to be attached to real estate; in other words, all big machinery. For instance, in the City of York we have a big ice machine plant and big water wheel plant. This machinery runs into the thousands of dollars and is attached to real estate. Now this bill merely defines the rights of the purchaser and the rights of the buyer. It preserves the rights of the purchaser and the rights of the buyer when machinery attached or to be attached to real estate is sold. In pracically every State in the Union there is a law of this character on the statute books. In Pennsylvania the law relative to a matter of this kind is very much confused and very frequently results in great loss both to the seller and buyer of machinery subject to the provisions of this act.

I believe that all the manufacturers and all the purchasers of property of this kind are heartily in favor of this measure and I therefore ask for it the support of the House at this time.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time from the third reading postponed calendar, on page 19, House Bill No. 1654 (Senate Bill No. 711), File Folio 3347.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1654 (Senate Bill No. 711), entitled:

An Act relating to motion-picture films reels or steropticon views or slides providing a system of examination approval and regulation thereof and of the banners posters and other-like advertising matter used in connection therewith creating the Board of Censors and providing penalties for the violation of this act

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was under consideration last evening, I was in doubt about the fees for the examination of the motion picture films being sufficient to meet the salary and the expenses of the Board of Censors, but the information I am now in possession of convinces me that the Governor and the Attorney General are satisfied that the Board will, under the provisions of the bill, be more than self-sustaining, which satisfies me and I shall vote "Aye."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. HUBLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HUBLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, line 9, by inserting after the word "Courts" the following: "approved the ninth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven"

Amend section 1, line 27, by striking out the brackets

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time. Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill, as amended, was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 19 of to-day's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed, House Bill No. 816, Senate Bill No. 116.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 816 (Senate No. 116), entitled:

An Act to exempt from the payment of inheritance taxes bequests and devices to institutions of purely public charity

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill which was under consideration last night and was then placed upon the postponed calendar. There was some question last night as to how much the passage of this bill would deplete the State revenue. At the Auditor-General's office this morning I was advised that for the year 1914 there was collected from this source over two million five hundred thousand dollars and as near as they can estimate between eight hundred thousand and one million dollars came from bequests made to purely charitable institutions.

BILL STRICKEN FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 797, as follows:

An Act authorizing and regulating the employment of convicts and prisoners on the public highways

DEFINITIONS

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That as used in this act the term "jail" means penitentiary jail prison or workhouse

Section 11 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a few moments of your time in attempting to explain this bill. You have probably ascertained that this is a bill of similar nature to the ones that were passed yesterday. This bill authorizes and regulates the employment of convicts and prisoners on the public highways. The bill defines very clearly what is meant by the public highway and jail and warden or a prison. The bill also provides the method in which prisoners of any jail or penitentiary may be detailed for work on the public roads. This bill also provides that every prisoner so detailed for work on the public roads shall receive, as compensation for his services, the sum of 25 cents a day. The prisoners so detailed are not compelled to go on the public roads for work and they go there under their own volition and they are not compelled to wear stripes or to be punished for any infractions of the rules. They are to receive no extra sentence, only to be returned to the prison from whence they were taken and there to obey the prison rules. This bill is a bill that has been tried out in about ten of our western states. Colorado has tried it. Up to a few years ago I had the report of that State and they had completed at that time over one thousand miles of roads. The State of Nevada had built several hundred miles of public roads with prison labor. In conversation with one of the convicts I was informed in Nevada that during the whole period of time only three men had attempted to escape from the convict camp. The honor system prevails and they are put upon their honor which this system provides, together with the fact that the warden shall make all the arrangements for the governing of the convicts. I have taken this matter up with officials of our State and with wardens of penitentiaries and they have recommended this bill; the State Grange has recommended this bill; the agricultural organizations of our State have recommended it and I have had numerous recommendations from the labor organizations. I feel that this is a good bill and I think that these men who by some misfortune are confined within the dead walls of the penitentiary should be given a chance that they might breath the free air that God has given to them. I can see no reason in this age where Pennsylvania is making every effort to build and repair our public roads why these men should not be taken upon the public roads and help to build them and bear this expense.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, no man desires more than I do to see the roads of Pennsylvania in good shape, but if Pennsylvania's roads are to be improved by putting your convicts on the roads to the utter disregard of the laboring men of Pennsylvania, who live decent and respectable lives and try to earn a living for their families, then I hope Pennsylvania stays in the mud. A mere pittance of twenty-five cents a day to a man who happens to be in jail for crime should not be recognized. This will put many of our laboring men out of work. If the Highway Commissioner would exercise his right under this bill, hundreds and hundreds of men would be put out of work in Pennsylvania who now receive $1.50 and two dollars a day, and this would be for the benefit of a few men who are put in jail and the others are disregarded. I believe that Pennsylvania is big enough and broad enough and rich enough to have decent laborers on her roads. I have no fault to find with the system which would give to the prisoner more sunshine, but I say that it is high time that we consider somebody else; it is high time that we consider the honest laborer who toils and not have all our consideration for some man who on the highway knocks down his brother man, or for somebody who in the middle of the night sneaks in and cuts the throat of some little boy or some little girl. I protest against this measure and I ask that House to vote it down.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, permit me to say that if this bill sould become a law, it would in no way affect the laborer of this State. This bill provides specifically that no labor coming from the convicts shall in any interfere where it might deprive a single individual of anything, or interfere with the skilled laborer. Skilled labor is deprived from taking any part in the work that we are trying to bring about here in these provisions. I want to say to you here sir, that I do not believe that it can bring disgrace upon a single individual or upon the State to allow these unfortunate to go forth and help sustain themselves by the way of working out a just compensation upon our public roads. I want to go further and say in explanation that the money so earned is to be used for the maintenance of the dependent wife or children of those who may be left behind. If there are none, then that amount is to be left placed in a fund from which it is turned over to that convict when he leaves the prison walls. When he steps down to the earth a free man he does not have to go out and commit a crime or a depredation in order that he may live and exist. I say to you, sir, there has not been a more just measure, a more equitable bill presented to this House during this session, and for that reason, sir, I am going to ask this House to help sustain this bill and place it upon our statute books.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the House to the argument of the gentleman from Schuylkill, that a large portion of the rough work of this State is performed by aliens and not by naturalized foreigners or by Americans. Nearly all the sewer work, and the public work and the road work of the State generally is performed by aliens. If this is done, that is the first place that it will strike, and it seems to me that the welfare of the convicts would be enhanced by the passage of this measure, and for that reason, the House ought to vote aye.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say a word in favor of this bill. We have wrestled here for some time over the question of finance, to get money to build public roads, and establish State Highways. Here is a remedy. Here is a partial solution of this trouble, that will relieve the Governor and will relieve this Legislature of some of its trouble to raise money. This system proposed by this bill is not a new thing. It has been tried in different parts of the country, notably in North Carolina, where they have miles and miles and miles of good roads made by the prisoners. I say they are good roads; they are made very cheap and they are better roads than are made in Pennsylvania at twelve to twenty thousand dollars per mile. They stand more travel, are better for travelling on; they are in better condition, and it is done by prisoners. I say it will save the State of Pennsylvania a large amount of revenue; it will also save the taxpayers of the districts, because these roads will pass through different parts of the country and will make the roads that would otherwise have to be made by the districts. It is not only a matter of economy and a matter of benefit for the State and for the public and for the highways but it is a benefit to the prisoners themselves. The gentleman from Schuylkill, says we do not take care of those fellows who go around and rob people's houses and cut their throats. Well, this is a measure of protection, This is a remedy for those things. Those prisoners who are kept in a prison, what do they do? They plot mischief. A man goes into a jail comparatively an innocent man, —he comes out full of iniquity and full of plans to do ugly work, and to do it in a sharper way than he had done it before. These prisoners are benefitted by the work, benefitted physically, benefitted morally, and benefitted mentally. I have heard them talk about it. One tall fine looking young man from Tenneesee got into North Carolina and he got into some trouble, and they put him on the highway to work, and they work them hard. Those prisoners do more work in a day than I ever saw a man on the highway do in Pennsylvania. Well, this young man, he was working there from sunrise in the morning till sundown at night. He worked hard. Tossed more dirt than three men on our highways do. He said, "this is just the best thing that could have happened; a fellow gets into this thing once, he will never want to get in again."

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Greene, Mr. Kuhn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KUHN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how much this bill provides that a laborer shall be paid for a day's work.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, Twenty-five cents.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how much a free man is entitled to for the same kind of work.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker. I could not tell that, but I should judge about a dollar and a quarter to a dollar and a half a day.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, then I desire to ask the gentleman if he does not think that this is unfair competition with the free laborers who have families to support?

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see, sir where it can be in any way. Every prisoner is provided with food, clothing, and shelter. Very frequently the laborer who does a day's work for one dollar and twenty-five cents after he has provided himself with food, and sugar and clothing, has very little left.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Greene, Mr. Kuhn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. Kuhn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KUHN. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman, since he has mentioned that he has received letters from labor organizations in favor of this bill, to tell me from what labor organizations or from whom he has received these letters, if he will be kind enough to tell me.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman must have misunderstood me. I stated that I had received letters from laboring people that they were favorable to the bill. I have a number of letters from people in the western part of Pennsylvania, laboring people, and men who belong to labor organizations, favoring and agreeing that this bill should be passed. I could not give the gentleman names because I do not have my mail here.

Mr. MAURER. I should like to ask the gentleman another question. Are these letters from the officials of organizations or from individuals?

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, they were not from officials of organizations.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to say anything on this bill. I would not have done so had not the question arisen as to the opposition of labor organization. I have the honor to represent various labor organizations in this State and I feel it my duty to inform the members of this House that labor organizations have been very much in opposition to this kind of legislation. Personally, I feel that if this bill, if enacted into a law, will come into criminal competition with free labor. You know my position, and I want you to understand the position of organized labor as organized labor.

Mr. PHILLIPS. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to state what labor organizations have expressed themselves as against the passage of this bill and why. He stated that he had the honor of being the leader of several organizations and I would like to know what they are and how they are affected.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman in this way. This particular bill has not been, to my knowledge, objected to by any labor organization, but in this very building down in the House caucus room, last December, the State Federation of Labor held a legislative conference which I presided over at that time. At that conference this very question arose as to what our position should be on the question of having convicts work on the public highway, and we had that question under discussion for at least an hour and it was finally disposed of by being objected to by the delegations present at that conference. I might further add that this question in the years past was much in the minds of organized labor and in each case it has received a negative recommendation on the part of the delegates who considered the proposition on account of coming into competition with free labor. Personally I do not believe society should be guilty of parading a man's disgrace before the eyes of the public,—that is my private opinion. We have a right to do what we can for the unfortunate but we should consider the welfare of his wife and children, his relative and his friends before we take this unfortunate out where the public can see him constantly and not forget his disgrace.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, now as I understand it we are at liberty so far as the labor organizations are concerned to draw our own conclusions as to whether this bill interferes with the organized labor of the State of Pennsylvania. It has been stated that the men who work on State roads in Pennsylvania would take away from some laboring man a chance to have a job. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I appeal to your personal knowledge that there are enough roads in Pennsylvania for every man to work on. We need the good roads. This does not take a cent away from the laboring man. We need more men on our public roads. We put a man in the penitentiary for some crime and he sits in there for six or eight months in idleness and he courts that and wants to get in a place of that kind. You say to this man you have got to go out and on the roads of Pennsylvania and help build them. He is not usually anxious to get there. Gentlemen, I ask you in all fairness to vote for this bill. We are not opposed to organized labor, but we are trying to build up the roads of the State of Pennsylvania. This surely is a fair measure.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, the antiquated idea in regard to a man who unfortunately has been incarcerated in a penal institution was to put the "mark of Cain upon his brow" and also the "scarlet letter." We are now getting more progressive. Society has seen the error of its way and the desire of society is to advance that unit, to try and make this business self-supporting, to show him by means of labor that this individual can come back to society at the expiration of his term and be a useful citizen. I say here on the floor of this House, as the friend of labor, that good intending labor is not against this class of legislation. I want to say that in the City of Holmesburg you will find men incarcerated in the House of Correction and in the County Prison, each day fixing the roads. I will say further, that it is a difficult matter to get self-respecting American citizens to do this class of work. I want to say to the gentlemen of the House that this is a class of legislation that we should be proud of. We should be proud of the sponsor of this bill that he thought out legislation of this character. I want to say that my friend from Berks is not voicing the sentiments of the respectable labor element in this community or elsewhere.

RESOLUTION NO. 18.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Senate Resolution No. 18, File Folio 8249.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 18.

For the appointment of a commission to investigate and report to the next session of the Legislature all matters pertaining to the construction of a ship canal across the State of New Jersey and connecting the port of Philadelphia with the Atlantic Ocean and making an appropriation to meet the expenses of said commission

Whereas The suggestion has been made by members of the Board of Strategy of the Navy Department of the United States that a ship canal across New Jersey connecting the port of Philadelphia with the Atlantic Ocean would make the Philadelphia Navy Yard the greatest naval station in the world and

Whereas Such a ship canal of the width and depth of the Panama Canal would increase greatly the commercial and manufacturing prosperity of the State of Pennsylvania therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs) That a committee of six members of the General Assembly be appointed three to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House of Representatives to investigate and to rport at the next session of the General Assembly their findings upon the following questions

1 The feasibility and advisability of a ship canal across New Jersey
2 The route of such a canal
3 The total cost of its construction
4 The share that should be borne by the State of Pennsylvania provided that the actual expenses incurred by the committee in this investigation shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) which shall be provided for in the general appropriation bill

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate Bill No. 160 (House Bill No. 1624), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of article eight section six of article eight rule one of article twelve rule thirty-six of article twelve section four of article thirteen section eight of article seventeen and article eighteen of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith" approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one as said act now stands as heretofore amended by acts of Assembly approved on the twentieth day of April eighteen hundred and ninety-nine (Pamphlet Laws sixty-five) the eighth day of June one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and thirty-five) the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and three (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and fifty-nine) the third day of May one thousand nine hundred and five (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and sixty-three) the third day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and twenty) and the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and twenty) be recommitted to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the nays had it.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, the reason for asking to have this bill recommitted is that there are ten errors in the printing of the bill. It was suggested from the transcribing room that they could be corrected to advantage in the committee and that it would be difficult to correct them on the floor of the House. In addition to that the bituminous code has passed the Senate and has come to the Committee of the House.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. A. C. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. This matter is not before the House. The Chair has rendered his decision.

The SPEAKER. The Chair did not render his decision. He said "The Nays appear to have it."

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I call for a division.

Whereupon, a division was taken, 46 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 60 in the negative, the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 554, File Folio 5037, entitled:

An Act to provide a standard form of policy contract to be issued by fire insurance companies transacting business in Pennsylvania designating the provisions thereof exempting certain policies and prescribing penalties for any violations

be made a special order on Final Passage for Tuesday, May 11th, at 12:00 o'clock.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1096 (Senate Bill No. 291), as follows:

An Act to protect the public health and welfare by regulating the employment of females in hotels boarding houses and restaurants with respect to their hours of labor and the conditions of their employment by establishing certain sanitary regulations in which they work by requiring certain notices to be posted by providing for the enforcement of this act by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry and others and prescribing penalties for violation thereof and by repealing all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemby met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no female shall be employed or permitted to work inor in connection with any hotel boarding house or restaurant more than sixty-three hours in any one week or more than ten hours in any one day The term "week" when used in this act shall mean any seven consecutive days and the term "day" shall mean any twenty-four consecutive hours

Section 3 No female shall be employed or permitted to work for more than six hours continuously in or in connection with any hotel boarding house or restaurant without an interval of at least forty-five minutes and no period of less than forty-five minutes shall be deemed to interrupt a continuous period of work Provided That whenever any female shall be employed or permitted to work in or in connection with any hotel boarding house or restaurant for less than eight hours in any one day the interval between working periods may be reduced to not less than thirty minutes

Section 4 Every person employing or permitting females to work in any hotel boarding house or restaurant shall provide suitable wash and dressing-rooms and water-closets or privies for their use so located as to be accessible to such females In any hotels boarding house or restaurant in which males and females shall be employed or permitted to work separate wash and dressing-rooms and water-closets or privies shall be provided for each sex and such wash and dressing-rooms and water-closets or privies shall be entirely separate from those provided for the other sex All water-closets or privies shall be properly lighted and shall be separated from the rooms in which employes shall be permitted to work by partitions extending from floor to ceiling and the compartments containing such water-closets or privies shall have sufficient direct outside ventilation by window or other means All water-closets or privies shall at all times be kept clean sanitary and free from obscene writing or marking

Section 5 Every person employing or permitting any female to work in any hotel boarding house or restaurant shall keep posted in a conspicuous place a printed abstract of the provisions of this act and a schedule of the hours of labor of such female

Section 6 No person shall hinder or delay the Commissioner of Labor and Industry or any of his deputies in the performance of his duties in the enforcement of this act or refuse to admit or lock out any inspector from any place while females are employed therein and which said inspector shall be authorized to inspect or refuse to give any inspector information required for the proper enforcement of this act

Section 7 It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry and his deputies to enforce all the provisions of this act They shall visit and inspect hotels boarding houses and restaurants and shall have power at any reasonable time to visit and inspect any hotel boarding house or restaurant in or in connection with which any female shall be employed or permitted to work They shall investigate all complaints of violations of this act received by them and shall institute prosecutions for violations of the provisions thereof

Section 8 All prosecutions for violation of this act shall be instituted by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry or his deputy before a magistrate alderman or justice of the peace who shall issue a summons commanding the person charged with the violation of the act to appear within not less than five nor more than eight days Upon conviction after hearing the penalties in this act shall be imposed and shall be final unless an appeal be taken to the court of proper jurisdiction within twenty days after the imposition of the penalties aforesaid in the manner already provided by law in appeals from penalties

Section 9 Any person who whether by himself or for another or through an agent servant or foreman shall violate any provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor Upon conviction for a wilful violation of any provision of this act he shall be punished for the first offense by a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars for a second or subsequent offense by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars or more than one hundred dollars at the discretion of the court and whenever any person shall have been notified by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry or his deputy or by the service of a summons in a prosecution that he is violating such provision he shall be punished by like penalties in addition for each and every day that such violation shall have continued after such notification

Section 10 All fines imposed and collected for any violation of this act shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Labor and Industry who shall pay the same into the office of the State Treasurer for the use of the Commonwealth

Section 11. This act shall not apply to establishments maintained or conducted by religious, charitable, and educational institutions.

Section 12 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill aims to amend the Woman's Labor Bill. The title of the bill says, "An Act to protect the public health and welfare by regulating the employment of females in hotels, boarding houses and restaurants with respect to their hours of labor and the conditions of their employement." This bill, the title of it, would lead one to believe that it aimed to better or improve the conditions of women who work in hotels, boarding houses and restaurants, but when you read the bill, the bill provides that the working week of a woman in a hotel, restaurant or boarding house shall be 63 hours a week and no more than 7 days in any one week. I do not see how they are going to make her work any more than that. They are very modest, they want all of that week there is. Seven days a week in any one week and 63 hours a week total! It may be of interest to some of you to know that the present labor law affecting women workers provides that a working week shall consist of 54 hours and six days in any one week. The law that prevailed prior to 1848 was no more drastic, than this one, proposed in this bill. In 1848 a law was enacted providing that 60 hours should constitute a week's work for women workers in the State. This act would take us back to the dark ages, as it were, back beyond the period of 1848, but it only provides, understand, that this particular bill that is before us to-night shall apply to women workers in hotels, restaurants and boarding houses. It provides further that if any of these employers of women in any of these establishments violate this particular act they shall be subject to a fine at no time, under no conditions, to exceed one hundred dollars. The other law which to-day still exists and which affects manufacturers employing women and merchants employing women and all other classes of employment which employ women, the provision therein is that anyone violating that particular part of the act, which means 54 hours a week and six days a week shall be subject to two hundred dollars fine and imprisonment if necessary if the crime warrants conviction. Now hotel keepers say they only want one hundred dollars fine and no penalty of imprisonment on conviction. I fail to understand why these people should be picked out as pets, or the pets of society, what particular benefit or greater benefit are they to the Commonwealth than the employers of women in our industries? Why this discrimination in favor of the hotel people and restaurant keepers, who in the main pay very little for their hired help; whose hired help is in the main supported by tips and every one of us here knows that is the fact, and it is these people they are working seven days a week? If this bill should pass and stand the scrutiny of the courts which it will not, it in the first place is glaringly unconstitutional and would not stand in any court I am sure, yet why pass an act that is so glaringly in contradiction with the Constitution? Why punish the Commonwealth with long court proceedings on something that is so glaring as this by passing it. Gentlemen, in conclusion, I merely want to say this: Some speakers may get up here to-night who favor this bill and tell you that the working women want it. Now I am here to tell you that I am in pretty close touch with the working women of this State and know them perhaps better than most of us. I have not had a single woman employed in a single hotel, restaurant or boarding house to tell me that she was opposed to the present law which provides for 54 hours and six days a week. Not a single woman has told me she liked to work more than this. I tell you gentlemen if any one takes the floor after I am through and tries to show you what a benefit it will be to the poor woman who would like to work seven days a week. I am here to tell you that no woman or man wants to work seven days a week. Such a creature needs a caretaker. There is something wrong with him and it is the duty of society to take care of such unfortunates. I have had plenty of women to write me and come to my office, and to meet me in the various organizations that I visit throughout the State, and express their thanks and their gratification to the Legislature for passing the Act of 1913 giving them a chance to live, giving them a chance to be on earth like they should have.

What kind of an existence does any one have who must work every day, Sundays and holidays, from one end of the year to the other? No time for social recreations; no time for physical or mental development on the level but working like the galley slave. Are we going, at this age, in the twentieth century, to pass an act like that? I don't believe you will, gentlemen.

I have attended the commission that sat in Pittsburgh, that sat in Philadelphia, and that sat in Harrisburg. We have had members of the Department of Labor and Industry and hotel men attend those hearings. I have been there when the hotel men were there and the park men and the restaurant keepers and when this bill came in it was a surprise to me because when this commission sat in Pittsburgh and in Philadelphia the hotel men said that in the beginning it had worked a hardship, but they had arranged their affairs so that they felt satisfied they can get along. They may show you to-night that at the Bellevue-Stratford it has cost them a couple of thousand dollars a year more in wages. If it has, who pays it? The patrons of that hotel pay that and so does any man who wants to pay the price to stop at the Bellevue-Stratford and have servants wait on him who work seven days in the week at the price he pays for his accommodation.

Now Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I hope that you will vote this bill down and let the women enjoy the present act, which provides for six days a week and fifty-four hours a week. Sometime ago I had a fish bill in this House legalizing fishing on Sunday, and some of the gentlemen said: No; that is ungodly; that is unchristian-like; that conflicts with the Ten Commondments to have such an act passed, they said, because the sabbath day thou shalt keep holy; and yet here is a bill by the hotel men asking us that the women shall not keep the sabbath. Down with it.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is unnecessary for me to remind this Assembly that I have stood by the laboring men in my two terms of experience in this House. I come from a district where perhaps eighty-five to ninety per cent. of my constituents belong to some of the labor unions and I am proud of the fact that I have voted with them on every occasion in my two terms in this House; in fact, I am attorney for a good many of them.

Now, last session, after I got home from this Assembly, I was accosted by some of the hotel keepers and by some of the help where I eat my meals and particularly in one hotel where I go steadily to get my dinners. One of the ladies who has been in charge of the dining-room service for over thirteen years, when I stopped in that hotel on week-ends would ask me how this bill was getting on; and every one of those young women, many of them coming out of very fine families, whenever they waited on me would ask me how this bill is getting on; and they have gone so far from the other hotels as to come into the office and ask about it. Now I have the greatest desire to protect the children. I have voted for all of the Child Labor bills. I have voted for the Workmen's Compensation bills; but I tell you that it is impossible to frame any sort of legislation so ironclad that we must not give or take in any line of industry. It cannot be done. It will in the end, if we hew strictly to the line, work irreparable injury to certain classes of people. Why, I have had some of that kind of help which I spoke about come to me and tell me that there were certain occasions when they desired to work a few hours over time, and, by the way, here is a little illustration. There were six young ladies in one dining-room service in the City of Erie—I am giving this as a practical illustration, because I have talked with them and know the facts. One young woman became ill and was sent to the hospital. Immediately the other five went to the proprietor of the hotel and asked for permission that they might take relays, one at a time, and work for this young woman and fill her position so that she might hold her job when she became better and could come back. An inspector from the Department of Labor and Industry here was in Erie at the time and he happened to come to the hotel and was consulted. Those ladies were all of mature age. I do not say twenty-one years of age, but all were large girls from eighteen to nineteen, or at least seventeen years of age, and the head waitress and the proprietor and this inspector from the Department of Labor were obliged to refuse them that privilege. The proprietor had to go out and advertise in the newspaper for some one to come in to take this young woman's place. Now in the case of the small summer resorts which are only open for a few months a year, much of the female help that comes to those summer resorts, whether they come as waitresses or chambermaids or cooks or dish washers or anything you may term it, go out there, nine out of ten, for a little vacation, and they earn their livelihood and they earn their keep at the hotels and at nearly all of these boarding places, working only a few hours a day, to give themselves this recreation. I was born on a farm and you hear people speaking about being brought up in the country. I have seen the time when I was delighted if I had the opportunity by a little extra work and overtime to make enough to get through boarding school, and I know the time when I worked twelve hours a day for fifty cents a day and I think I have as much muscular energy in my body now as if I sat around and tried to shirk work a part of the time. I do not say that we should compel the children to be at the mercy of a manufacturer. There are some industries on which we need legislation. The Child Labor Bill of my friend, Mr. Cox, was a meritorious measure, and I supported it and I will support it if it be vetoed, but I know it will not. I will support, so long as I am in this Assembly, that kind of legislation, and vote for the labor union and the men that toil and the women that toil. This is the first time in my two years here that I have arisen in my place to take issue with some of the people who are back of the opposition against this bill. The hotel proprietors are as anxious to protect their help and to have efficient servants and give the people something for their money, as we are to protect the girl who works in the factory or shop, and, as I say, I don't want to accuse any one of you, but I have given this bill some little consideration, and, honestly, sir, I think that we ought to pass it.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I feel that I should say something on this bill. It is a meritorious bill. I am in position to tell you the facts as a commercial salesman. All over this State the hotel people tell us, and the women and the ladies of the dining-room, that they want this bill. I have been in charge of a summer resort in the summer time for the last few years employing about thirty-five help and they are off over three hours in the forenoon and three hours in the afternoon, but the law as it stands today says six days, and when the day comes which is known as the Sabbath day, you cannot get extra help, and these same ladies who come there for the summer want to and ask to do the work on that Sabbath day, which is the seventh day. Now, what are we going to do? Get extra help? Impossible. Teherefore, this bill is no hardship at all upon this kind of help, and I hope that you will pass this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 746, as follows:

An Act supplementary to an act entitled "An Act defining the powers of the several courts of quarter sessions of the peace within the Commonwealth with reference to the care treatment and control of dependent neglected incorrigible and delinquent children under the age of sixteen years and providing for the means in which such power may be exercised" approved the twenty-third day of April one thousand nine hundred and three Pamphlet Laws page two hundred and seventy-four prohibiting magistrates aldermen or justices of the peace from sentencing or committing for trial for any offenses dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent children under the age of sixteen years and providing for the disposition of such children by the juvenile courts providing that the jurisdiction of such courts over children committed by them shall continue notwithstanding such children may remove or be removed from the territorial limits of such courts authorizing the said courts to commit such children in proper cases to the custody of their mothers to be maintained in their respective homes and providing for the payment of the cost of such maintenance by the proper county prescribing the duties of probation officers in such cases and authorizing the several juvenile courts to employ medical experts in certain cases

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no magistrate alderman or justice of the peace shall sentence commit or hold for trial any dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent child under the age of sixteen years but in all cases in which any such child shall be charged with any offense before such magistrate alderman or justice of the peace he shall give such child into the custody of a probation officer of the proper juvenile court the duty of which officer shall be to thereupon petition the said court setting forth the facts in the case whereupon such court shall take such action agreeably to existing law as it deems proper and if upon the hearing such court shall be of the opinion that the offence charged is of such a character that the case of the delinquent should be disposed of by a court of criminal jurisdiction it shall be the duty of such court to return same to the care of the court of quarter sessions and the delinquent proceeded against as in other cases in which there is a binding over to said court by committing magistrates

Section 2 Whenever the jurisdiction of a juvenile court shall attach to any dependent neglected incorrigible or delinquent child the said jurisdiction shall continue notwithstanding that the child may remove or be removed from the territorial limits of the court with the same force and effect and for the same length of time as if the said child had continued to reside within the said territorial limits

Section 3 Whenever any dependent child under the age of sixteen years brought before any juvenile court shall have a mother maintaining a home the court may in its discretion commit such child to the custody of its mother under the supervision of said court and make an order upon the proper county for such sum for its maintenance payable to the mother as the court may direct which order shall thereupon be paid by the said county unless such county shall have a mothers' pension fund in operation in which case the court shall refer the dependent child for the consideration of the trustees of the mothers pension fund of said county In all such cases such mother shall make a monthly report of the condition and behavior of such child to a probation officer of such court in such form as the court may prescribe which officer shall make a report to the court once in three months upon a form similarly prescribed

Section 4 Whenever there is any question in the mind of the court as to whether or not a child brought before a juvenile court is defective the said court may appoint a medical expert to examine the child and report whether it is in fact defective or not the expense of which examination and report shall be paid by the proper county on the order of said court

On the question?
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1282, as follows :

An Act amending section six hundred twenty-seven of an act entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" approved the eighteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred eleven providing that the board of school directors of any district shall permit the use of school grounds and buildings for civic social recreational and other purposes under certain conditions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section six hundred twenty-seven of an act entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and nine) which reads as follows

(Section 627) The board of school directors of any district may permit the use of its school grounds and buildings for social recreation and other proper purposes under such rules and regulations as the board may adopt and shall make such arrangements with any city borough or township authorities for the improvement care protection and maintenance of school buildings and grounds for school park play or other recreation purposes as it may see proper and any board of school directors may make such arrangements as it may see proper with any association or individual for the temporary use of school property for schools playgrounds social recreation or other proper educational purposes" shall be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 627 The board of school directors of any district shall permit the use of its school grounds and buildings for civic social recreation and other proper purposes under such rules and regulations as the board may adopt whenever any ten (10) citizens who are property owners and residents of the district may petition and shall make such arrangements with any city borough or township authorities for the improvement care protection and maintenance of school buildings grounds for school park play or other recreation purposes as shall seem proper and any board of school directors shall make such arrangements as it may seem proper with any association or individual for the temporary use of school property for schools playgrounds civic recreation or other proper educational purposes

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, as far I have observed in the examination of this bill the only change from the code is putting the word "shall" for the word "may" that the Board of School Directors shall give the school house or the school grounds to those demanding it. Whereas, in the code it is they "may" give the school house or the school grounds to people requesting it. It appears to me that this bill would take out of the hands of the School Board that which ought to remain in their hands. They are the custodians of the school property; they are held responsible by the people for the property put in their care and this property ought to remain under their control. If the word "shall" is put in it for the word "may" the people, a part of the people, a handfull of people can over-rule the board and acquire the school building, grounds or property for any purpose they may wish. As the code is now, while these people may request the use of the school property, it is up to the board to decide and say whether it is to the best interests of the schools and the public that such request be granted or not. I say the property ought to remain in the hands and under the control of the School Board and not taken out of their hands and put into the hands of a few irresponsible people.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that my friend from York is laboring under a slight misapprehension with respect to this bill. It is true that the bill does say that the School Directors "shall" permit the use of the school grounds and buildings, but it also says "It shall be permitted for civic, social recreation purposes," and it also provides that it "shall be used under the proper rules and regulations as the board may prescribe." Further, it says, "Whenever ten citizens who are property owners and residents of the district shall make petition." It seems to me when you are putting these restrictions around it that it is not quite proper to say that it is to be used by a lot of irresponsible people who take the control of the property away from the directors. The purpose of the bill is to have the use of the school buildings—of course, I am more familiar with conditions in Philadelphia than any place else—but the object is that the buildings be used for recreation purposes. One of the greatest difficulties that social workers find is in getting young men and young women away from saloons and dancing clubs as there is nothing in our social system to take its place. This bill is presented to help them correct this evil. I submit to you that the use of the school property and buildings for this purpose is perfectly proper and the regulations imposed by this bill render it practically impossible for the right to be abused.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 297, File Folio 4879 on page 17 of today's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 297, entitled:

An Act to regulate the hours of employment of signalmen towermen gatemen agents train despatchers telegraphers or telephone operators in signal towers or public railroad stations of any railroad operated by steam electricity or other motive power in this State and providing for compensation for extra service performed by such employes

On the question?

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire before the bill is agreed to on third reading, to raise the point of constitutionality.

This bill provides a law for allowing two days' rest for certain classes of labor. Now if it is constitutional it will make a difference in the vote in this House. That question ought to be discussed somewhat, and I raise the question that it violates Section 7 of Article Three, being class legislation, which provides that there shall be no act passed "regulating labor trade, mining or manufacturing." This appears to violate that section and I rise to the question of the constitutionality of this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order is well taken. However it being a constitutional point of order the Chair will submit it to the House.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, as sponsor of this bill by request, I can only say to you as a member of the Railroad Committee that we gave this bill a public hearing and both sides were heard, the men on one side and the railroads on the other, and the Committee submitted it to you for your consideration.

On the question?

Will the House sustain the point of order raised by the gentleman from Jefferson as to the constitutionality of the bill?

The point of order was sustained and the bill dropped.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1284, as follows:

An Act providing for the appointment of a recreational and educational inquiry commission for the studying investigating and reporting with recommendations upon the recreational and educational conditions and needs of the children in farming districts mining and manufacturing towns defining its duties and making an appropriation therefor

CREATION

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That a commission shall be appointed for the purpose of studying investigating and reporting upon the recreational and educational conditions and needs of the children in the farming districts mining and manufacturing towns and shall be known as the recreational and educational inquiry commission

MEMBERS AND APPOINTMENTS

Section 2 The said commission shall consist of five (5) persons One (1) member of the Senate who shall be appointed by the President of the Senate one (1) member of the House who shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House and three (3) other persons one (1) of whom shall be a woman who shall be appointed by the Governor The commission shall be appointed promptly and shall serve without compensation

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. BEYER. I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 1055, File Folio 6571, on page eighteen of today's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1055, entitled:

An Act continuing the work of the commission to consider the revision and amendment of the penal laws of Pennsylvania and making an appropriation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill simply continues the commission appointed at the last session of the legislature to consider the revision and amendment of the penal laws of this Commonwealth. It is the same subject matter that our friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Graham, discussed last evening. The House voted almost unanimously on the bills then before us providing for certain kinds of labor to be done by inmates of our penal institutions. The bill now before you continues that commission which recommended that line of work. The time that they have had to work in has been very short, and it is hoped that they will be permitted to continue their labors until the next session of the legislature and recommend further legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 390, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-sixth day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven entitled "An Act granting an annuity to J. H. Pershing."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BUNGARD. Mr. Speaker, as the sponsor of this bill it is necessary for me at this time to explain the merits of the bill. However, I think that a speech on this bill is needless and unnecessary. As a special act of this Legislature in 1897 Reverend Doctor Pershing, of Greensburg, was granted an annuity of ten dollars per month, or one hundred and twenty dollars per year. Since that time he has been in the hospital three times and is at this present time in the hospital as the result of injuries received while in the line of battle.

Doctor Pershing was one of the emergency men and fought on the fields of Gettysburg during those perilous times and has helped to transfer that great battlefield from a river of blood into a paradise. Now he comes asking this Legislature to grant him an increase in that annuity from one hundred and twenty dollars to three hundred dollars a year. Doctor Pershing and his wife are unable to live on this one hundred and twenty dollars a year and in the few days that he has to live yet, I would ask that this body of gentlemen vote for this increase. He has no other pension and no other resources, therefore, gentlemen, I trust that the love of patriotism will actuate you at this time, and that you will vote favorably upon this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1206, as follows:

A supplement to an act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act providing for the establishment of a State Highway Department by the appointment of a State Highway Commissioner two Deputy State Highway Commissioners chief engineer chief draughtsman superintendents of highways and a staff of assistants and employes defining their duties and and the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department and fixing salaries of Commissioner and deputies and other appointees providing for taking over from the counties or townships of the Commonwealth certain existing public roads connecting county-seats principal cities and towns and extending to the State line describing and defining same by route numbers as the State highways of the Commonwealth providing for the improvement maintenance and repair of said State highways solely at the expense of the Commonwealth and relieving the several townships or counties from any further obligation and expense to improve or maintain the same and relieving said townships or counties of authority over same requiring boroughs and incorporated towns to maintain certain State highways wholly and in part requiring the State Highway Commissioner to make maps to be complete records thereof conferring authority on the State Highway Commissioner providing for the payment of damages in taking of property or otherwise in the improvement thereof providing for purchase or acquiring of turnpikes or toll-roads forming all or part of any State highway and procedure therein providing for work of improvement of State highways to be done by contract except where the State Highway Commissioner decides the work be done by the State providing aid by the State to counties and townships desiring the same in the improvement of township or county roads defining highways and State-aid highways providing method of application for State aid in the improvement maintenance and repair of township or county roads and prescribing the contents of township county borough or incorporated town petitions providing for percentage of cost of improvement or repairs to be paid by State county township borough or incorporated town and requiring contracts by counties townships boroughs and incorporated towns with Commonwealth governing same providing for the minimum width of State highways and State-aid highways and kind of materials to be used in the improvement providing for payment of cost of improvement and repairs providing penalty for injuring or destroying State highways making appropriations to carry out the provisions of the act and providing for the repeal of certain acts relating to Highway Department and improvement of roads and of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith and providing that existing contracts are not affected by provisions of this act"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be the duty of the State Highway Commissioner to submit to the Legislature at the beginning of each session a special report which shall contain an estimate of the amount of money which in his judgment is necessary for the adequate systematic and economical maintenance and repair of

(1) Every mile of so-called unimproved State highway for the maintenance of which the State Highway Department is responsible and the general average amount per mile needed

(2) Every mile of so-called permanently improved State highway for the maintenance of which the State Highway Department is responsible and the general average amount per mile needed for the various types of road

(3) Every mile of State-aid highway for the maintenance of which the State Highway Department is responsible the State's share of such maintenance cost and the general average amount per mile needed for the various types of road and

(4) An estimate of the amount of appropriation necessary for the next two years to pay townships the State-aid due them for township roads under the provisions of our laws governing second class townships

Section 2 The State Highway Commissioner shall also recommend to the Legislature the amount of money which in his judgment could be efficiently and economically expended during the ensuing two or more years

(1) In the construction of State-aid highways and

(2) In making preliminary improvements of a permanent character (such as re-locating widening and underdraining road reducing grades building concrete bridges and culverts et cetera) on State highways and (so-called) permanently improving State highways

Section 3 All money appropriated to the State Highway Department for State highway construction work whether from direct appropriation automobile license fees or other sources shall be equitably apportioned among the counties coming under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement in the following manner

One-third according to the proportion which the mileage of unimproved State highways of each county bears to the total mileage of unimproved State highways in the State The State Highway Commissioner shall prescribe standards and determine the number of miles of so-called permanently improved State highways in each county and the remainder shall constitute the mileage of unimproved State highways

One-third according to the proportion which the population of each county as determined by the last preceding federal census bears to the population of the counties coming under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement

One-third according to the proportion which the mileage of county and township highways of each county bears to the total mileage of county and township highways in the Commonwealth Provided however That the State Highway Commissioner shall have the authority to deduct from the total amount thus apportioned to the several counties for permanent construction work an average amount of not more than ten per centum which he may set aside in a separate fund to be used at his discretion in adjusting inequalities among the counties for aiding in the completion of certain definite stretches of State highways that he may deem essential for the proper internal development of the State as a whole for the purchase of construction machinery and equipment or for other miscellaneous purposes subject however to the general approval of the Governor

Section 4 All money appropriated to the State Highway Department for the maintenance and repair of all State highways improved and unimproved whether from direct appropriation automobile license fees or other sources shall be equitably apportioned among the counties entitled to receive it according to the fair and just needs and requirements of every mile of such State highways and such apportionments shall be held separately and used by the State Highway Department for the benefit of such county until proper provision has been made for the adequate repair and systematic all-the-year-round maintenance of every mile of State highway within such county for the maintenance of which the State Highway Department is responsible Provided however That the State Highway Commissioner shall have the authority to deduct from the total amounts thus apportioned to the several counties an average amount of not more than ten per centum which he may set aside in a separate fund which together with any unused and unneeded balances remaining from amounts apportioned to any county may be used if necessary in whole or i npart at his discretion for the purchase of maintenance machinery and equipment for extraordinary repairs made necessary by floods storms et cetera and for other unforseen contingencies Provided further however That in the repair or resurfacing of any so-called permanently improved State highway in any county involving an expenditure per mile of an amount in excess of thirty per centum of the original cost of the road per mile such amount in excess of thirty per centum shall be charged to and paid out of any appropriation apportioned to such county for permanent construction work on State highways as hereinbefore provided for

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 617, entitled:

An Act to establish as a "State Highway" a certain section of public road in Adams county

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Rudisill, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman to explain how it occurs that this one particular bill creating a new State highway, or a section of a new State Highway, is on the calendar here to the exclusion of any other bill, if he knows the reason.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the State to take over a section of the town road beginning at the limits of the Military Park, south of Gettysburg, on the American line. Part of this road has already been built by the Battlefield Commission. They desire to complete that line and want assurance that Pennsylvania will do something in the future to take care of this section. This road begins right below the Round Top and is on a direct line to Washington and is on a direct route to Frederick, Maryland. I would ask the members of this House to pass this bill. It is four miles long and it is of national interest and not local.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, how long will it be that the State will have to build

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, between four or five miles.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I dislike to oppose any gentleman's bill, particularly a bill of this character, but as you all know, the road question is a very serious one and all during this session I have put my best effort forward to try to take care of roads that are already on the system. There were plenty of roads throughout the State, little sections of roads, that were of importance and it was really necessary that they should be included in this general highway scheme. I have no real objection to this one particular road. However, it does not seem to me that it would be wise at this session to allow one single bill to go though that will create an entirely new highway. As a matter of sentiment the expressions of the gentleman who is the sponsor of this bill are exactly right; but it does seem to me that if this road is of so much importance, and we will agree that it is, that it might be proper for the National Government to take up the matter and relieve us of the embarrassment involved in this particular session. As you all ought to know, and I believe you do know, that there has been a little danger with regard to the system in its entirety as it now exists. If we open the door even to this little extent I greatly fear the result. I am only expressing my own sentiment in the matter and I regret exceedingly that I feel obliged to express any opposition to this bill, but, for my own part, I feel that it would not be wise to allow even a small road to be created at this time and not permit any of the other members to have roads of theirs taken care of. If I am wrong in this I am willing to be corrected, but it seems to me that this bill should be stricken off the calendar. Therefore, in order to bring this to a focus, I move that this bill be stricken off the calendar.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this bill appears to be on the calendar after the Roads Committee has given the thing very careful consideration. It is only four miles in length and the public will accordingly desire to see this piece of road constructed. It does seem to me that the House can well afford to pass this bill. Naturally, there have been some mistakes made in the State in this great road system. Now, the Public Roads Committee has O. K'd. this proposition and it is in a county that is not one of the richest counties in our State and I, therefore, feel that we can afford to say to this county that we can add these four miles.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill, in the first place, for the reason that the State does not have the money to build the roads that we already have, and I am opposed to it, in the second place, because I have a number of bills prepared to introduce to have new roads made, but the chairman of the Committee on Roads assured me that there will be no new roads reported out of the committee. For that reason I seconded the motion and that is why I am opposed to this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question?

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as fellows, viz:

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 649, entitled:

An Act defining public service companies; and providing for their regulation by prescribing and defining their duties and liabilities; prescribing, defining and limiting their powers, and regulating their incorporation; creating and establishing a public service bureau in the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania for the regulation thereof; prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such bureau and its officers including the exclusive power to regulate the construction alteration relocation or abolishment of the crossings of railroad corporations, street railway corporations, or other public service companies, and of public highways by the tracks or other facilities of said companies, providing for the ascertainment by the bureau of the expense and damages resulting from such construction, alteration, relocation, or abolishment and for the payment of such expense and damages severally or proportionately, by the public service companies interested, the State, or municipal corporation concerned, and giving persons whose property is thereby taken, injured, or destroyed, authority to sue the Commonwealth for damages in such cases; providing for the terms, salaries, and compensation of the members of the bureau, its officers, counsel, and employes; prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such bureau, and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders and determinations by the courts of common pleas; and giving the court of common pleas of Dauphin County exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals in certain cases, and of all injunctions, mandamus, or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the bureau, and to restrain such orders, subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court; prescribing penalties, fines, and imprisonment for the violation of the provisions of this act and for the violation of orders of said bureau; making it the duty of the Public Service Bureau to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes on railroads, by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains," by amending section nine thereof; repealing the act approved the twenty-sixth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, which provided for the creating and establishing of the Public Service Commission, and the act approved the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and seven, which provided for the appointment of the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission; and sections one and two of the act, approved the fourth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, entitled "An Act to enforce the provisions of the seventeenth article of the Constitution, relative to railroads and canals;" and an act entitled "To provide the maximum car service charges, including car storage charges, that railroad companies and coroporations or associations, may charge and collect on each car loading, and not unloaded within the free time for unloading cars, and fixing the free time that shall be allowed for unloading cars," approved the twenty-fourth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven; and the provise of clause three and the provisos of clause seven of section thirty-four of the act, entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and all other legislation inconsistent with or supplied by this act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title by striking out of the seventh line thereof, after the word "the" the word "exclusive."

Further amend the title by striking out after the word "of" in the twenty-fourth line thereof, the following: "Dauphin County exclusive" and insert in lieu thereof the following, "the proper county."

Further amend the title by striking out after the word "bureau" in the thirty-first line the following, "making it the duty of the Public Service Bureau to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employees on railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" by amending section nine thereof."

Further amend the title by striking out after the word "seven" in the fifty-third line the following, "and the proviso of clause three and the provisos of clause seven of section thirty-four of the act entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" approved the twenty-ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four."

Article 1

Amend Section 1, line 53, by striking out the word "Corportation" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Corporation"

Amend Section 1, line 72, by striking out the word "brdige" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "bridge"

Amend Section 1, line 83, by striking out the first word "or" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "of"

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. DELL offered the following motion which was twice read and considered.

Moved by Mr. Dell, seconded by Mr. Gingery, that the vote by which House Bill No. 758, File Folio 6621, entitled:

An Act authorizing boroughs towns and first class townships to form and to join associations for certain purposes and to appropriate moneys therefor was defeated on third reading and final passage on Wednesday, April 28th, be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

TIME EXTENDED ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1075.

Mr. GIBSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to extend for five days the time limit on House Bill No. 1075 (Senate Bill No. 288), File Folio 783, entitled:

An Act regulating the payment of certain deposits made with any bank trust company or savings institution in the name of two persons on page eight of to-day's calendar, Bills on Final Passage Postponed for the present.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER announced that the Chief Clerk having reported the following bills have passed both Houses of the General Assembly, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read, as follows:

House Bill No. 404.
